ELECTION BOARD 'FINDS' 118,000 UNLISTED VOTES

Courtney to Act on Bowler Charges.

Chicago's election warfare sprang into new activity yesterday when the search for missing vote registrations brought these developments:

1 Chairman A. J. McKay of the election board producec 118,000 vote registrations which he admitted had not yet been sorted or put on the printed lists.

2 McKay also discharged four election board employés who had been shown to have criminal records. These records were made public by Circuit Judge John Prystalski in his campaign for County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki's bench.

3 State's Attorney Courtney's plan to investigate Ald. James B. Bowler's charges of fraud in the 25th ward was pressed after Bowler refused to be questioned.

File Formal Complaints.

Michael L. Igoe, federal district attorney, who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator, and Judge Prystalski filed formal complaints of error in the registration lists, and there had been rumors that Igoe might go to the federal courts, if necessary, to obtain the coöperation of the Jarecki-McKay election staf in cutting off fraudulent registrations and in protecting from disfranchisement thousands whose names had not appeared on the printed vote lists.

Precinct captains of the regular Democratic organization, the group backing Igoe and Prystalski, had been poring over the election board's precinct lists and master file of registrants for twenty-four hours when Chairman McKay proposed to discontinue the investigation. It had shown that an average of 1,000 names to the ward had not been included on the lists. Eleven wards had been checked.

118,000 Missing Cards Revealed.

Igoe and Judge Prystalski hastened to McKay's office, and there McKay suddenly revealed the 118,000 registrations that had not yet been filed.

"You see," he said, "we have 118,000 unfiled registration cards. If the names you cannot find are not in the precinct binders or in the master file, perhaps they will be among the unfiled ones."

Igoe and Prystalski said they had been informed by their workers that there are at least 100,000 persons who intend to vote for them whose names are not yet on the printed lists of registered voters. They had wondered what the reason was. They said they were amazed when McKay explained that he had failed to file 118,000 names of voters three weeks after the close of registration on March 14.

Action to "Avoid Mixup."

"The cards were not filed in the precinct binders and master indices because we didn't want any mixups while we were pulling out names of those who didn't respond to suspect notices," McKay explained.

He added that the Igoe-Prystalski canvassers could keep at their task all night if they wished, but at 9 o'clock this morning the checking would be done against the unfiled 118,000 cards.

"The law requires the election board to print lists for each precinct," Judge Prystalski pointed out. "Those 118,000 names should have been on the printed lists. The failure to include those names has caused confusion and apprehension. We will insist on the completion of our check and we will want the lists of the 118,000 names which suddenly have been drawn out of thin air.

Inefficiency or Plot?

"This sudden appearance of 118,000 registrations is, to say the least, suspicious. It may be the result of inefficiency, but it also may be a political plot to hide those names from us until primary day.

"The purpose of printing the poll lists, precinct by precinct, is to afford all interested persons an opportunity to prevent fraud. How can registration lists be examined if the election authorities conceal 118,000 registrations until the last minute?

"We don't know now whether my opponent and his staf of election experts, who have had charge of elections for sixteen years, have any more concealed registrations. A few days ago they were talking about not being able to find hundreds of per-

FLAMES TRAP VICTIMS IN TOP FLOOR ROOMS

150 Forced to Flee Into Snowstorm.

Seven men perished of burns and suffocation early today when fire swept the upper stories of the Center hotel, a low rate lodging house at 1426 Madison street.

Two others were taken to the county hospital, where it was feared one would die.

One hundred and fifty persons, including four women, were driven out into a raging snowstorm from the Center and from the hotels on either side, the West End at 1418 Madison street, and the Venus, at 1438.

Halt Spread of Flames.

Smoke billowed through the West End and the Venus, and fire department officials said it was with difficulty the flames were prevented from spreading to them.

The fire spread so swiftly through the Center hotel that many of the sleeping men were trapped. Smoke blinded them and they became panic-stricken, unable to find their way to safety.

The identified dead:

HENRY BERNDT, 45.
EDWARD HAAS, 40.
THURA W. OLSON.

Frank Smialek, 43 years old, was taken to the county hospital, where physicians strove to save his life. He told Dr. Roger Vaughan that he awakened to find his room in flames and collapsed as he was trying to escape. Firemen carried Smialek downstairs.

Felix Doukus, 51 years old, was the other man taken to the hospital. His burns, while severe, were not expected to be fatal.

Fireman Is Injured.

Fireman R. E. Kahler, 35 years old, of Engine Company No. 14, was taken to St. Anthony's hospital suffering burns about the eyes.

Michael Corrigan, fire commissioner, took charge of the fire fighting forces concentrated on the scene by a 4-11 alarm. Braving the smoke and flames, firemen carried or led fifteen men trapped in the upper floors of the four story buildings to safety.

Policeman Hugh Gillespie of the Desplaines street station, a former Notre Dame university athlete, rescued three old men. One was John Simpson, 86 years old, who said he was a civil war veteran. Simpson and some of the others left homeless by the fire were housed at the police station.

Breaks Out on Fourth Floor.

The fire broke out on the fourth floor of the Center hotel and spread quickly to the floors below. A large crowd gathered in a few minutes to watch the firemen battle the flames, which caused property damage estimated at $15,000. The fire halted all trafic on Madison street.

Michael Cody, marshal of the first fire division, said there were no fire walls in the Center hotel.

The hotels rented rooms from 30 cents to $1 a day. They occupied the second, third, and fourth stories. A tavern, some furniture stores, and a barber shop occupied the first floor. All these were damaged by smoke and water.

Watchman Discovers Fire.

The fire was discovered by Joseph Monahan of 334 South Hamlin avenue, a watchman for the Pinkerton service, who turned in the alarm.

The firemen were handicapped by the snowstorm and high winds. The storm began before midnight and quickly spread a blanket of white over the city. The temperature fell to the freezing point. Country roads were reported in hazardous condition.

JOE PACKS TRUNK AND LANDLADY LEAVES—FOR JAIL

Without ever counting his hoard to see that everything was O. K., Joseph Moucinlo put part of his pay in his trunk month after month in his room at 744 South Halsted street.

By his figures there should have been $2,500 in the trunk when he went home Sunday night. But the trunk had been broken open and there wasn't a dime. Sergt Albert Woodrich of the Maxwell street police arrested John De Lacruz, who said he had been hired by the landlady, Mrs. Vera Gimenez, to ransack the rooming house. Woodrich said she confessed, too.

Shortly afterward $680 of the money mysteriously appeared in the owner's pocket, but Mrs. Gimenez and De Lacruz were locked up during the search for the rest.

Tax Relief Measure Goes to Senate

Tax Harassed N. Y. Proposes Public Lottery

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 5.—[Special.]—In a bellicose mood over the new nuisance tax program laid down by Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia, the city council today adopted a resolution paving the way toward the operation of a municipal lottery as a means of raising funds for relief.

The resolution, which was passed after an acrimonious debate, demanded that the state constitutional convention meeting in Albany should explore the whole question with the end in view of amending the constitution to sanction lotteries. Receipts from the scheme would be used to meet relief costs and the expenses of city hospitals.

New Taxes Passed.

While the lottery proposal was hailed by its sponsors as the answer to a politician's dream, the council proceeded to pass the mayor's new taxes designed to bring in a total of $9,250,000. The measures included increased taxes on cigarets [a penny a pack], meals costing more than $1, bar liquor, utilities, gross business income and conduit companies. Action on assessing the income of banks was deferred for a week.

The mayor and the board of estimate, meeting in another part of the city hall, rescinded a general 10 per cent cut in relief allowances when the tax measures finally were enacted. This was the cut that council members charged was a club to compel passage of the taxes.

Cites Foreign Drain.

Councilman Joseph T. Sharkey, Brooklyn Democrat and author of the lottery proposition, urged its adoption on the grounds that each year millions of dollars flow from this country for foreign lotteries, sweepstakes, and games of chance.

Councilman B. Charney Vladek, leader of the Labor party faction, contended that the idea was preposterous, and that lotteries were no longer held in any civilized country in the world. There were whoops of protest from Irish council members.

"With the exception of Ireland," Vladek hastily corrected himself.

"The Irish sweepstakes bring in 186 million dollars a year," asserted Robert K. Strauss, Manhattan fusion party member. "We need a painless tax here in New York and a lottery would collect millions of dollars now being paid illegally for policy or numbers game tickets."

FINGER PRINTS SHOW FIVE U. S. MARSHALS HAVE CRIME RECORDS

Washington, D. C., April 5.—[Special.]—Finger printing of federal marshals and their deputies throughout the United States has disclosed to the department of justice that five of the 250 to 300 officers have criminal, or at least dubious records, it was learned today.

As a result one of them has been asked to resign while an investigation is being made into the history of the others.

Efforts to ascertain the identity of those affected were futile, officials declining details.

H. HOOVER LOSES HIS TICKETS JUST LIKE ANY FELLOW

Former President Hoover got within twenty feet of the gate at the North Western station last night. Then he stopped, disconcerted, and began searching his pockets for the tickets. He couldn't find 'em.

He handed a bundle of papers to his host, Arch. Shaw of Winnetka, and searched again. No luck. Mr. Shaw suggested they might have been left in his car and started away to see.

Then, in a third search, Mr. Hoover found the tickets in the little pocket inside the other one at the side of his jacket, where he had put them so he could find them in a hurry. He ran to the stairway and whistled to Mr. Shaw.

Mr. Shaw returned. Mr. Hoover and his party moved decorously into the train shed, and the Californian boarded the City of San Francisco for home.

$55,000 in Lake Forest Is Just a Laugh to Taxpayers

Taxpayers didn't bat an eye yesterday when the Lake Forest council advertised for bids on $55,000 worth of water main improvements. Reason: Mayor Kent Chandler said there wouldn't be any assessment to pay the bill because the water works fund has a $100,000 surplus.

Sultan's Gift to Roosevelt Is Gold Handled Saber

Washington, D. C., April 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt displayed on his desk today a gift from the sultan of Muscat and Oman, a gold handled saber known as a yataghan.

Premier Names New Cabinet to Save Barcelona

HENDAYE, France [At the Spanish Frontier], April 5.—(AP)—A "suicide squad" of government militiamen was reported holding the otherwise deserted city of Tortosa tonight, determined to fight to the last to prevent Spanish rebel armies from actually reaching the Mediterranean.

Heavy guns of Rebel Gen. Garcia Valino's columns, however, already had brought the city and the coastal road to Valencia under fire. Thus Catalonia, Spain's northeastern corner, was cut off from the rest of government territory.

Indalecio Prieto Out.

In Barcelona, seat of the loyalist government, Premier Juan Negrin tonight formed a new cabinet. The vital post of war minister was taken over by the premier himself. He replaced Indalecio Prieto, who had been war minister since the Negrin government was organized May 17, 1937.

The bulk of the new cabinet members are Socialists, the political complexion of the cabinet being more moderate than its predecessor. Only one communist [Vicente Uribe, agriculture] was included instead of the two in the previous government. The two largest labor organizations [the U. G. T. and C. N. T.] were represented for the first time since Francisco Largo Caballero's government fell.

Julio Alvarez del Vayo, after being out of the government for many months, was returned to his former post as minister of foreign affairs.

Power Supply Cut Off.

The government reorganization came as the presidential palace, government buildings, and many other structures in central Barcelona were thrown into darkness by an unexplained failure of electric power. Street lights blazed in some sections, while government buildings were lighted by candles. Street cars were stalled, but subways and telephone systems continued to operate.

Lights reappeared and trolleys resumed service about 10 p. m. Service had been off since 3 p. m. Water also flowed from taps again.

Rebel officers near the French frontier at Irun declared their forces near Lerida had captured power plants which served Barcelona and much of Catalonia.

In that sector the rebels were

HOPE GIVEN TO BUSINESS; CHEER DICTATOR ATTACK

Irish Congressman Tells What Folks Back Home Want.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 5.—[Special.]—The tide of conflict in the house over the government reorganization bill was shifting furiously back and forth today when Mike Stack of Philadelphia strode down the aile and faced the members.

A twenty minute speech ensued which may well become a classic of the Congressional Record. By at least one nervous administration leader it was termed a far more damaging attack on the bill than many of the efforts of skilled rhetoricians.

For Representative Michael J. Stack of the 6th Pennsylvania district told his fellow Democrats in words of one syllable that they were courting defeat in November if they voted for the measure which has become popularly known as the dictator bill.

Gets Roar of Applause.

Stack told them in a rich Irish brogue that on the basis of sheer political expediency the Democratic party should help defeat the bill if it wants to survive. A roar of applause when he was through showed that the battle over the measure was by no means determined despite the concessions, some of doubtful value, granted by Roosevelt leaders.

If members of the house should select one of their number as the typical Democratic congressman from a city district, Mike Stack might well be their choice. Stack is sensitive to the wishes of his constituents. And he told the house emphatically that his constituents want the government reorganization plan put to death.

Loyal Roosevelt Supporter.

Until recently this rank and file Democrat was an unquestioning supporter of the President. One of the great majority swept into congress in the landslide of 1934, he voted with the President because the people who put him in office thought the President could do no wrong.

But on the reorganization bill those same people are fearful of the power to be given the President, Stack declared. They want nothing that smacks of dictatorship.

"I think my district is typical of many districts in the United States," Stack began. "It has about 300,000 people in it. It contains Jew and Gentile, white and black, Catholic and Protestant. It is as good a yardstick as any district in the country for proving that the opposition to this bill comes from representative Americans."

The tall, middle aged Irishman spoke as though he were talking to Democratic Leaders Reject Roosevelt Punitive Levies.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 5.—[Special.]—The senate tomorrow will begin consideration of the finance committee's tax relief measure. The bill is described by the committee's report, filed today by Chairman Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], as an effort to stimulate and encourage business activity and permit a free flow of private capital into productive enterprise.

The bill was ordered reported without a record vote, but only "ayes" were audible when Senator Harrison put the motion to the twenty-one members of the finance committee. Immediately after submitting the report to the senate, Chairman Harrison obtained unanimous consent to make the tax bill the unfinished business at 10 o'clock tomorrow. The plan is to pass it this week.

Condemns Punitive Taxes.

The committee's report condemns the punitive tax innovations of the Roosevelt administration, particularly the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes, as being responsible for the present stagnation in the capital markets and in productive enterprise.

As to the tax on undistributed corporate profits, proposed in 1933 by Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell and espoused in 1936 by President Roosevelt, the report states:

"The committee believes that the principle of the undistributed profits tax should be entirely abandoned and that the plan of taxing corporations at a flat rate should be adopted."

As to the capital gains and losses tax provisions of the present law the report states:

"The effect of the present system of taxing capital gains is to prevent any individual with substantial capital from investing in new enterprises. This is most unfortunate, because it adversely affects the employment situation."

Urges More Encouragement.

The report commends the stated objectives of the bill passed by the house, but states that it does not go far enough in the direction of business encouragement.

"Under present conditions it seems of the utmost importance," the report says, "to bring about greater business activity and a freer flow of capital into productive enterprises. If this can be done the number of unemployed will rapidly decrease.

"High rates of income tax are ineffective in producing revenue when there is very little income to tax. If business goes ahead under the provisions of the bill as reported, then there will result more taxable net income, with a consequent increase in the revenue.

Efforts to Free Capital.

"In making its recommendations, the committee has also given special attention to changes which will simplify the law and increase its certainty. This, also, is important to business. Finally, every effort has been made to adopt measures which will free frozen capital.

"Under business conditions, such as are estimated for the calendar year 1938, the bill as reported will produce about 20 million dollars in revenue more than the house bill, if it is assumed that all the changes proposed have come into full operation. But this estimate leaves out of account any added revenue which your committee is certain will result from increased business activity."

Although four administration supporters voted against abolition of the undistributed profits tax principle when the committee took that action, no minority report was filed. Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic floor leader, who was one of those four senators, has announced that he would support the bill.

Expert Analysis of Bill.

The committee report contains an expert analysis of the 371 page tax revision bill. Taking up first the subject of corporation taxes, it explains that under existing law there is a so-called normal tax graduated from 8 to 15 per cent on corporation incomes and on top of this a graduated super tax ranging from 7 to 27 per cent on the undistributed profits.

It explains that the house bill provides a flat rate of 16 per cent for corporations with incomes in excess of $25,000 and in addition imposes a 4 per cent surtax on undistributed earnings. While retaining the principle of the undistributed earnings tax, the house bill reduces the total maximum effective rate on corporate income from 32.4 per cent to 20 per cent, according to the report.

Report Gives Table.

The report gives the following table for comparison between the taxes imposed by the house bill and the flat 18 per cent rate of the senate bill on larger corporations. While the net income used in the table is $100,000, the percentage of increase or decrease in tax would be the same for all larger corporations, whether their income was $200,000, $500,000, or $1,000,000.

100,000	10,000	19,600	18,000	— 8.2
100,000	20,000	19,200	18,000	— 6.2
100,000	30,000	18,800	18,000	— 4.3
100,000	40,000	18,400	18,000	— 2.2
100,000	50,000	18,000	18,000	...
100,000	60,000	17,600	18,000	+ 2.5
100,000	70,000	17,200	18,000	+ 4.7
100,000	83,333	16,667	18,000	+ 8.0
100,000	90,000	16,400	18,000	+ 9.8
100,000	100,000	16,000	18,000	+12.5

"Several points should be observed from the figures given in table I," the report says.

"First, a corporation which finds itself unable to distribute more than 50 per cent of its net income obtains considerable relief under the committee proposal, this relief amounting to a tax reduction of as much as 10 per cent.

"Second, a corporation which is able to distribute more than 50 per cent of its net income but not more than its net income after providing for its tax, pays more under the committee proposal, the increase in tax amounting to as much as 8 per cent.

Discusses Liquid Surplus.

"Finally, a corporation with a liquid surplus is benefited by the house bill, since it can pay its tax out of past accumulations of earnings. In this case the committee proposal increases the tax by as much as 12½ per cent. This result your committee considers equitable, for in the long run dividends declared must not be greater than the net income, less tax."

The report explains that both the house bill and the committee bill gives special relief to corporations with incomes of less than $25,000. The house bill removes such corporations from the undistributed profits tax principle and subjects them to a graduated tax of 12½ per cent on the first $5,000, 14 per cent on the next $15,000 and 16 per cent on the next $5,000.

The senate committee bill permits a credit of 10 per cent of the difference between the actual net income and $25,000, the credit to be deducted from the actual net income and the remainder to be taxed at the flat 18 per cent rate.

Many Small Corporations.

In 1936 there were approximately 193,219 corporations filing income tax returns, of which number 130,607 had net incomes of $5,000 or less, 19,736 had net incomes of $5,000 to $10,000, 9,968 had net incomes of $10,000 to $15,000, 5,772 had net incomes of $15,000 to $20,000, 3,956 had net incomes of $20,000 to $25,000, and 23,180 had net incomes in excess of $25,000.

"It can be seen from the accompanying table," the report says, "that more than 130,607 corporations filing taxable returns in 1936, out of an approximate total of 193,219, will receive more relief under the committee's proposal than under the house bill. The corporations with net incomes of less than $6,500 will be substantially benefited and the corporations with net incomes of $6,500 or more will pay a somewhat greater tax. If the size of the corporate net income is a test of ability to pay, then the committee's proposal appears the more reasonable."

The report explains that the house bill provides a special rate, a flat 16 per cent, for banks, insurance companies, joint stock land banks, rental housing corporations, foreign corporations, mutual investment corporations, and corporations in bankruptcy or receivership, while these distinctions are done away with by the senate bill and all corporations taxed at a uniform rate of 18 per cent with special relief for those earning less than $25,000.

Capital Gains and Losses.

The report discusses the controversial capital gains and losses tax as follows:

"The house bill makes several changes with respect to the treatment of capital gains and losses. Under existing law, the amount of gain or loss taken into account in computing net income depends upon the length of time the asset has been held by the taxpayer.

"If the asset has been held for 1 year or less, 100 per cent of the gain or loss is taken into account; if the asset has been held for more than 1 year but not more than 2 years, 80 per cent of the gain or loss is taken into account; if the asset has been held for more than 2 years but not more than 5 years, 60 per cent is taken into account; if the asset has been held for more than 5 years but not more than 10 years, 40 per cent is taken into account; and if the asset has been held more than 10 years, 30 per cent of the gain or loss is taken into account.

"However, if the losses taken into account exceed the gains, such excess of losses can be charged against net income only to the extent of $2,000.

Improvement Over Present.

"The house bill, while retaining the principle of reducing the amount of gain or loss takes into account according to the length of time for which the asset has been held, makes substantial improvements in the existing law.

"First, capital gains and losses are divided into two categories by the house bill—short-term capital gains and losses and long-term capital gains and losses. Short-term losses can only be charged against short-term gains, and, likewise, long-term losses can only be charged against long-term gains. A carryover for one year is provided for in case the losses in either category exceed the gains in such category. A short-term gain or loss arises from the sale of an asset held for 1 year or less, and a long-term gain or loss from the sale of an asset held over 1 year.

"Second, the house bill provides for a new schedule of percentage brackets which reduces the amount of long-term gain or loss taken into account, monthly, from 100 per cent in the case of an asset held more than 1 year and not more than 13 months, to 40 per cent in the case of an asset held more than 5 years. It is to be observed that the 30 per cent bracket of existing law is eliminated.

Calls House Bill Too Complicated.

"Finally, the house bill provides that, in the case of a long term capital net gain, in no case shall the tax on the net gain taken into account exceed 40 per cent of such gain. Thus, if an asset has been held more than five years, 40 per cent of the gain is taken into account, on which amount the tax may not exceed 40 per cent. Therefore in such a case the tax on the actual gain is 16 per cent.

"While it may be recognized that the house provision is a considerable improvement over existing law, the committee believes that the plan proposed in the house bill is excessively complicated and will not permit of a free flow of capital into productive enterprises. The committee is convinced that at the present time transactions are prevented by the capital gains tax and that the result has been a material hindrance to business and a considerable loss of revenue.

Essential Difference in Income.

"There is an essential difference between income derived from salaries, wages, interest, and rents and income derived from capital gains. It is always to the advantage of the taxpayer to receive the first class of income, no matter what the rate of tax, as long as it is less than 100 per cent. On the other hand, the tax in respect to capital gains is optional—the taxpayer is not obliged to pay any tax unless he realizes a gain by the sale of the asset.

"There is no tax under existing law if a taxpayer transfers his money from one bank to another, but there may be a very heavy tax if he wishes to transfer his investment from a bond in one company to a bond in another company. Thus an excessive tax on capital gains freezes transactions and prevents the free flow of capital into productive investments.

Committee Plan Described.

"The proposal made by your committee may be briefly described as follows:

"First, short-term capital gains and losses are defined as those arising from the sale of assets held for 18 months or less. Short-term capital losses can only be charged off against short-term capital gains, but if such short-term capital losses exceed the gains, the excess may be carried forward for one year and applied against the short-term capital gains of such year.

"Second, long-term capital gains and losses are defined as those arising from the sale of assets held for more than 18 months. A net long-term capital gain is taxable at a rate not in excess of 15 per cent. In order to give consistent relief to taxpayers in the lower income brackets it is also proposed that, if the tax is less, the taxpayer may include in his income only one-half of the net long-term capital gain.

"If there is a net long-term capital loss, the taxpayer is not allowed to receive a reduction in tax of more than 15 per cent of such net loss nor is he allowed to pay a lesser tax than would have been payable if he had deducted only one-half of his capital net loss from his ordinary income. Thus, the deduction for losses is made consistent with the taxation in the case of gains.

Similar to Previous Method.

"The above plan is simple and practically identical with the system of taxing capital gains and allowing credit for capital losses which was in force from 1924 to 1932, the principal exception is in respect to net short term losses. These cannot be charged against ordinary income but must be carried forward one year against the short-term gains of such subsequent year."

With respect to estate and gift taxes, the committee bill restores the provisions of existing law. The 1926 act, as amended, permits an exemption of $100,000 on estates and graduates the rates up to 20 per cent. The 1932 act, as amended, permits an exemption of $40,000 [in addition to exempting gifts of $5,000 or less] and graduates the rates up to 70 per cent. The amount due under the 1926 act is deducted from the tax under the 1932 act, and there is a credit for death duties paid to the states of 80 per cent of the federal tax under the 1926 act.

CHICAGO REALTY TAX BILLS TO BE 8% LESS FOR '37

First Rate Reduction in Four Years.

The 1937 Chicago real estate tax bills, which are scheduled to be sent out by May 1, will be 8.2 per cent less on the average than those for 1936, it was learned yesterday with announcement of the 1937 tax rate. It will be the first time in four years that real estate bills have been smaller than those of the previous year.

The Chicago rate for 1937 is $8.73 per $100 of assessed valuation, County Clerk Michael J. Flynn announced. The 1936 rate was $9.52. Rates for townships in Cook county outside Chicago will be announced later this week, Flynn said.

How Home Owners Benefit.

The following is given as an example to show how the lower rate will benefit a small home owner:

A house with a fair value of $3,000 was given an assessed valuation of $1,110. The 1936 rate of $9.52 per $100 of assessed value brought a tax bill of $105.67. Assuming the assessed valuation is unchanged, the $8.73 rate for 1937 will make the tax this year $96.90, a decrease of $8.77, or more than 8 per cent. Most 1937 assessed valuations are the same as those for 1936, as 1937 was not a quadrennial assessment year.

The Tribune ten days ago in a preliminary computation of 1937 taxes forecast an 8 per cent drop in realty tax bills with a tax rate around $8.70.

The smaller 1937 tax rate is due to two factors—a decrease of more than $5,000,000 in the tax levies to be billed for the Chicago governments and an increase of $117,000,000 in the total assessed valuation of real and personal property in the city.

Following is the amount of taxes to be extended within the city for each of the governments for 1937 compared with 1936:

Schools	62,634,087	66,144,189
Park district	18,873,185	20,547,751
Sanitary district	13,273,449	13,307,115
County	11,614,268	12,328,651
Forest preserve	2,075,976	1,761,256
Total	$181,058,139	$186,299,629

	1937.	1936.
City	$3.50	$3.69
Schools	3.02	3.38
Park district	.91	1.05
Sanitary district	.64	.68
County	.56	.63
Forest preserve	.10	.09
Total	$8.73	$9.52

Official assessed valuations for the city and county were announced as follows:

CITY OF CHICAGO.

Personal prop	603,535,576	473,682,656
Railroad	98,938,811	104,001,612

COOK COUNTY.

Personal prop	692,498,015	534,066,318
Railroad	132,149,036	138,966,385

Bigger Bill for Personalty.

The increase in assessed valuations, which was entirely in personal property, worked to the advantage of real estate owners. Real estate will be billed for approximately 66 per cent of the total taxes, compared with 71 per cent in 1936. Personal property will bear 29 per cent of the total, against 24 per cent a year ago. Railroads again will be billed for about 5 per cent.

The rise in personalty valuations resulted chiefly from the addition of securities owned by individuals and corporations to the assessment rolls.

The 1937 assessed valuation for the sanitary district, which levies in all of the city and part of the county outside the city, was announced as $2,457,233,444.

BOOKIE QUIZZED IN SLAYING OF PHONE WORKER

Divers to Search River for Death Gun.

Police prepared last night to send a diver into the river at the Cortland street bridge to search for the gun with which Joseph V. Berger was mysteriously shot to death Monday night in a racing handbook establishment at 3455 North Clark street.

The search for the gun was ordered at the end of a day of developments that added to the mystery.

Although he insisted that Berger was killed by the accidental discharge of a revolver he had knocked from a shelf to the floor, John Kowal, one of the owners of the handbook, was still held. Kowal, a lifelong friend of Berger, told police that he threw the weapon into the river after the shooting. Kowal's partner, Jack Oden, was also being questioned.

Berger Refuses to Talk.

Investigation disclosed that Berger, a telephone company service man, was installing a loud speaker in the handbook in defiance of company orders. It was disclosed also by Morris G. Meyers, assistant state's attorney, that Berger said in reply to questions as he was being taken to the Swedish Covenant hospital:

"Never mind that. Tend to your business."

It was revealed also that Kowal's wife, Genevieve, had appeared a few hours before the shooting in Judge John J. Lupe's court to ask a divorce, and that the judge had told her lawyer to prepare a divorce decree. Yet Mrs. Kowal was in the handbook when Berger was shot. Police said she explained that she had gone there to ask her husband if he wanted her to get the divorce.

Kowal Has Prison Record.

Police records showed that a coroner's jury had recommended that Kowal be held on a murder charge in 1932. Under an alias, the records showed, he served 60 days for larceny in 1933. In 1934, he was acquitted of two charges of robbery.

Berger, 30 years old, was married and the father of two children. He lived at 3419 Berteau avenue. The coroner's inquest was continued yesterday that police might investigate further.

SNOW SPREADS OVER CHICAGO FROM THE WEST

Snow that came in from the west rapidly was blanketing Chicago last night, and there was no relief in sight from the unusual wintry tendencies of April's first five days, according to Forecaster J. R. Lloyd. He predicted the clouds would remain throughout today, with cold rains continuing until tomorrow morning. Yesterday's highest temperature was 38, which was 11 degrees lower than the 49 normal for the date. The mercury was expected to stay at the same or lower levels today, and Forecaster Lloyd was unable to predict just when it will end.

IOWAN PLUNGES FROM 12TH FLOOR OF HOTEL; KILLED

Isidore Olanosky, a Jewish leader in Dubuque, Ia., leaped or fell to his death from his twelfth story room at the Hotel Sherman last night shortly after he had entertained a young woman at a lobster dinner. Police began a search for the young woman, who had left the room when Olanosky was found.

Olanosky, who was 35 years old, was president of the Dubuque B'nai Brith and past exalted ruler of the Dubuque Elks. Friends at Dubuque said he had come here Sunday to attend a Jewish meeting. In his room was found a copy of a telegram he had sent Cordell Hull, secretary of state, expressing the Dubuque B'nai Brith's approval of the secretary's position regarding refugees from political oppression abroad.

Olanosky, a bachelor, was in the dry goods business at Dubuque, according to Francis Donohue and Ollie Karwoski of the coroner's office and Detective Charles Lindstrom.

WIFE DIVORCES PROF. BOBBITT ON CRUELTY CHARGE

Judge Thomas J. Lynch yesterday granted Mrs. Sarah Annis Bobbitt a divorce from Prof. Franklin J. Bobbitt of the department of educational administration of the University of Chicago. Mrs. Bobbitt, who is 59 years old, charged that her husband, who is 61, had been guilty of numerous acts of cruelty since 1914. Her cousin, Miss Mary Dean, who lives at 4659 Drexel boulevard, testified that on two occasions she had seen the professor strike his wife without provocation and knock her down. The Bobbitts, who were married in 1902, reached an out of court property settlement. Mrs. Bobbitt lives at 5723 Kenwood avenue.

7 ON COMMITTEE DEFEND SCHOOL PRINCIPAL TESTS

Deny Favoritism Charges Made by Zmrhal.

Seven of the ten committee members who conducted oral examinations last year to select principals for the Chicago schools issued a joint statement last night declaring: "We believed then and we believe now that the method used was the best available for determining character and general fitness of the candidate after scholastic fitness had been determined."

This was in reply to charges made recently by Jaroslav J. Zmrhal, another member of the committee, that favorites of William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, were qualified for principalships while his enemies were not.

Established Precedent Is Followed.

The seven committee members said they followed the precedent of previous examinations, and that in the final vote the entire committee, including Zmrhal, was unanimous in recommending the eligibility of the 155 candidates. The seven members also stated that to their knowledge no candidate passed by the committee was omitted from the eligible list, and that no one rejected by the committee was placed on the list.

Zmrhal made his accusations in an affidavit notarized on March 14, asserting the examinations were fixed to insure the success of Supt. Johnson's friends and the failure of his foes. Dr. Johnson and James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, have laid these statements to factional political strife preceding the April 12 primary and to lawsuits brought by teachers who failed to pass the tests.

Court Action Expected.

Committee members who signed the statement last night are George F. Cassell, Minnie E. Fallon, John W. Bell, Nellie C. Hudd, Harry Keeler, Mary I. Reynolds, and Lillian M. Tobin, all assistant or district school superintendents. They said they had refrained from making any previous comment because they expected the controversy to be settled in the courts. The statement continued:

"However, since one of the committee members [Zmrhal] has seen fit to make a statement outside of court and others not on the committee have construed or pretended to construe our silence as confirmatory of such statement, we have come to the conclusion that we no longer should remain silent. We deem it our duty to present the facts to the public in justice to the superintendent, to those who passed the examinations, and to ourselves. . . .

"All the candidates we examined had qualified for such test [oral examination] by passing the written examination and satisfying requirements for evaluation of their records.

Training Is Set Forth.

"Each of us has held various positions in the school system during the many years of our service—as teachers, principals, district and assistant superintendents. We therefore feel that we have had training necessary to enable us to judge whether the candidates had necessary qualifications in character and general fitness to become administrative heads.

"The superintendent informed us there were many unfilled positions of principal; that since principals' certificates were good for only six years it would be advisable to establish an eligible list of about 150. So our task was to select from the 392 who passed the other tests, those best fitted for the position of principal.

Qualities Enumerated.

"Following the precedent . . . in previous examinations, we proceeded to select from those appearing before us the required number who in our opinion were best qualified to occupy the position of principal. We took into consideration among other qualities the candidate's executive ability, tact, command of the English language, power of expression, loyalty to the school administration, ability to deal with teachers, pupils, and parents; appearance, aptitude, and personality. The committee further decided unanimously that those found possessed of such necessary qualifications should be graded as passed; those who did not should be graded as failed. . . .

"The computations then were made pursuant to the committee findings, and every member thereof acquiesced in same and signed the official report establishing such grades and fixing such marks. This is the same practice which heretofore has been followed in all personal oral examinations. During the examination the committee members expressed themselves freely as to the character, general fitness, and qualifications of the candidates. . . .

Each Voted on Individually.

"After each candidate was interviewed and examined the committee voted to decide whether he failed or passed. . . . There were times when the vote was not unanimous because of differences of opinion, but the majority decision passed or failed the candidates. But in the final consideration of the candidates, as embodied in the final official report, the committee action was unanimous and the report was signed by all the members thereof.

"More than a year has passed since the final list was established and published.

"Up to the present time our attention has been called to no candidate who was graduated as passed by the committee who was omitted from the eligible list and to no one who was placed on the eligible list who was failed by the committee."

Previous Actions Explained.

The three committee members who did not sign the statement are Zmrhal, Daniel J. Beeby, and James E. McDade. Beeby and McDade are retired superintendents; Zmrhal has been a superintendent since 1921.

In another statement Henry S. Crane, secretary of the board of examiners, gave the history of previous examinations for principalships. He explained that the examination was divided into two parts, written and nonwritten, each counting equally. The written examination was prepared after conferences with university educators and the papers were marked by sixty-five professors and instructors from universities.

Master in Chancery James P. Harrold of the Circuit court issued subpenas yesterday for Supt. Johnson and Zmrhal and Miss Fallon and Cassell, three of the examiners, to appear tomorrow as witnesses in the mandamus suit of Lemuel E. Minnis, a high school teacher, who is seeking to compel the board of education to certify him as a principal. The oral board did not pass him.

CORNER ON PENNIES SET UP BY STUDENTS IN PROTEST ON TAX

Troy, N. Y., April 5.—(AP)—Troy's penny famine was ended tonight as Rensselaer Polytechnic institute students, after collecting most of the city's supply of cents, about 250,000 of them, began returning them to circulation in protest against hidden taxes.

Armed with pennies obtained from a campus coin exchange, the students sallied forth pledged to use them to pay one-fourth of the cost of every purchase—which campus leaders said represents the amount of concealed taxes involved in the manufacture and sale of any commodity.

First to buy a supply of the cents was Dr. William Otis Hitchkiss, R. P. I. president, who said it was laudable for the students to be tax conscious.

TALK OF BATTLE STIRS SENATORS TO PRIVATE WAR

Copeland and McKellar Are Separated.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 5.—[Special.]—Senate debate over such warlike instruments as semi-automatic rifles, anti-tank, anti-aircraft and long range coast defense guns reached such a belligerent state today that only the intervention of neutrals prevented a battle.

Senator Kenneth D. McKellar [D., Tenn.] was escorted from the senate chamber when he made a rush at Senator Royal S. Copeland [D., N. Y.] brandishing a fist and sputtering street brawl epithets that seldom have been utttered aloud on the senate floor.

McKellar Taken Out.

Half a dozen senators rushed between them and Senator Bennett Clark [D., Mo.], a colonel in the world war, dragged the raging McKellar out of the chamber.

As a result of the disturbance, passage of the $490,981,813 war department appropriation bill was deferred until tomorrow. The controversy and near fist fight grew out of the appropriation committee's action in adding $15,806,225 for ordnance and supplies, including 167 anti-aircraft guns, and $16,790,747 for seacoast defenses.

McKellar, a member of the appropriations committee, denounced increases for seacoast defenses and for anti-aircraft guns, arguing that Gen. Malin Craig, army chief of staf, has called the appropriations in the house bill adequate.

Merely Satisfactory.

Senator Copeland, chairman of the subcommittee which handled the war department bill, said Gen. Craig merely called the house bill satisfactory in view of the limitations of the budget. He accused members of the committee who opposed the increase of maligning him.

"No self-respecting senator would take the criticism that has been heaped upon me," he declared.

When McKellar started to read excerpts from Gen. Craig's testimony, saying that every one knew he spoke the truth, Copeland interrupted: "I am glad the senator says that Gen. Craig tells the truth. . . . It may be that some others tell the truth, too."

Reflection on Veracity.

McKellar construed this as a reflection on his veracity and began hurling off-the-record but plainly audible imprecations. "I will tell the senator what I think of him," McKellar said on the record. "His statements are absolutely false."

Senator Copeland called for the record to see what he had said, but McKellar continued raging: "The senator made a statement a moment ago that I denounce as false, and the senator can say just what he pleases."

Senator Lister Hill [D., Ala.], who was in the chair, ordered all senators to take their seats and the senate was recessed. Then McKellar made his lunge toward Copeland.

FORD COMPANY ASKS REHEARING ON NLRB ORDER

Covington, Ky., April 5.—[Special.]—The Ford Motor company of Detroit asked the Sixth United States Circuit Court of Appeals here today to set aside an order of the National Labor Relations board for compliance with provisions of the Wagner labor act.

The labor board, on Jan. 6, filed a request for a court order to compel the company to reinstate 29 employés discharged for asserted union activity and otherwise abide by a ruling handed down the day after the firm was denied a rehearing.

The Ford petition, accompanied by voluminous exhibits, reviewed the national labor scene between November, 1936, and June, 1937, and recalled overt acts of the C. I. O. in Michigan.

The Ford company also desires to offer testimony excluded by the examiner and to add additional testimony that was not available at time of hearings. The company's petition charges that the NLRB acted arbitrarily and abused its discretion in suppressing evidence the company attempted to offer.

CONFESS SLAYING TWO; QUIZ PAIR ON OTHER DEATHS

Yesterday, after long questioning by Capt. Eugene Barry, the two admitted slaying James Vessell at 3902 Indiana avenue in a robbery at the rear of 4517 St. Lawrence avenue on Dec 16 They blamed each other for the murder of Anna Coffee, 4736 Prairie avenue, who was shot last Jan. 4.

PRESIDENT COLD TO SUBSIDY PLEA FROM RAILWAYS

Favors Finding Another Solution.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 5.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt poured cold water today on the proposal of a government subsidy for the railroads which was laid before him yesterday by representatives of the carriers and the railroad labor organizations.

In response to questions at his press conference Mr. Roosevelt, while not closing the door definitly to the proposition, outlined what he pronounced serious objections to the scheme.

If the transportation problem were solved, if congress had taken action, it would be possible to determine whether the grant of a subsidy in any form would be warranted. In the absence of a national policy, however, it is difficult to dispose of the subsidy question one way or the other.

Will Present His Solution.

The first step toward the evolution of a new solution of the transportation problem will be taken when the President sends to congress about next Tuesday, he indicated, a special message recommending legislation for the rehabilitation of the railroads. He will transmit at the same time the report of the Splawn committee submitting proposals for immediate relief and long range rehabilitation.

One of the objections Mr. Roosevelt raised to a government subsidy to the railroads, which it is estimated would range from 300 to 500 million dollars a year, is that once begun it would be difficult to stop.

Cites History of Trolleys.

The present plight of the railroads put the President in mind of trolley cars. About the turn of the century trolleys were flourishing. They employed tens of thousands of persons and expended hundreds of millions of dollars on equipment. Then they started to go down hill. There was a procession of trolley lines into the bankruptcy court and the result was extremely serious for labor and industry.

Probably the trolleys could have been saved if the government had guaranteed their earnings, Mr. Roosevelt suggested, as is now being proposed in the case of the railroads. But once subsidized the trolleys would be still subsidized. It would be the same if the railroads were subsidized, he suggested.

Considers Other Industries.

Then there is the consideration, the President added, that if the railroads were to be subsidized many other industries would come clamoring to Washington for the same sort of financial assistance. The textile industry, the steel industry and many others would contend that they were as much entitled to subsidies as the railroads. The upshot would be government subsidies for private capital generally.

Asked whether wartime government operation of the railroads had furnished a fair test of government intervention in transportation management, the President gave a yes and no answer. Many things were done and much money was spent to expedite transportation for military purposes that would not be done in time of peace. On the other hand there were many economies achieved as in the pooling of freight cars and the consolidation of ticket offices which many railroad authorities think might well be revived today.

Advised to Go Slowly.

The President, it develops, has been receiving a lot of advice to go slowly in dealing with the crisis in the affairs of the railroads. Vice President Garner, who conferred with Mr. Roosevelt yesterday, even went so far as to suggest it would be a mistake to send the contemplated special message to congress. Mr. Garner thought the railroads would emerge from their present troubles if they resolutely entered upon a reducing diet in the matter of expenses.

"Let the calf fatten off," advised Cactus Jack in the argot of the range.

More advice to move cautiously came from Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which will be authorized to lend government money to the railroads and other industries from the 1½ billion dollar fund provided by legislation that has been passed by both houses and soon will be signed by the President.

Mr. Jones said after a conference with the President today that the railroads do not need loans as much as they do trafic and predicted an increase in trafic with improvement in general business conditions.

He said he discussed generalities of the various phases of the railroad situation. Asked how much he would earmark for the railroads, he said "all that they can give security for. It would not be a great deal. They do not need much money. They need earnings. I don't think it will be necessary to do anything immediately for the railroads."

Not Favorable to Subsidy.

Discussing the proposal for a subsidy for the railroads, Jones said:

"Nothing the President said to me indicated that he was in favor of it. I doubt if anybody would be in favor of it except the people who would benefit by it. Some of the railroads need reorganization to get their fixed charges reduced." Asked about proposed easing of the bankruptcy laws to expedite reorganizations, Jones said: "That would be helpful."

"What the railroads need is earnings," he added. "They don't need any refunding. I am not a pessimist about the railroad situation." He said he did not know whether immediate action to provide them relief would be necessary. A good deal of time is required to study legislation of that kind. This being election year, he said he thought most members would want to let the matter go for the present. On the business situation and whether it would pick up enough to help the railroads, Jones said: "I think business will pick up but I cannot give the date."

When asked whether he thought anything could be done to expedite consolidations, Jones said: "I don't know. That is where you get into a complicated problem. I don't know how congress would feel about it. When you talk about consolidations you talk about laying off people. Undoubtedly the railroads will have to be reorganized to take care of their fixed charges."

Railroad View of Problem.

J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, said there are two alternative solutions to the immediate problem. First, the railroads must increase their revenues, or secondly, they must decrease their expenses of operation.

The only way to increase revenues in the absence of the necessary trafic, he said, is to increase rates. Since the I. C. C. failed to allow in full the rate increases asked by the carriers, Mr. Pelley said the only other alternative is to reduce expenses and the only immediate way to do that is to cut wages.

After pointing out that the railroads in February had a net operating deficit of over 2 million dollars, the first deficit since 1921, Mr. Pelley said that he did not expect March results to be much better.

Questioned about large scale RFC loans to border-line roads at this time, Mr. Pelley said he doubted the advisability of such action since it meant only the piling up of additional debt for the carriers concerned.

Prefers Reorganization.

This can mean no solution of the railroad problem, he said. He admitted that RFC loans in the past undoubtedly had kept a number of roads out of bankruptcy and said the same might happen again, but indicated he thought it better that the roads which could not meet their obligations be reorganized.

On the question of an interest moratorium as a temporary expedient to avert a number of rail bankruptcies, Mr. Pelley said he doubted the constitutionality of such a measure and further declared it would merely prolong the day of reckoning and also cause the piling up of additional rail debt.

After reiterating the belief that a wage cut was the only immediate solution of the rail problem, Mr. Pelley said that consolidations offered a means of some savings, but added that nothing could be accomplished in any short period of time. The railroads, he said, can expect nothing from consolidations this year.

In view of the President's forthcoming rail message and recommendations, Mr. Pelley said no further steps would be taken toward wage reductions until it is determined just what the administration intends to do. This is in keeping with an understanding with railroad labor that wage discussions be deferred until the administration's plans are divulged.

CHARGES OF DELAYS IN PAYMENT DENIED BY SECURITY BOARD

Washington, D. C., April 5.—(AP)—Charges that administration of unemployment insurance had bogged down came from the American Association for Social Security and the C. I. O. today and drew prompt denial from the social security board.

Lee Pressman, C. I. O. general counsel, said unemployed union members by the thousands had been unable to get benefits because of administrative red tape.

R. G. Wegenet, director of the social security board's unemployment compensation division, replied that the 23 states and the District of Columbia now paying benefits were on top of their jobs April 1, although some had fallen behind before that date.

GREEN CONDEMNS THOSE WHO SPLIT RANKS OF LABOR

In a speech before the American Flint Glass Workers union yesterday in the Morrison hotel, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, assailed those who have split labor's ranks and declared the federation would fight to the end for its principles. Although he did not refer to the C. I. O. or John L. Lewis, its head, his hearers assumed they were the targets of his remarks.

"The federation," said Green, "has four million members. That is an argument no dual movement can destroy, even if it has split the house of labor. All we can say to that movement's followers is that they must go their way and we will go ours. The A. F. of L. will follow the American plan of the rule by the majority of votes. Can we call any man a friend who splits our home?"

After his speech Green departed for Harrisburg, Pa.

a group on the front steps of his home.

"Well, I went home to Philadelphia last Saturday night after we had talked all day about this bill," he continued. "I wanted to get away from congress for a day at least. As is my custom, next morning I went to 10 o'clock church. Suddenly I discovered a young clergyman in the pulpit talking about this bill. And then I discovered that every one was talking about it. And they were all against it."

Shaking his finger solemnly at his fellow Democrats on the right side of the aisle, Stack asserted:

"If this bill is passed, I don't think the Democratic party in Pennsylvania has as much chance of surviving as a snow ball in hell. I say to the President: 'For God's sake, don't penalize these Democratic congressmen by asking them to vote for it. Don't put a cross on their backs when the road to reëlection is as hard as it is.'"

Resents Rayburn's Charge.

Stack referred to a radio speech delivered last night by Majority Leader Sam Rayburn of Texas in which he declared that the outcry against the bill was inspired by organizations hostile to President Roosevelt.

"I resent that aspersion on my people," Stack said. "They're against it because they're afraid of it. The only organization that I know that is for this bill is the C. I. O. Nuff said.

"I'd be tickled to death to run for reëlection this fall on this issue and this issue alone and have as my opponent none other than the President of the United States. I'd let him have the radio and the platforms. I'd just sit quietly back and let the people go to the polls on election day and vote for me."

Snell Leads Off Attack.

Minority Leader Bertrand H. Snell [R., N. Y.] opened the debate on the reorganization measure by attacking what he termed a concentration of dictatorial power in Washington.

"Nothing should be done to raise the issue of further concentration of power in Washington when we are in the worst depression in history," he shouted.

Cheers from the crowded galleries, which drew a reprimand from the chair, greeted the minority leader's assertion that even though Republican forces were small they would vote firmly to maintain a constitutional government.

Rips Supporters' Argument.

Snell vigorously disputed Democratic contentions that congress had given the same reorganization powers to Herbert Hoover. Those powers, which the house approved in 1932, related only to executive departments of the government, he said.

Pointing out the difference in the two acts, he read provisions of the pending bill which he said gave President Roosevelt power to reorganize or consolidate any agency. Swinging his arms to emphasize his statements, Snell added: "Get that—you would give the President the power to transfer any part of any agency."

Gag Attempt Beaten Again.

The house again today turned down a request of leaders for some limitation of debate on the bill. Speaker William B. Bankhead said he hoped for final passage this week. There was talk tonight that the sponsors of the bill expect to force a showdown tomorrow.

Representative John J. O'Connor [D., N. Y.], one of the leaders of opposition to the bill, told the house that he would force a test vote as soon as reading of the bill is started at the close of debate.

O'Connor said he will offer an amendment striking out the enacting clause of the measure — in other words, making it worthless. This will give the house an opportunity to vote on whether to go ahead with the bill and consider the compromise amendments suggested by the leaders.

Assails Administration Tactics.

Senator Rush D. Holt [D., W. Va.] made public a letter to a constituent today in which he denounced the criticism by the administration of letters and telegrams of protest against the bill.

"The attitude of those in control of the administration program that the individual citizens of America have no right to protest is a dangerous straw in the wind," Holt wrote. "The fear that has been instilled is bad for democracy.

"Individuals write and call me in opposition to the legislation and then caution me not to mention their names for fear of punishment. Has it come to the point where citizens fear to exercise their constitutional rights?"

TVA QUIZ HITS SNAG; NEED TWO G. O. P. SENATORS

Borah and M'Nary Refuse Committee Posts.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 5.—[Special.]—The congressional investigation of the Tennessee valley authority received a setback today by the refusal of two senate Republicans to accept the investigating committee appointments announced by Vice President John N. Garner.

Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho] told the Vice President curtly that he didn't believe in investigation by the town meeting method. Borah believes the inquiry should have been conducted by the senate alone.

McNary Too Busy.

The other Republican appointee was Charles L. McNary of Oregon, the minority leader. He said he would be busy in the west this summer as a member of the Republican campaign committee and also indicated that he was irked by Garner's refusal to confer with him about the Republican appointments beforehand.

The three Democratic senators appointed were Vic Donahey of Ohio; Fred H. Brown of New Hampshire, and H. H. Schwartz of Wyoming.

The five house appointees were James M. Mead of New York; William J. Driver of Arkansas, and R. Ewing Thomason of Texas, Democrats; Thomas A. Jenkins of Ohio, and Charles A. Wolverton of New Jersey, Republicans.

Refusal Disturbs Garner.

Vice President Garner, obviously disturbed by the refusal of Borah and McNary to serve, delayed announcing what two Republican senators he might appoint to take their places. In the meanwhile, the committee cannot get together to organize for the investigation.

McNary gave several reasons for his refusal to participate. He said the investigation was to be conducted 3,000 miles from his home, and that his political duties would keep him busy.

Avowed Foe of Utilities.

Considerable criticism was aroused over the qualifications of the eight other appointees.

Senator Brown is known for his hatred of the utility interests which are closely involved in the investigation. In his maiden and only speech in the senate in 1935, he declared, in connection with the Wheeler-Rayburn bill to regulate utility companies: "My only purpose in coming down here to congress is to destroy the utilities."

Senator Schwartz never has taken a prominent part in the affairs of the senate and is regarded as somewhat of a nonentity. Senator Donahey, former governor of Ohio, is an easy-going lawmaker of the conservative Democrat type, noted more for his love of fishing and outdoor sports than for his senate activities.

MONEY TROUBLE PLAGUES ALL 3 PARTY MACHINES

Woes of Democrats Laid to Bad Judgment.

BY PARKE BROWN.

The big Illinois state and county primary is six days from today. Careful inquiry at this point disclosed yesterday that all the organizations engaged in the struggle, Democratic and Republican, are short of funds. All are busy here and there trying to scrape up enough to carry them through next Tuesday.

Under ordinary conditions, both of the Democratic machines would be considered in the plutocratic class because of their vast resources of payrolls, contracts and other fields subject to campaign raids, but this year both Nash and Horner machines, it is said, used bad judgment.

Expected an Easy Time.

The Nash machine, according to reliable information, thought it would have such an easy time in the primary that it wouldn't require much cash. The Horner machine, shifting abruptly from its 1936 plan of concentrating at Springfield all income from assessments on employés, road contractors, material supply men and similar lines of business having state relations, permitted funds to become diffused by allowing them to remain in the counties where they were collected.

Far different is the case of the officeless Republican party both in Cook county and in Illinois as a whole. The indications are that in neither the local fight nor in the state battle did the poverty stricken G. O. P. ever have a chance of raising funds adequate for the ordinary expenses of a routine campaign. It didn't have a finger in any branch of the spoils system and it couldn't make any promise of future reward to contributors that in any degree would be convincing.

Old Bosses Swept Aside.

On top of this came a serious disagreement within the party about the collection of contributions. There hasn't been any effort to open a state headquarters either in Springfield or in Chicago. The state candidates have had to struggle along, wholly dependent on the county organizations throughout the state largely because the old bosses were swept aside by a movement throughout the state to keep full control of the party in the regularly elected machinery, the county committees.

But each county committee, particularly Cook county, faced what it considered unavoidable expense. Thereupon, without help from the bosses, it sought to raise money for itself, and almost everywhere found itself stopped by word sent ahead of them by the old leaders — national particularly — who opposed solicitation of help except for the November election.

Against such obstacles as these County Chairman Edward F. Moore, it is said, has been unable so far to raise enough funds for running expense and enough over to permit an allowance of $5 a precinct with which to man the polls next Tuesday—an unheard of low allotment for a major organization.

Troubles in Democratic Camps.

The political sadness of this Republican dilemma is brought home more clearly by information that the Nash organization is weeping because it probably won't have any more than $20 or $25 a precinct on primary day and the Horner organization is said to be kicking itself privately for letting possible headquarters revenues scatter out through 101 downstate county organizations and in Chicago among fifty ward leaders.

Two years ago the 2 per cent assessment levied on all state employés by the Horner machine through the Illinois Iroquois league went directly to Springfield. So did the assessments imposed on contractors and others according to a percentage system. The fact that this system was abolished is said to indicate that Gov. Horner is less willing to take a chance of public condemnation this year than he was when he was a candidate.

This lack of acute interest this year is denied by Gov. Horner, but it has been known through the campaign that county chairmen were told they were free to levy the assessments on state employés in their own territory. They have done so, and, much to the irritation of headquarters, it is said, have used most of the money for their own candidates for county offices.

Gift Funds Running Short.

Early in the campaign F. Lynden Smith, Horner campaign manager, who two years ago admitted he had ordered state contractors to come across, said he was not exerting pressure on such people this year and that contributions had been received only from those who came in voluntarily.

That the funds of this organization have run short is shown clearly by its opening a special headquarters in the Abraham Lincoln hotel in Springfield—several blocks from the regular campaign headquarters—so that assessed contractors, supply men and the like may come in and make their payments without attracting attention.

National Committeeman P. A. Nash, head of the regular organization in Cook county, delayed his return from Florida until three weeks before the primary—an unprecedentedly late date for election preparations. No money had been raised at that time because of the belief that the campaign assessments on the candidates would meet all needs. This machine levies no assessments on employés on pay rolls under its control, and it was not until recently that campaign contributions started to come in from wealthy members of the party who have just heard that the contest with the Horner machine is a real battle that calls for more cash.

Their former employer is Jay Wyatt, 831 Bonnie Brae avenue, who returned to his suburban home in September of 1936 to find his new butler and maid gone together with much of the family jewelry.

VOTE IN PRIMARY ELECTION, A. OF C. URGES CITIZENS

Five thousand Chicago business concerns yesterday were urged by the Association of Commerce to encourage their employés to go to the polls on primary day. Warning that even Presidents must bow to precinct politics, the notice advised citizens to do their bit toward defeating machine politics by casting their ballots according to their own consciences. Six ways of insuring more representative government were suggested in the association's bulletin. They are:

Go to the polls yourself on April 23; get your fellow workers to vote; give your families every opportunity to vote; study the qualifications and records of all candidates for nomination; encourage sound citizens to serve as watchers at the elections and ballot counting; see how affairs are being run in your precinct—let the politicians know you will tolerate no crooked methods, and if irregularities are disclosed, insist on criminal prosecution and conviction.

A real estate tax of 30 cents on each $100 of property valuation, which is expected to raise $65,000 for relief purposes during 1938, was voted yesterday by the Lyons township board. At the demand of Walter C. Saunders, president of the village of La Grange, which is in the township, the board also voted $500 to be used for an independent audit of the township books.

BOSSISM CHARGE FLAYED BY IGOE AND PRYSTALSKI

Judge Challenges Foes to Bare His Record.

District Attorney Michael L. Igoe and Judge John Prystalski, seeking Democratic nominations for United States senator and county judge, last night ridiculed allegations of their opponents that their election would mean the triumph of Kelly-Nash bossism.

"When I became a candidate for county judge," asserted Judge Prystalski, "the state's attorney of this county assigned men to investigate my record. I want the state's attorney to reveal what they found. If they found anything wrong with my private life or public record I think it is their duty to tell the voters. If they found nothing wrong I believe that in all fairness they should say so.

Not a Slave of Machine.

"In the heritage of service and sacred obligations that are a part of my blood and being, I cannot at one time stand as a defender of the people's rights and at the same time cower as a slave to the lash of a political Simon Legree. I am not seeking office as county judge out of any cringing subservience to any machine.

"In this campaign the issue is whether or not the present county judge [Edmund K. Jarecki] has discharged his duties faithfully and efficiently. I charge that he has not. The people want justice, not tyranny; honest and sincerity, not sham and hypocrisy. They will give John Prystalski their mandate to carry on in the county court."

The judge and Igoe spoke before an audience of more than 1,000 in the Delano school at Wilcox street and Pulaski road. Others on the program were Walter J. Orlikoski, candidate for clerk of the state Supreme court; Judge Eugene Holland, Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, and Assessor John S. Clark.

Igoe Assails Lucas Campaign.

Igoe asserted that his opponent, Scott W. Lucas, was running his campaign on three issues: [1] How to run Chicago's schools; [2] who to vote for in the race for county judge, and [3] how to run Chicago's public parks.

"We're not telling Havana how to run its business," he said. "If Lucas continues he will soon be known as the public scold."

The district attorney said his record was good and that every one agreed he'd be a good senator, but that he was being opposed on the ground that he lives in Chicago. Earlier in the day he had asserted that his stand in regard to President Roosevelt had been garbled. He had never said, he maintained, that he would follow the President, right or wrong.

"But the President has been a liberal, a progressive," he added. "I indorse him, recognize his leadership, and am anxious to follow him."

Friend from Capital Speaks.

At a luncheon meeting of the Illinois Lawyers' Nonpartisan league in the Hotel Sherman, Assistant Attorney General Joseph B. Keenan spoke in complimentary terms of Igoe, who was present.

"He offers himself as a well qualified candidate for any office," Keenan declared. "The people of Illinois will be fortunate to have Michael Igoe serve them in any capacity. We of the department of justice feel admiration and love for him."

The district attorney's friends held that this appearance of Attorney General Cummings' assistant showed Igoe has the blessing of the Washington administration.

GETS WARANTS TO KEEP NAME FROM BALLOTS

Warants charging malfeasance in office were obtained yesterday against John M. Newcomer, president of the Proviso Township High school board, and Emery A. Parichy, secretary of the board, who are candidates for reëlection in the voting next Saturday. The complainant is John Mauro, 1301 North 23d avenue, Melrose Park, who also is a candidate.

Mauro said he became convinced last Wednesday that he hadn't a chance of being elected, so he went to Newcomer and Parichy and informed them the law stated he could withdraw up to ten days before the election. They told him the board would meet to hear his plea, but later notified him the meeting would not be held, Mauro said.

When his friends made an investigation, according to Mauro, they were told the ballots had been printed, but the printer denied receiving the copy from the board secretary. So Mauro, claiming that neither he nor other candidates could find out who was or wasn't to be voted on, went to Police Magistrate Roy N. Nix and got the warants. It was malfeasance, he said, to refuse him a peep at the ballots.

Legal Taxation—That's Ehler Motto in Judgeship Race

BY PERCY WOOD.

Theodore Ehler.

The first money ever earned by Theodore F. Ehler, Republican candidate for county judge, was for setting out cabbage plants in a truck garden which is now the teeming corner of 63d and Halsted streets. In those days—the early eighties—this territory was a part of the town of Lake; it was not annexed to Chicago until the late eighties. Ehler's father was the community blacksmith.

By the time he was 10 Ehler was tall enough so that by standing on a little platform alongside the anvil he could help his father shoe the horses of the neighborhood. This was more adult work than cabbage planting, even though it did not pay the 25 cents daily that he had earned at gardening, and he kept at it until he became clerk in one of the old justice of the peace courts at 39th and State streets.

From his experience in this rather elementary way of administering the law Ehler learned some fundamentals which were useful to him when he sat on the Municipal bench from 1920 to 1934. In the interim he had read Blackstone during slack hours in the justice courts and had graduated from the Kent College of Law.

Those who sat with him speak highly of Ehler's judicial aptitude, and their opinions are substantiated by the records of the Chicago Bar association, which consistenly indorsed him whenever he ran for reëlection.

Ehler was born in Germany sixty-two years ago and was brought here when he was 6 years old. He still lives in Englewood at 8004 South Sangamon street with his wife and two children and daily walks to his south side law office at 63d and Halsted, a distance of about two and one-half miles.

Ehler is slight but wiry, with a big shock of iron gray hair, a thin face, and a deep voice. He says he is especially interested in the tax situation as it is presented in the County court and, if elected, promises that legal taxes will be levied or else. He is a great believer in the efficacy of the law providing for preadjudication of taxes which became effective last summer.

ELECTION BOARD FINDS 118,000 UNLISTED VOTES

Courtney to Push Quiz on Bowler Charges.

Proves Charges, Says Igoe.

"It's a plea of guilty—a confession that our charges are true," Igoe said.

"The permanent registration act, sponsored by Judge Jarecki and his associates, is strict in its requirement that upon completion of the register of voters the election board must print precinct register lists giving the names and addresses of all those in the precinct entitled to vote. The present board did print lists, but they were dishonest on their face because they included names of dead men.

"Now Chairman McKay admits, blandly, as if it were a trifle, that there were 118,000 qualified voters whose names knowingly were omitted from those precinct lists.

Charges Cause Ouster of Four.

It was on Judge Prystalski's charge that the election board acted to fire the four employés whose criminal records he revealed. Prystalski said Monday night his opponent had ex-convicts guarding the sanctity of the ballot and he named five.

The men accused and their sponsors were: Michael Underberg, sponsored by Assistant State's Attorney John S. Boyle, the Horner-Courtney-Jarecki committeeman for the 16th ward; Robert Laird, sponsored by former Assistant State's Attorney Richard Devine, Horner-Courtney-Jarecki committeeman for the 42d ward; Paul Massucci, sponsored by Assistant State's Attorney Gordon Nash, Horner-Courtney-Jarecki committeeman for the 10th ward, and Roy Nielsen, sponsored by Assistant State's Attorney Emmett Moynihan, Horner-Courtney-Jarecki committeeman for the 27th ward.

Affidavit Proven False.

Underberg made an affidavit that he had no criminal record, but Capt. Norton said the bureau of identification proved he had. Several others who had bad records also were ousted, Norton said, and added that as they had only been hired a week or two previously, he and his police staf had not had time to investigate their characters.

The Courtney-Bowler row over registration began when Courtney summoned Bowler by mail to appear at his office yesterday morning and explain the charge Bowler made that thirty voters in one precinct of his ward were not listed on the Jarecki-McKay printed lists. Bowler refused to go, saying the Igoe-Prystalski checkers were looking after his interests.

Thereupon Courtney announced that most of Bowler's complaints were unfounded. About half of the thirty were registered, Courtney said, while many of the others had not reported changes of address, were aliens or for other reasons were ineligible to vote, or were not known at the addresses given.

HORNER, LUCAS HAMMER AWAY ON BOSS CHARGE

Crowley Goes to Bat for Judge Jarecki.

Gov. Henry Horner and Congressman Scott W. Lucas of Mason county, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator, flung additional charges of bossism against Mayor Kelly and Chairman Patrick A. Nash of the Cook county Democratic organization in speeches last night.

"Kelly and Nash tried to give me a blue ticket in 1936 and I wouldn't take it," said the governor. "Now we're going to give them theirs."

From an audience that packed the Herzl school at 3711 Douglas boulevard the governor demanded to know whether they approved a government of two or three men to run the schools.

Calls Foes Penthouse Pirates.

"The teachers," he said, "can't possibly devote themselves efficiently to their duties. They know they'll be fired unless they agree with their bosses. Nash and Kelly are the penthouse pirates who have whetted their cutlasses with slander for a final stand before they desert their sinking ship."

Lucas, who appeared on the platform with the governor [both later went to the Sokol Chicago hall at 2345 South Kedzie avenue to speak], had declared in an afternoon radio address that the issues were "defeat bossism" and "justice for 101 counties outside of Cook."

Hidden Hand in Pocketbook.

"Whether you realize it or not," he said, "the Kelly-Nash machine affects most of the actions of your daily life, and it has its hidden hand in your pocketbook every minute of the day. This isn't campaign bunk. I'm presenting facts.

"Boss rule exacts from you a tribute that is outlandish in proportion to the service it gives. And boss rule isn't necessary. Henry Horner proved that in his administration of the affairs of the state of Illinois.

"Study your tax bill. Take a look at the sorry plight of your schools here in Chicago. Recall how Kelly and Nash, in a frantic effort to refill depleted coffers, sought to make gambling legal with their bookie bill."

Lucas also declared that the real reason the "bosses" wanted to be rid of County Judge Jarecki was because he had taken the lead in the demand for permanent registration.

Crowley Speaks for Jarecki.

Although Judge Jarecki did not appear with other candidates at the Horner-Courtney faction meetings last night, his interests were cared for in a radio speech by Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney.

He said that Judge Prystalski sent out an "entirely false" letter charging Judge Jarecki with perpetrating a fraud by directing a 10 per cent tax reduction for 1932 and failing to enter the order. It was not Judge Jarecki, Crowley insisted, but Thomas D. Nash, then county collector, who advised taxpayers to withhold 10 per cent of their bills. Mayor Kelly, he continued, blocked legislation to extend the 10 per cent slash to small home owners.

LAWYER DENIES DEMOCRATS PAID FOR BILLBOARDS

Attorney Samuel J. Andalman yesterday told his side of the Republican billboard mystery. He denied emphatically that Democratic machine funds had paid for the boards and said that he, a Republican, and a group of other Republicans had defrayed the cost.

The signs urged voters to vote Republican and record their protest against the Roosevelt administration. It has been charged by supporters of the Lucas-Lewis-Jarecki ticket that the appeal was put before the public secretly by the Kelly-Nash organization to counteract efforts to persuade Republicans to vote Democratic and support County Judge Jarecki.

"The statement that money which I handled comes from anybody connected with the Kelly-Nash organization is without any foundation," said Attorney Andalman in an open letter to Dr. Glenn Frank, chairman of the Republican national program committee. The letter condemned Republican critics of the billboards.

LYONS HAILS BIG HOMECOMING AT G. O. P. PRIMARY

Speaks to Two Capacity Meetings.

Two overflow audiences last night affirmed a renewed interest in the Illinois Republican party led by Richard J. Lyons, candidate for the senatorial nomination. Without the aid of a claque of public pay rollers, Lyons had his 1,500 listeners cheering and stomping.

Questioning of some of the 600 persons who entered the Grand Crossing Masonic temple at 7441 Ingleside avenue, where Lyons first spoke, disclosed a generous sprinkling of citizens who voted for Roosevelt in 1936 and did not choose to attend meetings of either of the warring Democratic factions.

Charges Bribery Attempts.

Warnings to stay out of the Democratic fight in the primary were given by Lyons and other speakers. Henry D. Lindblad, candidate for membership on the county board and 17th ward committeeman, told this audience that Republican precinct workers must withstand attempted bribery by the Democratic machines.

"In my ward precinct workers have been offered from $5 to $25 to desert our ranks on primary day," Lindblad said. "Tell these Democrats to go to hell, you precinct workers! We have loyalty—and that's more than they have. It's taxpayers' money they're offering."

Sees Great Homecoming.

Both here and at the Madison Athletic club, 4721 Madison street, Lyons and the other candidates found enthusiasm.

"We're seeing the greatest homecoming to the Republican party since Abraham Lincoln was elected President," Lyons said. "This tremendous wave of feeling is based on the kind of facts I am presenting tonight."

Leaving the speakers' platform for the floor of the hall, Lyons displayed a knack of reducing administration complexities to every day language.

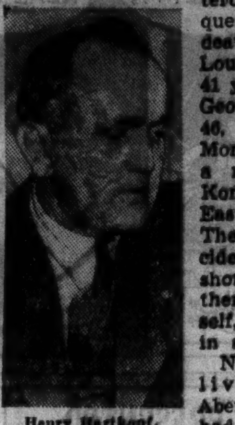
Points to Book Ad.

"Here's something I got in the mail," he said, holding up a brochure showing a picture of Roosevelt. "It says, 'History by the man who made it.' You can get five volumes for $13.50 up to April 28. After that it's $15. For the millions on relief and WPA there's a de luxe edition of his story for $50. But my advice to you if you want to buy books is to buy some about Washington and Lincoln.'

He assailed the anti-business policies of the administration, which he said even Bernard Baruch admits have caused unemployment to rise from 10 to 14 million persons. He was caustic in his discussion of $55 a month jobs for WPA-ers, which he said provides 5 cents a meal for a worker with three children, and the spending of nearly $7,000,000 for travel and subsistence by work relief officials.

"The American people are sick and tired of being bought and sold with their own money," Lyons said. "Fireside chats never filled an empty stomach. And we don't want an imperial dynasty of Roosevelts."

MURDER AND SUICIDE VERDICT RETURNED IN HOTEL ROOM SHOOTING



Henry Hartkopf.

A verdict of murder and suicide was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday at the inquest into the deaths of Mrs. Louise Hartkopf, 41 years old, and George Nelson, 46, found shot Monday night in a room in the Kort hotel, 1550 East 64th street. The jurors decided that Nelson shot the woman, then killed himself, apparently in a death pact.

Nelson, who lived at 7038 Aberdeen street, had been keeping company with Mrs. Hartkopf, who was married and lived with her husband, Henry, at 6330 South May street. Nelson's mother testified that he ignored her warning to stay away from Mrs. Hartkopf. Hartkopf said that last New Year's eve he forbade his wife to see Nelson again, but she left home Sunday.

What Candidates Say

Here are highlights from speeches made yesterday by candidates for nomination in next Tuesday's primaries:

RICHARD J. LYONS, Republican aspirant to the senate: "The issue, now as in November, is jobs. Fireside chats never filled an empty stomach. The New Deal admits there are 14 million unemployed now. Thank God, the Democrats are honest enough to say they are running on New Deal policies."

MICHAEL L. IGOE, candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination: "I have been quoted as saying I am for Roosevelt, right or wrong. No responsible citizen seeking high office is for any man whether he is right or wrong. This isn't a government of men. It is a government of laws."

SCOTT W. LUCAS, opponent of Igoe for the senate: "Whether you realize it or not, the Kelly-Nash machine affects most of the actions of your daily life, and it has its hidden hand in your pocketbook every minute of the day."

JUDGE JOHN PRYSTALSKI, seeking the County court judgeship: "When I became a candidate for county judge the state's attorney of this county assigned men to investigate my record. I want the state's attorney to reveal what they found."

RAIDERS WRECK GAMING TABLES AT CHEZ PAREE

Raiders from the state's attorney's office wrecked gambling equipment with axes early today in the Chez Paree night club at 610 Fairbanks court.

The raid was led by Capt. Daniel Gilbert and Lieut. Thomas Kelly. They arrested three men whom they accused of operating gambling games: Daniel O'Brien of 2845 East 77th street, Frank Hurley of 426 Surf street, and George A. Stein of 317 Oakdale avenue. More than 100 patrons, including about 40 women, who were at the tables were sent home.

AWARD TO WOMAN FOR HEART BALM IS TRIMMED $5,000

A verdict of $17,500 awarded by a Circuit court jury to Miss Helen Witton, 37 years old, in her breach of promise suit against Edward J. Nelson, Beverly Hills real estate dealer, was reduced yesterday by the first division of the Illinois Appellate court to $12,500. Harry S. Ditchburne, her attorney, stated the reduction would be accepted to avoid a reversal of the judgment.

Miss Witton, who was formerly social secretary to Mrs. Gustave F. Swift, charged that Nelson seduced her on promise of marriage and that after her child was born he married another woman. The $17,500 verdict voted by a jury last June 29 was upheld by the Appellate court last March 22, with Justice William H. McSurely dissenting on the ground that the finding was excessive. Yesterday's action by the court was in the form of a supplementary opinion.

Winnetka Holds Village Election Without Fuss

Winnetka citizens wasted no time in election battles yesterday. Those who voted elected George W. Gordon, Austin Jenner, and John F. Manierre as trustees and William Peterson as marshal. No one else ran for the offices.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

FOLLOWING THE FLOWERS

By CALEB

WE who live in cities see too little of the flowers. There are no better exponents of poise and tranquility—and, perhaps, no human qualities more to be desired today than these. In a world of vigorous and exciting activity occasional relaxation is essential. Flowers offer that.

Chicago this week has an unusually fine opportunity thus to profit, because the Flower Show on Navy Pier offers the sight and the smell of more flowers and plants than many of us see ordinarily in a year. From the bayberry and laurel of New England; through the azaleas and rhododendrons of the Central Atlantic states; magnolias and columbine of the South; conifers, sage, and desert cactus of the West—through all these one wanders, carried away by the fragrant and colorful displays on every side.

The Chicago Flower Show continues on Navy Pier until April 10, and a good many thousand visitors will see the exhibits there in the remaining days it is open. Visiting the show one is certain to leave refreshed and heartened. There is something confident and beautiful about those flowers—they just go on growing and blooming. Calm, unhurried, they seem to be making a point for our observation.

On the more practical side they remind us that it's time to begin poking about in cellar and garage for rusty tools soon to be polished by sun-warmed soil in some favorite garden spot. For if there is one pursuit more pleasant than looking at flowers, it is growing them.

And here, too, the flowers maintain their poise and nonchalance. They grow and flourish with equal vigor in small secluded plot or great formal garden. Their beauty lends itself alike to a box on the window sill or broad landscaped acres. They maintain a gorgeous and colorful democracy of unselfish service wherever they find themselves.

The flower show is to be recommended and its sponsors commended. The project is an eminently worthwhile community service—a triumph for the many women who have worked long and enthusiastically for its success.

PREMIER NAMES NEW CABINET TO SAVE BARCELONA

known to have captured previously the towns of Benabare and Tamarite.

The rebel advance continued six miles east of Lerida, with government troops reported to be in full retreat. A decisive battle was expected about 60 miles west of Barcelona, where the loyalists have fortified a twenty-two mile north and south line from Balaguer to Borjas Blancas, which intersects the three main highways east of Lerida.

Gen. Juan Yague's army pushed up the right bank of the Segre river from Lerida to capture Corbins, junction of the Noguerra-Ribagorza river with the Segre.

Capture 1,000 Prisoners.

Galician troops which occupied Morella, southwest of Tortosa, under the command of Gen. Camillo Alonso, took 1,000 prisoners. From Morella they moved toward San Mateo and Castellon.

Detachments swept the secondary roads east of the main Morella-Gandesa highway, capturing Fuentespalde and other strategic villages.

Northeast of Gandesa, toward Tarragona, the villages of Mora de Ebro, Miravet, and Benisanet fell in rapid succession.

Just south of the French frontier fleeing government militiamen and civilians were said to be flocking toward a refuge in France. French frontier guards redoubled their vigilance in expectation of an influx late tonight or early tomorow.

Madrid's trade unions ordered all members between 31 and 35 years of age to enlist in the army within five days under threat of expulsion from the unions.

Ebert K. Burlew Confirmed Interior Secretary's Aid

Washington, D. C., April 5.—(AP)—Senate confirmation of his nomination advanced Ebert K. Burlew, who entered the government service in 1910 as a $1,000 a year clerk, to first assistant secretary of the interior today at a salary of $9,000.

SPANISH LOYALISTS URGE BRITAIN, FRANCE TO ALTER ARMS POLICY

LONDON, April 5.—(AP)—The Spanish government protested to France and Great Britain tonight against continuation of their nonintervention policy with its "appalling and dangerous injustice." The government note recalled Spain's messages on March 22 charging a renewal of German and Italian aid to Spanish rebel armies.

Agitation grew in Wales for a national coal strike to demand that the government drop its "hands off Spain" policy and allow the Spanish government to buy British munitions.

JUDGE DEMANDS TRANSIT ACTION BEFORE SUMMER

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson told Chicago transit interests yesterday that he would insist on clarification of the traction problem before the summer adjournment of his court. He informed his adviser on traction, Walter A. Shaw, that he wanted to know definitly within the next two months whether an agreement appears likely between the surface lines and elevated companies on a unification and modernization plan.

If a settlement is not imminent, he said, he would consider measures to end the long court proceedings involving the systems. Shaw was instructed to report back to the court on May 5.

Mayor Kelly said after the hearing that while he believes the companies and the court are working toward a settlement, the city is not satisfied with progress reports and will continue to press for a quick and permanent solution.

She Can Take Low Road, but Not to Loch Lomond

New York, April 5.—[Special.]—Musical sentimentalists will keep the high road and are content to let Maxine Sullivan, colored swing queen, take the low road, but they want her to keep away from Loch Lomond. Since she started the fad of swinging old ballads several months ago controversy has been stirred throughout the country between devotees of sweet and swing. Miss Sullivan, a favorite in a New York night club, says she prefers to swing the old tunes because the new ones are dead before they become popular.

BARCELONA FAR FROM DEFEATED, LONDON BELIEVES

Thinks War May Go On Months Longer.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 5.—Military experts in touch with the Spanish situation maintained today that though the military position of the Barcelona government is grave, it must not be assumed that the Spanish civil war would be over should Gen. Francisco Franco's latest drive carry him to the Mediterranean coast at Tortosa.

Despite his success in splitting loyalist Spain in two, Barcelona is not likely to surrender immediately, it was believed in London.

Objective Is Tortosa.

The Spanish rebels' immediate objective is Tortosa. They were within a few miles of that town today. Its capture will end railway communication between Barcelona and Valencia.

Then Barcelona must resort to the sea to keep contact with Valencia and Madrid. War material and food, which hitherto have gone by rail or truck, will have to be sent by ship. to Valencia and by rail or truck from there to Madrid. Barcelona has made plans for that eventuality.

Franco Must Tighten Blockade.

Hitherto Gen. Franco's naval blockade of Barcelona and Valencia has not been formidable. Cargo vessels have passed in and out with comparative safety.

Franco now will have to follow up his military successes by tightening his naval blockade of Loyalist ports to prevent transshipment, military experts in London said, if his success is to be immediately decisive. Otherwise the war may drag out for several months more.

FRANCO PRESENTED ASSASSIN'S PISTOL WHICH STARTED WAR

SARAGOSSA, Spain, April 5.—(AP)—A prisoner whom rebels captured at Morella surrendered a revolver today which he said was used to assassinate José Calvo Sotelo, the rightest whose death in Madrid July 13, 1936, was a major incident precipitating the Spanish civil war. The weapon was presented to Generalissimo Franco.

Calvo, minister of finance in the Primo de Rivera government, and a monarchist leader, was taken from his home by men dressed in guard uniforms and shot.

A dispatch from Lisbon, Portugal, on Aug. 10, 1936, reported that a Capt. Conde, alleged by rebels to have been responsible for the assassination, had been executed at Segovia. Rebels commemorated the first anniversary of the assassination last year.

PERSISTENT SUICIDE.

Prairie du Chien, Wis., April 5.—[Special.]—Unsuccessful in his first attempt to hang himself last night Charles Konichek, 55 years old, was successful with a stronger rope. The first rope broke. Financial worries were believed to be the motive.

ITALY PROMISES TO QUIT SPAIN—AFTER THE WAR

Also Will Recall Troops from Belearics.

ROME, April 5.—(AP)—The proposed British-Italian friendship treaty will bind Italy to withdraw troops from Spain after—but not before—the civil war is over, informed quarters said tonight.

Italy has agreed to retire troops also from the strategically important Balearic Islands in the Mediterranean at the same time, these sources said after another meeting between the negotiators, British Ambassador Lord Perth and Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

These and the reduction of Italy's forces in Libya, its North African colony, were regarded as the major Italian concessions. Both sides were said now to hope to reach an agreement by Easter or, at least, before Reichsfuehrer Hitler's visit to Italy early in May.

Ethiopian Grab to Be Recognized.

Italian withdrawal from Spain and British recognition of the Italian empire previously had been decided upon in principle. Details, however, are now said to have been sketched in.

Britain, these sources said, will propose to the league of nations next month that its members be given freedom to recognize Italy's Ethiopian conquest if they desire. Thereafter, they said, Britain will recognize Ethiopia as Italian.

Other countries such as France, which have not granted recognition because of the league pledge, they said, soon would follow suit. Twenty countries are considered by Italy as already having acknowledged the conquest either formally or semi-officially.

Further retirement of troops from Libya was expected soon by diplomatic quarters. Marshal Pietro Badoglio, duke of Addis Ababa, arrived today in Tripoli, ostensibly to assist in organizing their return.

Some Troops Already Home.

"Normal peace time strength" is believed to be the formula adopted by the negotiators in determining the size of the army Italy will keep in Libya. A symbolic contingent of 4,000 men already has come home.

It was intended at first that Italian troops should leave Spain before the end of the fighting through the mediation of the international nonintervention committee.

The failure of the committee to agree, however, created a hitch in negotiations. This apparently is being solved automatically by the Spanish rebels' spreading victory. Italians believe it will make Gen. Francisco Franco complete master of Spain within a short time, thus ending the issue of intervention.

QUEEN MOTHER MARY SEES WELSH POVERTY ON TRIP TO SLUM AREA

Along the 25 mile route from Fagan's castle, the queen mother saw the black cavities of worn out coal pits and the rotting buildings of workings abandoned a decade ago. But flags and welcome banners inscribed in Welsh were everywhere. About 30 per cent of the workers in the valley are jobless.

The queen mother told the earl of Plymouth, her escort, that she thought it was "wonderful the way they carry on in the face of such difficulties."

Banish Victor McLaglen's Brother from U. S. 5 Years

Los Angeles, Cal., April 5.—(AP)—Capt. Leopold McLaglen, brother of Screen Actor Victor McLaglen, was banished from the United States today for five years as punishment for attempting to extort $20,000 from Phillip M. Chancelor, Hollywood millionaire. Under Judge Thomas L. Ambrose's order McLaglen will be placed on a ship leaving here April 26, bound for Liverpool. Meanwhile, he must remain in the county jail.

Two Women Fight with Bayonet; 1 Critically Hurt

Mrs. Nellie O'Connor, 61 years old, was critically injured last night in her rooming house at 1025 East 43d street in a fight with Mrs. Margaret O'Neill, 41 years old, of 4025 Drexel avenue. Mrs. O'Neill, who moved out of the rooming house Monday, said the fight began when she returned to demand $12 rent she had paid in advance and the older woman attacked her with a bayonet.

COMMONS O. K.'S LAW FOR PUBLIC CONTROL OF COAL

Government Eventually Will Own Industry.

LONDON, April 5.—(AP)—The house of commons tonight approved and sent to the house of lords a bill calling for public control of Great Britain's coal industry.

The measure provides that eventually the government would assume ownership of all coal resources in Great Britain through purchase of privately owner coal royalties and voluntary and compulsory amalgamation of collieries.

There are between 4,000 and 5,000 owners of coal royalty rights, collecting a fee on each ton of coal produced. Some rights are hundreds of years old, and sold with the land; others are separate and change hands much like securities. In effect, ownership of royalty rights is ownership of the coal.

Owners to Get $332,250,000.

Under the coal bill the government would pay royalty owners £4,430,000 [about $22,150,000] a year for fifteen years, a total of £66,450,000 [$332,250,000] for royalties and title to visible and undiscovered coal.

Payments to individual royalty owners would be made on the basis of valuation as of Jan. 1, 1939, and the government would assume coal ownership July 1, 1942.

Money borrowed to buy royalties and £10,000,000 [about $50,000,000] additional for expenses, would be repaid out of mining leases to private companies.

Authority for compulsory mine amalgamation, where voluntary combines are not deemed adequate, would lie in the government's leasing power over the present 1,000 mining enterprises.

Workers to Be Protected.

The 739,000 British coal miners, who annually produce more than 840,000,000 tons of coal, would be granted government protection against exploitation through leasing powers.

The net annual revenue of British coal mines is about £5,000,000 [$25,000,000], from which £500,000 [$2,500,000] is deducted for welfare levies and special taxes.

COMMITTEE OF 30 SEEKS SOLUTION FOR YOUNG CRIME

A committee of thirty civic, religious, educational, and political leaders met yesterday with State's Attorney Courtney in an effort to formulate a comprehensive program for the prevention and punishment of juvenile crime.

Legislative backing was promised by Gov. Horner and Courtney announced after the meeting that each of those present will submit recommendations in writing by April 18 to a committee of five he will appoint and that these recommendations will be drawn into a legislative program.

MOSCOW OUSTS RAIL CHIEF AND ENVOY IN PURGE

MOSCOW, April 5.—(AP)—Railway Commissar Alexei Bakulyn was removed from office tonight after seven months of attempting to improve the efficiency of soviet railroads.

His post was assigned to Lazarus Kaganovich, the "iron commissar" who had relinquished the job when he was raised to the commissariat of heavy industry in August, 1937. Kaganovich will administer both positions.

A further indication that the purge of soviet official ranks is continuing was seen in the announcement that Feodor Raskolnikov, first soviet minister to Burgaria, had been removed from his post. He had been minister at Sofia since 1934, when diplomatic relations were reëstablished between the two nations. Raskolnikov left Sofia for Moscow yesterday.

Chicago, Illinois

Dear Mr. McMahon:

You may be interested in knowing how all of us in this store are looking at our Twice Yearly Sale as another Tribune success - with the Tribune doing the job alone!

This regular event, which closed last week, showed a substantial increase, in both store traffic and net sales, over the same period for 1937. Since last year's business had been more than satisfactory, we feel that a gain in February 1938 is specific proof of the Tribune's power as the medium for merchandising publicity.

Because they have seen the gratifying results of Tribune productiveness, our salesmanager, Mr. Herbert F. Jump, and our treasurer, Mr. Andrew J. Shea, join with me in this expression of our appreciation.

Yours very truly,

Chas H. Scholle
President

The Tribune's ability to produce the results described in the accompanying letter rests solidly on the Tribune's position as a news publication.

The editorial quality of this newspaper has built the largest constant audience of consumers which can be reached in this market through any advertising medium.

Every day the Tribune is read by more than 670,000 families in metropolitan Chicago. It is the only Chicago newspaper which delivers majority coverage of all the families in the city and suburbs.

No matter what you are selling, you can get more sales by building your advertising program around the Chicago Tribune. Rates per 100,000 circulation are among the lowest in the business.

JAPAN ANGERED; CALLS CABINET IN ROW WITH RUSSIA

Tokio Foreign Office Flays 'Blatant' Moscow.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, April 6 [Wednesday].—Angered by the alleged insincerity and evasiveness of the soviet Russian government in rejecting a Japanese protest against soviet assistance to China, the Japanese government today called a cabinet council for Friday. It is understood that the question of the future Japanese policy toward soviet Russia will be threshed out thoroughly.

With influential quarters incensed by what are termed soviet persecutions of Japanese subjects and the supplying of planes, pilots, and ammunition to China, and clamoring for a showdown, important developments are expected.

Litvinov Called "Brazen."

Observers expressed the view that the relations of the two countries are jeopardized. Japanese quarters marveled at what was termed the brazenness of Maxim Litvinov, Russian foreign commissar, in denying that military units or individuals had been sent from Russia's military ranks to China to take part in the hostilities with Japan.

The foreign office said in a statement that, although the soviet government "has resorted to sophistry in an attempt to evade the Japanese charges of extending aid to China, there is ample concrete evidence that the soviet government is helping China. The soviets are becoming increasingly blatant.

"On Jan. 26 one of the planes shot down contained two Russians, and from the effects left they were identified as having come from the soviet union. The pilot of a plane shot down at Wuhu on March 14 was captured and identified as Lieut. Donin Andrevitch of the Leningrad air corps. He confessed that he was sent to China by the soviet government in October."

Cite Strict Soviet Control.

The Japanese government maintained it is improbable that any soviet volunteers are fighting with the Chinese army, since soviet aviation is under rigid governmental control and it is virtually impossible for a soviet pilot to enlist for service in the Chinese army without official permission.

As an indication of the increasing Japanese-soviet tension Moscow yesterday ordered closed the soviet consulate in Otaru, on Hokkaido Island, northern Japan.

Japanese fishery interests considered the move a serious drawback, since they have been applying for permission from the soviet consul in Otaru for permission to fish in soviet waters.

New Friction in Manchukuo.

Hsinking, capital of Manchukuo, reported new friction with the Russians over control of islands in the Amur river, which forms part of the boundary between Manchukuo and Siberia. Recently the soviet government concentrated a river fleet near Kanchatzu Island, Miaamho Island and on the Volaykovo waterway and demanded the withdrawal of Manchukuan lights attached to navigation marks.

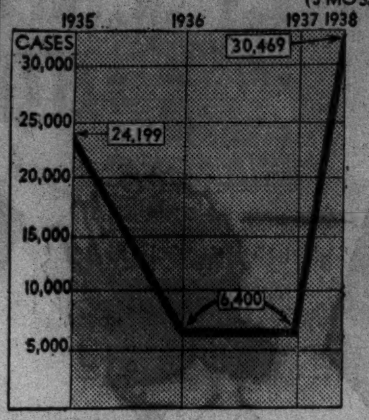
Measles Record



The decrease in the number of cases of measles reported to the health office in 1936 was followed by a sharp rise in 1937 and for the first three months of 1938.

Measles cases in Chicago in March boosted the total for the first quarter of 1938 to 30,469, compared with 24,199 for all of 1935, the previous record year for the disease in Chicago, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said yesterday. The total for the month was 14,231, an increase of 2,898 over February and 8,289 more than in any month in past years.

There have been 26 deaths from measles since Jan. 1, records show, 21 of them in the last month. In 1935 there were 81 deaths, 27 of them in the first three months. In 1936 and 1937 there was a total of 13 deaths. An outbreak of the disease usually takes place every second year, Dr. Bundesen said.

CAPTURED BANDIT TELLS OF PULLING 40 ETHICAL JOBS

John Hinnegen, 21 years old, admitted yesterday that he is a robber, but insisted that he always observed certain ethics and niceties that put him above the ordinary run. For example, he robbed only when he was out of work. And he continued the search for a job even as he held up grocery stores—his specialty. Another thing, Hinnegen added, he detests firearms and always used a toy pistol in his raids.

John Hinnegen.

Unfortunately for Hinnegen, Miss Mary Radermacher, 25 years old, remembers faces and was able to identify him as the robber who held her up Monday in the grocery store at 2459 Pratt boulevard, where she is employed. He confessed he has robbed forty stores in the last year or two.

Recommends Half Million to Start Superhighway

An appropriation of $500,000 for preliminary work on Mayor Kelly's plan for a 100 million dollar system of superhighways in Chicago was recommended yesterday by the city council subcommittee on motor fuel tax. The money would be taken from the city's share of this tax, it was explained.

CHINESE ATTACK PORT FAR BEHIND JAPANESE LINES

Irregulars Plague Troops Near Shanghai.

PEKING, April 5.—(AP)—Trustworthy reports from Chefoo, Japanese occupied seaport in northern Shantung province, said severe fighting was in progress tonight outside the city, which was attacked by Chinese this morning. The Japanese were said to have landed reinforcements and attempted to use aircraft to dislodge Chinese forces which still held a section of the city.

[Other reports said simultaneous attacks were made on several sections of Chefoo and that the attackers were Chinese guerrilla troops. Chefoo is far behind the Japanese lines and is in an area which the Japanese have occupied for more than two months.]

The new attack followed fighting Saturday and Sunday in which Chinese engaged Japanese bluejackets between Chefoo and Weihaiwei, a coast town east of Chefoo. Many cities which fell to the Japanese last winter were flying the Chinese flag again.

Guerrilla Troops Near Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, April 6 [Wednesday.]—(AP)—Chinese guerrilla bands are striking close to Shanghai's back door at the Japanese military forces which already are fully occupied on the central China front.

Japanese officers told today of one Chinese assault by more than 1,000 raiders, who gathered fifteen miles southwest of Shanghai and attacked Japanese soldiers near Sungkiang.

In another attack near Sungkiang, Chinese were said to have ambushed a truck and killed ten Japanese officers and soldiers.

Recapture Two Towns.

About fifty miles south of Shanghai, on the northern shore of Hangchow bay, Chinese said their forces had recaptured the towns of Haiyen and Haining and were attacking Chapoo. These outbreaks of guerrilla warfare were in the area occupied by Japanese forces between Nov. 9 and Dec. 13.

Chinese spokesmen said Japanese military trains en route from Shanghai to Hangchow, 100 miles to the southwest, were under special guard due to the growing irregular warfare.

Other Chinese sources reported that Japanese troops burned all the villages along a ten mile stretch of road west of Shanghai in a house to house search for guerrilla troops.

Chinese and Japanese reports from the central front [Southern Shantung and Northern Kiangsu provinces] were conflicting. Both factions asserted their forces held Taierchwang, center of a seventeen day battle twenty miles north of the east-west Lunghai railway.

A Japanese spokesman announced that Japanese units, after "complete occupation" of the town, were marching "somewhere in northern Kiangsu province" toward the Lunghai. A Chinese spokesman denied this and added that a Japanese unit of 1,000 had entered the town only to be wiped out by Chinese.

Agree to Postpone Philippines' Economic Freedom Until 1960

Washington, D. C., April 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt and President Quezon of the Philippine commonwealth have agreed to postpone Philippine economic independence until the end of 1960.

The state department made public today the outline of a program providing for a gradual elimination of the trade preferences now existing between the islands and the United States.

The program is the result of a year's investigation by a joint preparatory committee on Philippine affairs, headed by John V. MacMurray, United States ambassador to Turkey.

It does not change the date of Philippine political independence, July 4, 1946, but provides that economic ties shall not be severed until nearly 15 years after that date.

Details To Be Worked Out.

The plan probably will be presented to congress, but it is not expected to be ready in detail for the present session. Congressional approval is required to put the proposal into effect.

In general, the program calls for an annual reduction of 5 per cent in the trade preferences given Philippine products shipped to the United States.

That is, 5 per cent of the American duties which would apply to the products if they came from some European country, for instance, would be applied each year, beginning in 1941.

Levy to Shift in 1946.

In 1946, the date set for political independence, this percentage would aggregate 25. Up to that point it would consist of export taxes imposed and retained by the Philippines government.

In 1946, having reached 25 per cent, the levy would be imposed by the United States when the products arrive here, and the money would be retained by the United States. Each year thereafter another 5 per cent would be tacked on.

In the ordinary course this would lead to complete elimination of the trade preferences in 1961. However, there would be an adjustment of fiscal dates in the meantime, so that the elimination actually would occur in 1960.

Up to 1946 this program is virtually the same as the program in the Philippine independence act of 1934.

Japs Ask U. S. for Itemized Bill on Sinking of Panay

TOKIO, April 6.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—The Japanese government today asked the United States for a more fully itemized account of the $2,214,007.36 damages requested for the Panay incident.

The American request for indemnity resulting from the sinking of the United States gunboat Panay under a Japanese aerial bombardment Dec. 12 has been referred to a committee of navy, army, and finance ministry representatives. The request for additional information was forwarded to Washington, D. C.

[In a note to Japan March 23 the United States itemized the Panay damages thus: property losses, $1,945,670.01; deaths and injuries, $268,337.35.]

DRIVERS WARNED OF RUSH HOUR AUTOING PERILS

Report of Park District Lists Danger Points.

If you are a man, in the 30 to 49 age group, and prone to have automobile accidents, stay off Lake Shore drive and Michigan avenue during the 5 p. m. rush hour and don't drive on Saturdays and Sundays. Maybe you will live a little longer.

This advice is contained in a study of the 1937 trafic accident summary of the Chicago park district, prepared yesterday by Otto K. Jelinek, trafic engineer. It showed that last year there were 9,661 accidents involving motor vehicles in the park system, that 122 persons were killed, and 3,545 injured.

Most of the accidents were automobile collisions, although 1,062 were with a fixed object, such as a street light, and 992 were with pedestrians. Most of those killed and injured were between 25 and 64 years old.

More Crashes in Early Evening.

Of all the hours in the day, that between 5 and 6 p. m. was the worst for trafic accidents, with the night hours close behind. Sunday with 1,651 and Saturday with 1,595 were bad days for accidents, and Tuesday the best. Accidents happened at 3,278 stop signs and 3,916 automatic trafic control lights.

Although every man contends women are poor drivers, the so-called weaker sex drove cars in 1,452 accidents, while the men were drivers in 15,278 cases. In 383 cases the sex of the driver did not show on the report.

Other pertinent facts revealed in the study were: 7,203 accidents occurred at intersections; 8,620 drivers were between 30 and 49 years old; 520 were drunk; in most cases the road was in good condition, the pavement dry, the weather clear, and it was daylight; the streets with the highest accident frequency were Lake Shore drive, Michigan avenue, South Parkway, Jackson boulevard, and Garfield boulevard.

Parolee Sentenced to Jail.

William Russell Williams, colored, a paroled convict from Joliet penitentiary, was sentenced yesterday by Judge James M. Braude of the Safety court to thirty days in the Bridewell for reckless driving.

Williams begged for a dismissal, saying that conviction would cause his return to prison for parole violation. On March 27 Williams, employed as an automobile jocky, smashed the car he was driving against a parked automobile at Chestnut street and Wabash avenue.

Arne Ero, 4225 Lincoln avenue, was sentenced to ten days in the county jail for reckless driving, but was given credit for the two days he had been incarcerated. Insisting he only drank one beer, Ero later admitted he had quaffed liberally from a half gallon bottle.

Six Others Sentenced.

Other defendants in court yesterday and their sentences:

CASIMIR ROVOSHOSKI, 2878 Archer avenue, five days in jail for reckless driving.

JOHN BOLAND, 5524 South Hermitage avenue, six months probation, reckless driving.

ORR IS GRANTED CUSTODY OF HIS TWO CHILDREN

Willard T. Orr, 5225 University avenue, a wealthy real estate dealer, was granted the custody yesterday of his two children by Judge Donald S. McKinlay. The children, Willard Jr., 9 years old, and Priscilla, 8, are believed to be with their mother, Mrs. Florence Orr, who has been indicted for kidnaping them. In the action yesterday, Orr contended that his wife had violated a previous order of the court in taking the children to California.

Mrs. Orr was granted an interlocutory decree in Los Angeles last May 3 and in a later habeas corpus action against her husband here, was granted custody of the children for six months of the year, provided that they were kept in Cook county. Friends of Mrs. Orr reported to the state's attorney's office on Monday that she expects to return from the west coast and face the kidnaping charge.

HUSBAND KILLED, WIFE IS INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

William Grace, 50 years old, of 7948 Bennett avenue, was killed last night in an automobile collision at Jeffery avenue and 93d street. His wife, May, 42, who was driving, was severely injured. She was taken to the South Chicago hospital, as was the driver of the other car, Mrs. Anna Kroll, 44, of 9357 Vernon avenue. Grace was an engineer at the Schiller school.

Burton Bachrach, 10 years old, 4260 Hazel avenue, was killed yesterday when he ran from behind a parked automobile into the side of a ten ton coal truck in front of 4214 Broadway. He was the son of Irving Bachrach, president of the Gibraltar Paper corporation. The truck driver was Anthony McGill, 1624 Highland avenue.

The body of a man killed Monday by a hit and run motorist at Beach drive and Diversey parkway was identified yesterday as that of Frank Weil, 45, who lived near La Salle and Superior streets.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 224 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county. Of these 181 were killed within the city limits, where 4,337 were injured in the same period.

VICTIM OF RADIUM WINS $3,470 AND PENSION FOR LIFE

Appeals Will Delay Final Awards to 14 Others.

Fifteen Illinois women, whose health has been injured permanently by radium poisoning, won a victory yesterday in their claims for compensation from the Radium Dial company, which formerly employed them at Ottawa.

In a test case brought on behalf of Mrs. Catherine Donohue, one of the victims, George B. Marvel, arbitrator for the Illinois industrial commission, ruled that the company is liable for her disability under the state occupational disease act and directed payment to her of $3,470 as an award, a life pension of $277 annually beginning June 1, 1940, and $2,500 for medical treatment.

Company Plans Appeal.

Attorney Arthur Magid, representing the company, said the decision will be appealed, thus delaying final settlement.

By agreement between Magid and Attorney Leonard J. Grosman, counsel for the fifteen women, the final decision in the Donohue case will govern that for the fourteen other victims, and if the company's liability is upheld the various compensations for the fourteen will be computed on a basis of the length of their employment and the extent of the impairment to their health.

The others who have claims against the company are Miss Helen Munch, 28 years old, 3423 North Avers avenue, and Mrs. Charlotte Purcell, 31, of 6749 South Halsted street; Mrs. Marie Rossiter, Mrs. Alice Leech, Mrs. Walter Politte, Mrs. Maxine Smith, Mrs. Nellie Jacobs Holtrum, Miss Marguerite Glacinski, Miss Charlotte Halm, and Miss Olive West, all of Ottawa; Mrs. Pearl Payne, La Salle; Mrs. Norma De Groot, Peru; Mrs. Peter Byers, Seneca, and Mrs. Catherine Balda, Detroit.

Figured on Weekly Basis.

The $3,470 award to Mrs. Donohue is figured on a basis of $11 a week from April 25, 1934, to June 1, 1940, when the life pension is to begin. The $11 weekly payments from April, 1934, to date total $2,255, which the arbitrator ordered paid in a lump sum.

Several years ago the Radium Dial company moved its plant from Ottawa to New York. Attorneys for the company assert that the only asset in Illinois on which the victims might levy for compensation judgments is a $10,000 bond posted with the industrial commission.

BOWEN CLEARS STATE HOSPITAL IN EMERY DEATH

After an investigation into the mysterious death of an American Legion member at the Elgin State Hospital for the Insane last Friday, Director A. L. Bowen of the state welfare department declared yesterday he is certain that the man was injured before being committed to the institution. He said Legion officials concur in his findings.

The patient, Ray Gordon Emery, a retired Chicago executive, was found by a coroner's jury to have died of exhaustion due to mental ills, with a broken nose and fractured ribs as contributory causes. Elgin hospital officials insisted Emery must have been injured at the Chicago Psychopathic hospital, where he was confined for a time.

A policeman, unnoticed in a telephone booth, shot a bandit in the right leg yesterday when the robber entered a tavern at 355 West 79th street waving a pistol and shouting to the owner and one customer to put up their hands.

The wounded man is James Beam, who said he lives at 7925 May street. Policeman Richard Buckley, attached to the state's attorney's office, rushed at Beam and grappled with him for several minutes in an effort to wrest the gun from him. Failing, he shot the robber.

REPUBLICANS IN THEIR OWN PRIMARIES.

Republican campaigners in the state primaries, headed by Richard J. Lyons, the candidate for the United States senate, strongly urge the Republican voters to stay out of the Democratic election. The Democrats are in a nice fight and some of their candidates have a desire not to keep it a private one. They'll be willing to take all the Republican votes they can get. Their present dissensions disguise their general unity on national questions. That is the dividing line between all of them and all of the Republicans.

The Democratic party in Illinois has not repudiated the New Deal. The Horner party and the Nash party are neither of them rebel organizations. Each maintains that it is the better loyalist of the two. The private doubts of individual candidates, whatever they may be, are kept under the pillow at home, and, although the scrap between the two factions is going into a slugging fifteenth round, it contains no issues attractive to a Republican vote.

Gov. Horner's state machine and Mr. Nash's Cook county following are fighting out questions of state political control of great importance to the Democratic party in Illinois but of no concern to the Republicans. Whoever wins this larruping Democratic fight will be the opponent the Republicans will meet in November on issues that are important. The primaries are party affairs for the nomination of candidates and are just where party differences and partisan attempts at control should be fought out.

There is an effort to make it seem that certain Democratic candidates in this family scrap so represent the cause of public welfare that Republicans should vote for them. The bystander may ask leave to doubt it. Such pretenses are always made in a rattling party fight, but sometimes they're not impressive, and they're not now. No candidate in the Democratic primaries is at all disturbed by the state of the nation. There isn't an outspoken nonconformist among them. They all profess themselves satisfied with things as they are and pledge themselves to a continuance of what is, and, if anything, for more of it.

To that attitude the Republican party is opposed in every respect. When the Democrats have composed their differences by conciliation or extermination, when they have settled the question of patronage and political control by batting each other over the head the survivors and winners will all line up as yes-men and they will go into the election chanting for the New Deal.

Therefore Republicans, as they have been urged throughout this rollicking personal purge undertaken by the fighting Democratic gamecocks, should use the occasion to strengthen their own organization, poll their own vote, and present the best candidates they have. In November the fight will be theirs. Apparently many of the partisan Democrats do not think very favorably of one another. That's for the time being. Later they'll be forced to clasp hands in the brotherhood of the New Deal. Republicans don't like the ideas of national government expressed by any of them. Possibly some of them don't like them very well themselves, but, nevertheless, they will act upon them, and Republicans must take them at their word.

OLIVER CROMWELL IN THE BRITISH FOREIGN OFFICE.

When Lord Halifax succeeded Anthony Eden a bust of Cromwell was moved into possession of a niche in the foreign office where the new secretary could observe the graven features of the lord protector, presumably whenever he wanted inspiration. A commentator in London notes the incident as peculiar because Lord Halifax has been an admirer of Charles I., regarding him as a great English monarch. The peculiarity may be less than it appears, both Charles and Oliver being men who disliked parliamentary interference with their own will, Oliver having no stronger will but the stronger arm.

If it's the policy of Prime Minister Chamberlain and Lord Halifax to find how they can agree and not disagree with Hitler and Mussolini, Cromwell's is not a bad image for foreign office contemplation. And he wouldn't be out of place in the offices of Hitler and Mussolini. He was a sterner, stronger man than either the German or the Italian dictator, but he couldn't find a way to make his protectorate endure.

He could perceive that there was no dependable succession and before his death he could see the disintegration setting in and must have known that when his hand dropped from the control dissolution was the prospect. He tried to draw up a form of government which would continue the better changes of the revolution and give Englishmen freedom without a monarchy, but he couldn't hit it off.

The thing his political philosophy could not provide was the continuation of himself. He couldn't invent the office which the American revolutionists found in the person of the elected chief executive. He couldn't attach that office to the suffrages of the people. He was about 125 years too early. Later, in the American constitutional convention, a Scotsman, James Wilson, was to discover what Cromwell couldn't find, a chief executive elected every four years, with power sufficient for the administration of the affairs of a great nation and checks which would keep him from becoming or needing to become too powerful.

Cromwell's warning to the dictators is that they are ephemeral.

THE STOCK MARKET.

The stock market in a persistent retreat has arrived at a point where a look around seems to be suggested. On Thursday fifty leading stocks sold for an average price of $69.70. That was the lowest since May 7, 1933.

Let's see, 1933 was the year of the moratorium, wasn't it? Yes, it was. On March 3, the day before the banks and the markets closed for a prolonged holiday, the average price of the fifty stocks was $50.50. In the rise which got under way after the market reopened on March 11 and continued with frequent interruptions for five years an average of $142.93 was attained. The maximum advance amounted to $92.43. By noon last Thursday four-fifths of the price advance had melted away.

Having now located the market as in the vicinity of the moratorium average, we may speculate upon the reasons for its being there. The index of industrial output compiled by the federal reserve authorities stood at 79 in February. A year ago it was 116, and in February, 1933, it was 63. The official index of output went up 53 points after the moratorium and now has gone down 37 points. At the beginning of last month two-thirds of the increase in business since the moratorium had vanished.

Many concerns formerly paid dividends which did not vary for a ten year period. In good times the payments to stockholders were much less than was earned. In hard times the payments went right on, even though profits no longer were earned. Steady dividends made for steadiness in market quotations.

Beginning with 1936, it has been different. During the last two years corporations were under the compulsion of paying out substantially all of their earnings. Failure to do so entailed the payment of heavy taxes under the surplus earnings tax law. At the rate of dividends in 1936 and the first three quarters of 1937 stocks appeared very attractive.

Earnings of one leading company amounted to $14 in 1936 and $11 in 1937. Dividends of $12 and $11, respectively, were paid. The stock rose to $140 per share. The prospects for profitable operations this year appear dim, and dividends have been discontinued. The stock recently sold for $35.

Ordinary practice would have suggested a dividend of $5 in each of the last two years. Payments then would have been continued for several years after business went into the red. With a $5 dividend the stock would not have risen to $140 last year and would not have fallen to $35 this year.

The decline in business is no doubt one of the explanations for the bad market of the last two weeks. But the recession has not recently become more severe. In fact, the steel industry has been improving and is operating at the highest rate in four months. During the first two and a half months of this year the market had held firm above the level of last November. It was not until the unfavorable dividend actions were taken that the low level of last autumn was penetrated.

The explanation of last week's bear market appears simple enough to those who occupy this corner of the paper. So long as professional trading is at a minimum stock will be bought for dividends and sold for the lack of them. So long as the surplus earnings tax is law dividends will fluctuate widely. Payment will be large in fat years and small in lean years. And, therefore, stock prices will rise faster and further and fall faster and further. The dividend action accounts for the changes in stock prices, and the tax law controls the dividend action. The surplus earnings tax would therefore seem to be in conflict with the declared objective to fill up the valleys and level off the peaks, which, of course, it is.

THE MYSTERY OF BOCK.

[Baltimore Evening Sun.]

Not many German words are better known to the American public than bock, meaning goat. This is due to the fact that the bock beer sign, decorated with the picture of a goat, has been for many years [forgetting the thirteen black years] a mildly festive feature of the American spring. Baltimoreans have been pleasantly aware of this seasonal brew for some days now, although there used to be a local tradition that it wasn't to be served until Good Friday.

There are authorities who pretend to trace the origin of bock beer back to the eleventh century, but nobody really knows much about it. There is even some disagreement as to what it is. A vast amount of space would be required merely to review the various opinions handed down by respectable historians and brewmasters, while to review the speculations of dreamers and folklorists would be a lifelong task.

There are those, among them J. P. Arnold, the author of "The Origin and History of Beer and Brewing," who hold to the Einbeck theory, to wit, that bock originated in the ancient South German town of that name, and that it was first called einbeck, which became shortened to beck and eventually changed to bock. If this is true, then it was the name that suggested the goat as a symbol. Contrariwise, another account relates how, during a famous outdoor drinking bout between brewmasters near Munich, one of the contestants was bowled over by a runaway goat, to the merriment of the spectators, who thereafter always referred to the strong brew he was drinking as bock.

As to the actual brew, which ought to be of far more immediate concern, it may be said that modern bock is simply a mellow beer, rich in malt extract, and exceptionally smooth. It has been aged longer and is darker than ordinary light beer, though it is usually not so dark as dark beer. In the old days, before refrigeration, beer was brewed in winter, and bock, the first of the winter's brew to be opened in the spring, was prepared especially for a festival then held. Nowadays bock could be produced at any season by a modern brewery. Being smoother and richer, it is naturally stronger, also, than other beer. On this note of caution we take leave of the subject until another spring.

IT'S A FLOOD STORY, brought by Ernest Byfield from Hollywood. A victim of the flood called for succor when the water rose to her window levels. As she was being taken out in a boat the man at the oars noticed a derby hat moving around in the water. "What's that?" he asked. "That's my Able," said the rescuee. "Don't you want to take him, too?" persisted the boatman. "Well," was the answer, "when my Able says he's going to mow the lawn he mows the lawn."

CHICAGO.

All this I love; 'tis my city—
The crowds in the sun, and the noise,
The wind from the streets, and the lake breeze,
The rain, the Italian newsboys;
The goddess of wheatfields who gazes
Down on the barren cement,
The blue beacon stabbing the darkness,
The gold coast, the bleak tenement.

The dreams that at last are fulfilled,
The suffering that ends in no gain,
All this I love; 'tis my city—
The heartache, the joys and the pain.

PASTED ON THE BOTTOM of a box of berries she bought at the corner store Marcelle Laval Duffé found this missive: "Whomever receive or buy this pt. of berrys pleas write me as to condiction of fruit and price paid for same. Thanks. Mrs. S. W., Hammond, La." An extrovert, reaching out from her berry picking towards establishing outside contacts, mused Mrs. Duffé. An economist, interested in the relationship between cost of labor at the source and market value at distribution point, and, finally, the true artist with a soul beyond her pay, concerned as to the enduring qualities of her handiwork. Naturally, Mrs. Duffé wrote Mrs. S. W. a note about the berries. And inclosed a hankie, a memento of their unseen contact.

You recently printed a tidbit in which you stated that the women residing at Eagle Point, a suburb of Dubuque, were notified by a rock quarry in the vicinity an hour before every blast; that they would then leave their homes until after the boom-boom, then return and remain there until notified of another impending blast. Believe it or not, dear June, the good ladies of Eagle Point don't need a blast of dynamite to get them out of their homes. All it takes is a couple o' full-page ads in the evening paper announcing that tomorrow will be Dollar Day in the downtown stores.

I CAN'T SMELL A THING.

PHYSICIANS rarely encounter a patient who has suffered a total loss of the sense of smell. We have all had the experience of being unable to identify strong food odors, such as boiling onions, cabbage, or cauliflower. But when this situation presents itself we recognize a temporary incapacity caused by an acute inflammation or infection of the nasal passages which, as a rule, yields to treatment within a few days.

How do we detect odors? Each of us is provided with two olfactory nerves which send tiny fibrils [branches] into the upper part of the lining wall of the nose. These filaments are numerous, and whenever air filled with scents is breathed in, these minute nerve tips are stimulated and convey the message to the brain. Originally perhaps the service was intended to disclose danger or to discover food. Nowadays we look upon it as something of a luxury and we resort to perfumes and to fragrant nosegays to give us pleasure.

The usual causes of anosmia [loss of smell] are the common cold, nasal polyps, infections or injury of the nose itself involving its mucous surfaces, hay fever, or certain drugs such as potassium iodide or arsenic. We can readily understand that with chronic nasal disease, regardless of its origin, inflammation may break down not only the mucous covering and the nerves, but the bones as well. Occasionally an abnormally dry mucosa is at fault.

Of course, brain disease, deterioration of the olfactory organ proper, or lack of circulation to the structure is followed by a complete and permanent disability. Finally, we must not forget hysterical states. Afflicted persons will complain of horrible stenches which are nonexistent or assert that they are unable to detect perfumes which are present.

Many of us have had the misfortune to encounter individuals who look and act as though they were perpetually obliged to inhale polluted air. The facial muscles appear to be twisted as from habit. Now, the chances are that there is no dead rat within the room, but there may be a comparable situation within the nose of the victim. Putrid, purulent discharges from the sinuses or the nasal mucosa may overpower the attar of roses. Decaying pus is responsible.

The disorder, known as ozena, is difficult to remedy. Here so many of the nerve filaments have been weakened due to the presence of firm scar tissue that the patient may be unconscious of the foul character of his own discharges. Those with bad breath are all too often utterly unaware of the affliction.

Now and then the condition is brought about through the employment of a strong nasal douche or spray in an attempt to cure inflammation. For example, preparations which contain zinc, alum, or tannic acid will gradually usher in the failure. Sometimes merely stopping the use of these solutions will reestablish the function.

Treatment consists in removing infection and obstructions to the passage of air. Cases have been reported in which some slight operation has restored smell after years of almost entire deprivation. In other words, the air breathed in failed to reach the sensitive spots. Again, permitting free drainage of a chronically infected sinus produces good results. Here pus no doubt bathed the mucous surfaces and prevented the access of odors.

In chronic nasal catarrh—so-called—washing the passages with a mild alkaline solution [a half teaspoonful of soda bicarbonate to 1 cupful of water] for a few weeks will frequently stimulate recovery.

MAY BE NERVOUS REFLEX.

I. O. writes: What causes palpitation of the heart after eating even small quantities of food? I eat slowly. I am in good health and blood pressure is slightly below normal.

REPLY.

In your case the symptom probably is a nervous reflex from the digestive tract. It is probably not organic or of serious moment. If it persists consult your physician. A sedative may relieve you completely.

ABOUT VITAMIN C.

L. P. writes: What is the daily requirement of vitamin C for children? For adults?

REPLY.

The requirements for children and adults are the same. It is estimated that the daily amount of vitamin C which one must have to protect from scurvy is that which is found in one ounce of orange juice. Equivalents are the same quantity of grapefruit, lemon, or tomato juice.

FIGHTING ON FOREIGN SOIL.

Chicago, April 2.—There came to my attention recently a petition, the object of which is to instruct representatives in congress from Illinois to support a bill which would prohibit the draft of "our boys" to fight on foreign soil. Many persons were affixing their signatures to this petition with little thought of its effect in the event of an emergency which would require the mobilization of man power for military service. Indignantly and emphatically I refused to sign.

I am a veteran of the war with Spain, Mexican border service, and the world war. I know what war means. I also have a son who will serve in the next war, if and when it comes. He has been trained in the R. O. T. C. and the regular army and is a reserve first lieutenant. He, too, knows what it is all about. With this background and this prospect I have as little desire as any one to send our boys into war's carnage.

The motives of those who originate such a petition as the above mentioned are not always beyond question. But beyond doubt most of those who sign it do so without thinking the matter through to a logical conclusion. They do not realize that they are actually joining in a movement to weaken our national defense. How would they like to see a hostile force landed in New Jersey or Carolina or California and our people subjected to the terrors and horrors of invasion? How would they contemplate a repetition of the sack of Washington? They simply fail to think the matter through. The great mass of our people let others do their thinking for them, and then follow blindly. In such cases realization often comes too late.

Now let us face the facts. In the name of prudence we should avoid mixing in others nations' quarrels. We should not go looking for trouble. But if we become involved in war on our own account we must carry the war to the enemy, not let him carry it to us. We must go where the enemy is, fight him and whip him on his own ground. An old maxim of war says the best defensive is a strong offensive. No conflict can be successfully waged and terminated except by carrying the war to the enemy. To advocate any other course is not in the interest of our country, is not true patriotism. Such counsels must not prevail.

AGAINST TAX EXEMPTION.

Chicago, April 2.—The city council has requested Gov. Horner to call a special session of the legislature to enact laws to provide a subsidy for federal apartment projects by means of tax exemption. As a taxpayer I wish to protest against this injustice. Why should real estate owners be obliged to pay full tax rates on their property and these competing buildings be exempt from taxation? During the entire depression the Illinois Emergency Relief commission discriminated against real estate owners paying little or no rent to the owners, even instructing tenants how to act to beat the landlord out of his rent, and now our city council, whose salaries real estate tax payers pay, wish to give real estate owners the final knockout by giving their competitors tax exemption.

Taxpayers, in general, who must pay higher taxes, to make up the loss in revenue because of these tax exemptions, should unite to block this scheme.

CHESS VS. BRIDGE.

Chicago, March 31.—Mr. Albin Daines Jr. reveals an inaccurate conception of the relative merits of cards and chess.

Originally both cards and chess were one game employing small blocks or figures to represent opposing forces on a field of battle. Gradually the game split into two distinctly separate divisions, one allowing all its information and maneuvers to remain open to both sides, the other hiding its strength to all but the side to which it was attached. Chess evolved into a form of mathematical sparring, a contest won by the player who employed the more ingenious and abstract principles in its manuevers. Cards, as epitomized in contract bridge, have evolved into brilliant thrusts and parries in which the side that employs the shrewdest estimate in ascertaining what power the opposing force controls, where that power lies, and when that power was to be used was the ultimate winner.

Any one, with the exception of a student of mathematics, who has access to a deck of cards and the daily articles of Mr. Culbertson will, I am certain, agree with Mr. Lasker, former chess champion of the world, that "chess is a dead game, far inferior to bridge."

CONTRADICTION.

Chicago, April 2.—Can any one explain to us taxpayers, why when we do rise up in protest against legislation which will cost us millions more, by sending telegrams and letters to our representatives, the President of the United States should call it "propaganda" and "purchasing the senators"; whereas if these same telegrams and letters had been for his measures it would very likely be called another mandate from the people? It behooves any party in power to sit up and take notice when the people make known their protest in such a manner. D. C.

THE R. O. T. C. CONTEST.

Chicago, April 2.—Today a platoon competition for the Chicago public high schools' R. O. T. C. was held at the 131st Infantry armory. Although our school's platoon didn't win, I don't feel that Sullivan deserved it. For three straight years Tilden has won the squad competitions and we all felt that Tilden had it in the bag. However, Sullivan came on the floor with fancy drills and a German goose step. I think that Tilden and a few other schools were better than Sullivan, but what is a cadet's ideal worth? PUZZLED STUDENT.

THE TELEPHONE REPORT.

Berwyn, Ill., April 3.—I'm boiling and I've just got to let off steam!

Who is this man Walker that is so cocksure that he can tell the American Telephone and Telegraph company how to run their business? What experience has he had? Does he think that offhand, he can run the business better than the company with years of experience? If so, he's some paragon, I'd say.

It is my belief that there is nothing materially wrong with the A. T. & T.'s affairs but that the administration has to find some imaginary fault as an excuse to get the company's control under its thumb—and when it does, good-by free speech? We'll not dare tell Mrs. Jones over the phone what we think of the way the administration in Washington is running things.

Why, O why, will they not leave business alone? We're a bunch of spineless jellyfish to sit back and take it. The red blood of our patriot ancestors has turned to water in our veins.

Meanwhile our President says he is working for the betterment of the working people and the country. Bah, and more bah! ADA MILNE.

SELF-SERVING.

Chicago, April 2.—Guy B. Reno's article regarding the impossibility of securing a return of taxes illegally collected by the state illustrates very definitly how little is done to give the people a fair deal. Very few public officials think primarily of giving a fair deal. Their main interest is to serve themselves and their friends and they become very much hurt if anything else is expected of them. The Democrats are no worse except that they hold too many jobs.

Just to have a little competition we should elect Republicans to all offices this coming election. And no person who has another business should be elected to office under any circumstances. Too many politicians hold two or three offices, while some of their fellow humans, capable men, have no jobs.

WHO WROTE "MADMAN'S WILL"?

Washington, D. C., March 24.—I would appreciate it greatly if you could inform me as to the real author of the old and so-called "Madman's Will," which is often quoted and attributed to "Charles Lounsbury," supposed deceased inmate of the Cook county asylum, but which, I understand, was the work of a local newspaper man.

STRIKES GROW IN FRANCE AS BLUM CABINET TOTTERS

Premier Called "Robber" in Wild Chamber Debate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 5.—Premier Leon Blum's Popular Front government is doomed to die. This was indicated today when senators in a caucus voted to reject the Socialist premier's demand for dictatorial powers to put the nation's tottering financial and economic structure in order.

Leftist senators, who control the upper house, decided to kill Blum's financial bill by a vote of 46 to 3 at the same time that new strikes harassed the nation.

Session Is Suspended.

The debate became so noisy that Edouard Herriot, the chamber president, suspended the session.

Jean Montigny, an independent deputy, charged that the Blum bill, which confers powers of decree until July 1, will start a "social and economic revolution."

"The German republic perished that way," he shouted.

Leftist deputies, who are championing Blum's cause, rose from their seats and began advancing toward the rightists. Ushers dashed up and stopped the march. The rightist deputies cried: "Back to the ghetto!"

Blum Rushes Into Crowd.

Blum and several cabinet members forced their way into the crowd and, with the help of attendants, kept the two factions from attacking each other.

After quiet was restored Blum replied to Montigny's attack.

"From now on the treasury must find $30,000,000 a week outside the present sources of income," he said. "Armament costs in the face of the constant threat of war have strained the nation's finances badly.

"Neither France nor any nation can go on like this. The men who are given the cruel honor to govern this country cannot continue this way. Forgetting party and speaking as a Frenchman, I say it is necessary to have a stable government and a disciplined nation."

Nearly 35,000 are on strike in the vicinity of Paris, many of them in the metal trades and auto industry.

PETER J. KASPER, PIONEER GROCER, DEAD AT AGE 84

Funeral services for Peter J. Kasper, a pioneer in the wholesale grocery business, will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. in St. Ignatius church with burial at St. Boniface cemetery. Mr. Kasper, who was 84 years old, died Monday in Ravenswood hospital. He lived at 6414 Magnolia avenue.

Associated with the late Franklin McVeagh after he came here at the age of 14, Mr. Kasper later organized the Durand & Kasper wholesale grocery. In 1921 with the McNeill Higgins and Henry Horner companies, the three became the Wholesale Grocers corporation.

In 1925 when the company changed its name to Durand, McNeill & Horner, Kasper organized a preserve manufacturing business as Peter J. Kasper Sons' company. His father-in-law, Frederick A. Gund, was an associate of Mayor Long John Wentworth and built the first tobacco factory here.

Surviving Mr. Kasper are his widow, Mary, and four sons, William H., Simeon M., Robert, and Frederick J.

Chicago Lawyer Disbarred by State Supreme Court

Killian O. Landeck, Chicago attorney, was disbarred yesterday by the Illinois state Supreme court at Springfield on the recommendation of the grievance committee of the Chicago Bar association. In 1936 the committee, sitting as commissioners of the court, heard testimony that Landeck converted to his own use $100 and a $250 promissory note belonging to a woman client whose divorce case he had handled. Landeck, who has not been in active practice for two years, lives at 6159 South Albany avenue.

OBITUARIES

Frederick L. Simmons.

Frederick L. Simmons, 70 years old, who retired recently after forty-five years with the Pullman company, died yesterday. At the time of his retirement, Mr. Simmons was supervisor of industrial relations for the company. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday in the home at 915 North Grove avenue, Oak Park, with burial in Mount Emblem cemetery. Mr. Simmons' widow and three daughters survive.

VIENNA CARDINAL TO TELL POPE OF DEAL WITH NAZIS

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

VATICAN CITY, April 5.—Cardinal Theodore Innitzer, archbishop of Vienna, who was summoned by Pope Pius XI. to explain his dealings with the new Nazi masters of Austria, arrived in Rome tonight. Soon after his arrival he conferred with Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli, papal secretary of state in the Vatican. The pope will receive him tomorrow.

Cardinal Innitzer.

Further developments in the religious war raging between the holy see and the Nazi régime depend very largely on the outcome of Cardinal Innitzer's conversation with the pope.

Vatican Angry with Cardinal.

It is evident the Vatican is very angry with the cardinal for taking the law in his own hands and bowing down to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and even adding the Nazi "Heil Hitler" to the letters made public without first seeking instructions from the holy see.

[Cardinal Innitzer and five Austrian bishops signed a declaration in which they said it was their duty "to declare our loyalty as Germans to the German reich" in next Sunday's plebiscite on union with Germany. The declaration was read in Austrian churches March 27.]

It is possible, however, that the information the cardinal brings regarding the religious situation in Austria and the changed attitude of the Nazis toward Catholicism, now that they have annexed the Catholics of Austria, may induce the pope to recede from the absolute intransigeance that has so far characterized his dealings with the Nazi government.

Indications of Entente.

Slight indications of an entente between the holy see and the Nazi régime are to be observed in the Vatican.

First comes the fact the Vatican has been at great pains to deny any official character to the broadcast from the Vatican station last Friday in which Cardinal Innitzer was severely attacked and the Austrian Catholics told they need not feel constrained to vote for Austro-German union.

Next come the favorable comments made in Vatican circles of the assurances given in speeches delivered in Germany and Austria that the German government has no quarrel with the church provided the church keeps out of politics.

HEIR TO $9,544 ESTATE FOUND AFTER 7 YEARS

After a search for nearly seven years an heir appeared yesterday to have been found to claim the estate of Steven Schultz, elderly farmer who died on his place near Libertyville in 1931. The heir, a nephew, is Ferdinand Wassmundt, 59 years old, 1922 South Kedzie avenue. At a hearing before Probate Judge Martin C. Decker of Lake county the chance by which the heir was traced was told.

In 1896 a German woman living in Chicago wrote to friends in the old country, stating she had seen Emily Wassmundt on the street. Mrs. Wassmundt, a half sister of Steven Schultz, was the mother of Ferdinand Wassmundt. Two years ago, while advertisments for Schultz's heirs were running in German newspapers, the recipient of the letter written in 1896 remembered it and found it in her files. The burgomeister of her village forwarded the letter to Carl Schinkel, who then was German consul in Chicago. Through him Attorneys Roderick H. O'Connor and Frank Opeka, the latter acting for the public administrator of Lake county, traced Wassmundt, a former member of the Chicago Board of Trade. The Schultz estate is estimated at $9,544.

N. U. CONFERENCE TACKLES ISSUES OF AGRARIAN LIFE

Speaker Would Abolish Absentee Ownership.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The possibilities of a self-sustaining agrarian life in the modern world are being canvassed in lectures and round table discussions at a conference of agricultural experts which began yesterday at Northwestern university under the sponsorship of Prof. Baker Brownell of the department of contemporary thought.

Ralph Borsodi, an economist and housing expert who has often criticized the federal administration for its policies of cash subsidies and centralized administrative control for farming, was the headliner of the day. He will be followed today by M. L. Wilson, administrator of the new farm law, and O. E. Baker, senior agricultural economist of the division of farm population and rural life.

Land Tenure Proposal.

Borsodi, who is the founder of independent homestead communities outside New York, said the solution of the problem was to introduce a system of land tenure abolishing absentee ownership and land speculation, thus making is possible for the city millions as well as the tenant farmer to own a plot of land and raise part of their food necessities.

"One hundred years ago," he said, "between 80 and 90 per cent of the farmers of the United States were landowners. At the present time more than half the farmers do not own their own land. The principal institution responsible for this, in my opinion, has been land speculation, a system of land ownership which has persistently tempted the farmer to rely upon land speculation rather than upon farming."

Tells of Loss in Values.

"No wonder the demand for agricultural relief was answered with moratoriums forbidding foreclosures, establishment of federal land and farm credit agencies, and now direct federal subsidies to farmers.

"No socially and economically sound agriculture can be maintained under the conditions which have produced this record. Even if one were to be established by a revolutionary redistribution of land, without any change in the present system of land tenure it would only be a question of time until the conditions of absentee ownership, farm tenancy, mortgage exploitation and urban concentration such as exist at present again developed.

Future Inheritors Suffer.

"Each generation of farmers consists of tenants for life only. It is impossible for any generation to speculate in land or to exhaust the soil entrusted to it without depriving its own children and all future in- making money, that is precisely what we have been doing, and what we are being urged to do in ever greater measure by most of those who are telling us what is essential in order to modernize agriculture."

With all their machinery, he said, heritors of the earth of their birthright. Yet because of the commonly accepted idea that both land and farming are primarily methods of American farmers have not done as well as the Chinese, who have preserved the fertility of their soil for 4,000 years.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

The Spring Beauty

April 5, 1938.

WHEN nature at this season of the year starts the first of a series of outdoor flower shows you can be sure that the spring beauty, a rather delicate and temperamental little blossom, is going to be pretty near the front row. This trim but fragile blossom, which appears in the farm woods early in the season, is one of our best known spring flowers.

Its blossoms, either white and veined with pink, or pink lined with a deeper shade of pink, are known to thousands of outdoor fans. The blossoms appear in the middle west when the spring sun shines on trees almost devoid of foliage. The spring beauty wants this sort of situation. It must have the sun. When leaves block out the sun the blossoms of the spring beauty cease to open.

Thousands Soon Will Open.

We found the first spring beauty of the season early this week on the farm. There weren't many blossoms opened to the sun, as compared to the countless thousands that soon will form a stunning picture in the east woods. If ever there was an early spring flower that lived for the sunshine it's this capricious, slender little plant. Let clouds pass over the sky and take away the sunshine and the spring beauty quickly closes its beautiful little pink flowers.

And the spring beauty unmistakably resents being picked. It wilts almost to the touch. On Sundays when thousands of city dwellers may be in the woods enjoying a warm spring day, what a boon it would be to the spring beauty if all the would-be flower pickers knew how perishable the spring beauty is. In just a few minutes after they have been picked the tiny pink blossoms are limp and worthless. They cannot be taken from the woods and transported home, not if you wish them to stay fresh and beautiful.

Show Just Beginning.

The display of spring beauties on the farm is just beginning. Within a few days we will have large areas of blossoms unfolding along with the dog tooth violets. We noticed yesterday that the dog tooth violets are considerably behind the spring beauty in their growth. The dog tooth lit's really a lily instead of a violet] now is showing its first shoots, coming through in bare, moist places in the woods. They look like red match sticks poking through the ground. The more advanced plants have lost their red, however, and are showing fully opened leaves, which are dark green mottled with purple.

There is one display of deep green in the farm woods that may be overlooked and unappreciated unless you look closely. This the dark green tint on some of the large trees and on the ground where the mosses are growing. When we hiked through the woods yesterday we examined several trees that have rather large patches of moss on them. Every one of these had two shades of green, due to the fact that the plants have sent up tiny stalks. We got down on our knees to get a close look at some ground mosses. We found that the stalks and pods are really tiny spring flowers, each pod containing spores which will spread the growth of the moss.

New Topcoats Equal English for Tailoring

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Topcoats are in by the crates! Swanky new spring models, made of featherweight fabrics, are tailored like something out of an English shop and have details that usually come only in such coats. And all have a slick spring snap that makes them irresistible.

First the caramel beige beauties made of authentic camel's hair cloth or the careful copies in both shade and cloth as well tailored smartness.

In the moderately priced groups you'll find four outstanding styles and these are of the tricky camel's hair fabric. One is the typical straight line, a second the belted affair, a third is short and boxy and there's a "paddock special," guaranteed to take the last of the tightwad's hoard.

Black topcoats are extremely popular for the career girls. Most of them are of the type that can be dressed up or down with accessories; the kind of a coat that can go out with sweaters and pleated skirts as a sports special and then be just as clever with dress up colored accessories, even a fur scarf. The same news is true for the navy finds, and the coppertones.

Striped topcoats are new this season, from the clearly defined designs to the softly blurred or herringbone patterns in stripe formation. Definitly spring 1938 are the slenderizing chalkline striped coats in dull black or brown and navy with the faint chalk white lines about an inch apart.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The "Seven Sisters" quilt is a native of Virginia and has a definite historical background. The pattern was named after the seven beautiful Fowler sisters, who were known throughout the state. There were several other popular names for the pattern, such as "Pride of Virginia" and "Seven Stars," as well as other less meaningful titles. The block is of the hexagonal variety, and is set together according to a diagram accompanying the pattern. Printed and plain materials, both light and dark, with diamond patches of white interspersed, make up the design.

Enjoying Your Child Helps to Ease the Way

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: "I read your Sunday article of several weeks ago, and I'm sure I get just as much pleasure from my little son as the mother who wrote then. She surely has a pleasant way of wording her letter and I felt much the way she does when my Peter began toddling.

"Now he is nearly 2. It seems every new thing he does gives me pleasure. He is large for his age, so can 'hold his own' physically with the older youngsters. He will take severe bumps without fuss. He is very affectionate and is well liked by the many people who know him.

"He is just starting to talk well and I get a thrill of pride when he comes to me quietly for a 'visit.' I'm sure I say 'Thank God for sons' at least a dozen times a day. I only wish I had the gift to express how I feel."

It's an odd thing—but no, it isn't odd—that the mothers who enjoy their children most have the least trouble in managing them. I didn't say "love them most," but "enjoy them most." It's one thing to love them. It's quite another thing to enjoy your children.

Suppose, as this mother says, every new thing your little son does [or your little daughter] gives you pleasure. I know the feeling, do you? That's enjoying your children.

And do you think they don't sense it? They certainly do. If you're interested in them, if they delight you, if you have a feeling of satisfaction in being with them just as you do with grownups you enjoy, don't you think a warm current of contentment and friendliness flows between you? It surely does.

A mother may love her children and still be irritable, impatient and critical. A mother who enjoys her children as interesting people, very dear to her of course, has a different attitude, a different relation to them.

Ravishing Tone Chief Interest of This Choir

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Chicago Symphonic choir, dedicated to the advancement of unaccompanied choral music and to the proposition that the excellence of a song varies directly with the complexity of its arrangement, came to Orchestra hall last night to demonstrate once again its icy loveliness of tone and its remarkable precision and musicianship.

Walter Aschenbrenner, conductor of this group of about 100 men and women, chose for his program sacred and secular music ranging in time from the 16th century to the present and in character from the solemn chants of the Russian Orthodox church to Kountz's merry picture of the ecstasies incident to a sleigh ride.

The program was interesting for its parade of ravishing tonal effects. The sopranos especially have an ethereal, disembodied quality quite capable of convincing an unwary listener that he is indeed listening to the choiring of the angels. The men, although they would never be mistaken for supernatural beings, blend quite successfully into the full chorus.

The general pace of the evening was extremely slow. Not until the second song after the intermission did urgency of rhythm play an important part in the effect. In the long, slow first section a certain stiffness of delivery became apparent.

Arrangements are excessively complex, with a vast amount of zinging and zanging in the lower voices. This is intended, presumably, to simulate the sound of instruments. One wonders whether the advancement of unaccompanied choral music—the choir's avowed purpose—lies in this direction. It would seem not.

After some of these intricate arrangements the desire is strong to hear "America" in simple four part harmony without a single zing out of the basses. Simpler arrangements would almost certainly improve the choir's directness and expressive power and would have no deleterious effect on its magnificent tonal palette.

The only other sour remark one can make about the Chicago Symphonic choir is to call attention to its diction. Try following a line in the program, then trusting to your ears for the words of the next. But maybe that's why the words are printed in the program.

Gunnar Johansen, young Danish born California pianist, began in Breasted hall in the Oriental institute yesterday afternoon a series of twelve historical recitals. The cycle is sponsored by the music department of the University of Chicago.

In pleasantly informal surroundings, wearing a light blue suit and a bright tie, Mr. Johansen played 17th and 18th century music for a fair sized audience of students and guests.

In his more successful moments Mr. Johansen coaxed from the instrument delicate tonal effects of amazing beauty. His care for variety of coloring, always within the somewhat gray spirit of this antique music, is one of the most notable features of his playing. A phrase and its balancing period boast a subtle difference of tint.

The preparation of meals after office hours creates a problem in the choice of meats. Roasts and swiss steaks, stews, and other meat dishes which require more than an hour of cooking are not to be considered. Minute steaks, the expensive cuts such as porterhouse and sirloin, and chops will do nicely, but who wants to serve the same meats night after night?

Fortunately there are various kinds of steaks and chops from which to choose. Veal kidney chops, for instance, seem like an entirely new meat dish if you aren't accustomed to them. They are tender and delicious and just a bit unusual in the short cut menu.

BRAISED VEAL KIDNEY CHOPS.

Veal loin chops which contain a section of kidney are nutritious and a little out of the ordinary in meat service. They are cooked by braising and may be breaded or not, according to preference. First wipe the chops, then dip into flour [or into egg and fine crums], and brown on both sides in a little hot fat. Season with salt and pepper, turn down heat, and cover the frying pan. Cook gently until the chops are tender, 40 minutes or slightly less. A little water may be added to the pan if needed, but it shouldn't be very much.

Scotch Scones.

[Ten to Twelve.]

2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ cup shortening
2 eggs
½ cup milk
¼ cup currants [optional]

Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt, and sugar. Cut in shortening. Add currants. Beat one egg and one yolk, reserving the remaining white for brushing the scones. Add milk to beaten eggs and add to all dry ingredients. Stir only enough to make dough hold together. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead for 30 seconds. Roll out in circular shape to ½ inch in thickness. Cut into pie shaped pieces. Brush the top of each piece with egg white and sprinkle with sugar. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 425 degrees, for 12 to 15 minutes.

Tapioca Cream.

[Five Servings.]

2 cups milk
¼ cup coffee cream
3 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca
1 egg
3½ tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Heat milk and coffee cream to scalding in the top of a double boiler. Stir in tapioca and cook, stirring occasionally until tapioca is transparent, about 10 minutes. Beat egg yolk and add sugar and salt. Pour tapioca over the egg mixture, beating constantly. Return to double boiler and cook 3 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat, add vanilla, and fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Serve warm with canned [or fresh] berries.

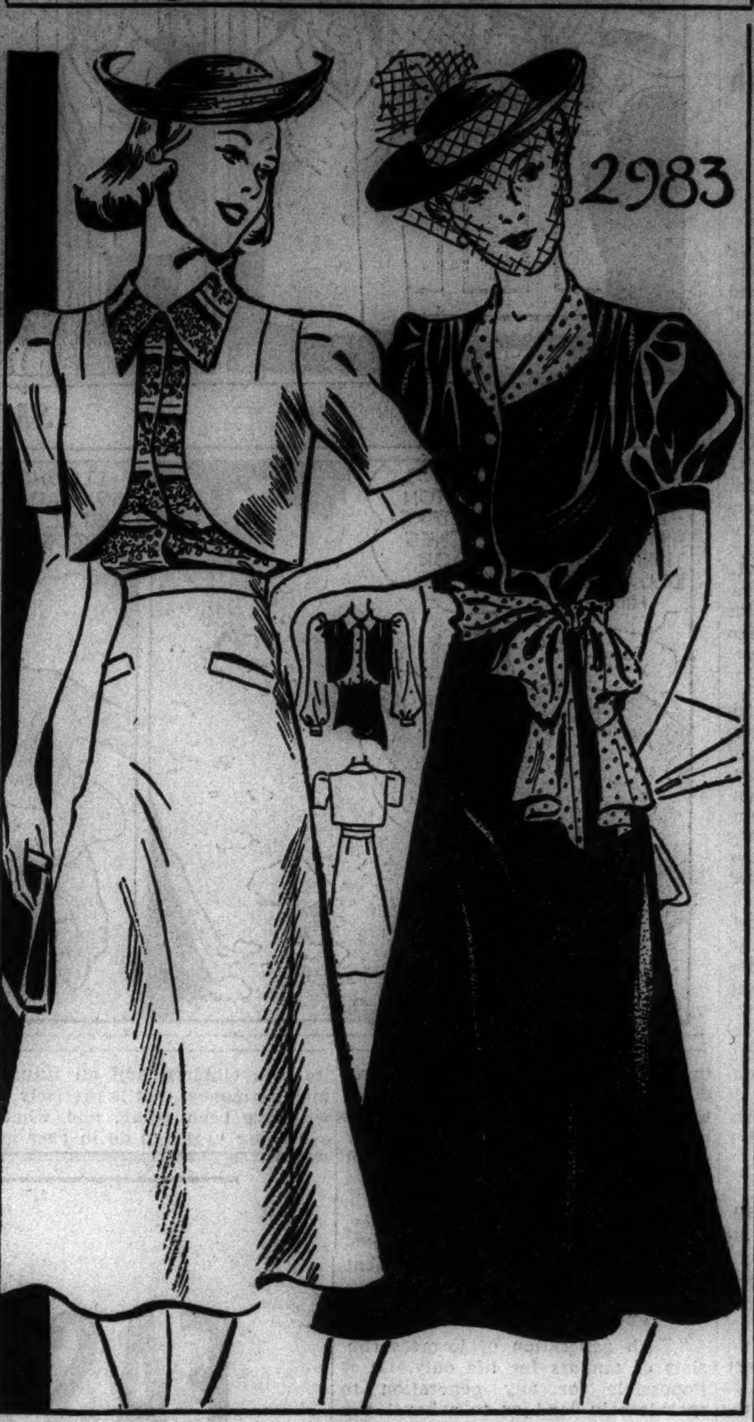
Trig Little Bolero Outfit



WOMAN'S AND MISS' JACKET COSTUME.

This trig little bolero outfit is a grand model for late spring days, and will serve nobly in early summer, too. It's the sort of costume you can wear to work and for informal dates afterward.

The original is fashioned of navy sheer, with the blouse in a gay printed silk. Other fabrics make up beautifully, too, including lightweight woolens, which immediately convert the dress into a girlish suit. This is especially true when bright or pastel woolens are chosen. The skirt has a snug waistline and is cut for flare without the use of either panels or plaits. Two pockets grace the hipline. The blouse has a shirtwaist collar which serves to trim the collarless bolero, too. The jacket has short sleeves with a squared shoulderline, and its curved hemline reaches just to the waist.

The same pattern creates a V-necked dress which older women will like. Printed material is used for the collar and sash, and the sleeves take on a good deal of puff. Sheers and plain crêpes make up beautifully.

Style No. 2983 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 39 inch material for bolero and skirt, with 1⅝ yards of 39 inch material for the blouse.

Flower Show Crowds Make New England Pool a Wishing Well

Visitors to the Chicago Flower show at Navy pier are showing great interest in the well in the garden of the New England exhibit. At the preview last Friday night a guest cried "wishing well," tossed in a penny, made a wish and went on to the next exhibit.

That started something. Since Friday night more than 625 pennies have been thrown into the pool.

Approximately 20,000 attended the show yesterday, making a total of 134,000 visitors during the first four days, including the preview crowd.

Make Report Today on Five Year Study of High Schools

More than 1,000 delegates had registered last night for today's opening of the 43d annual meeting of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools at the Stevens hotel.

The association's national committee on high school standards will make its final report today. This report, based on a five year study costing more than $100,000, has been sponsored jointly by the various educational standardizing agencies of the country in coöperation with the Rockefeller general education board and the American council on education. Dr. Walter C. Eells developed the report. Two hundred high school administrators where the studies were made will be represented by speakers, following the reading of the report, which is expected to bring about important changes in policy concerning high school standards.

City's Etchers Keep Faith in Art as Beauty

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The twenty-eighth annual exhibition of the Chicago Society of Etchers has opened in the Roullier galleries, Fine Arts building, to continue through April 30. It is a most delightful exhibit, surpassing in charm and merit that held last fall when the competition prints were on view in the same gallery.

Whatever may be true of Chicago painters, Chicago etchers remain true to themselves. This exhibit is as fine as any show put on before the outbreak of modernism, in fact it disregards modernism and on that score it stands practically alone.

Those who care for the art of etching will find it here at its best. There are aquatints and mezzotints, etchings, drypoints, soft ground and engraving in the show. The various techniques make interesting study.

Some of the most delightful work is found among the aquatints and of these "Going to Market—Mexico" by Max Pollak is colorful, gay and pleasing. An etching in color, "Coachwhip, Arizona Desert" by Leon R. Pescheret is an intriguing study of plant life in the southwest. Doel Reed gives us "Awakening Earth," an aquatint, and a most lovely nude.

But it becomes rather a burden to define so closely each print. It is much more amusing in looking at them not to enquire too carefully into the technique of each, and the same holds good in writing about them.

Five prizes were awarded. The Chicago Society of Etchers prize went to "Morning in Yosemite" by H. L. Doolittle; the Mrs. Frank G. Logan prize went to "C. J. Vint," by Malcolm Osborne, R. E. R. A.; the Charles Muller prize was given to "Awakening Earth," by Doel Reed, and the two anonymous prizes were awarded to "Greenwich Village Roofs," by Ernest D. Roth, and "Eventide," by Stanley Anderson.

Miss Goodwin Is Musician of Splendid Taste

BY CECIL SMITH.

Esther Goodwin, contralto soloist at St. James' Episcopal church, sang one of the most unhackneyed and well chosen vocal programs of the season in Kimball hall last evening. With the assistance of Eileen Bowman at the piano she ranged through a list including four songs by Purcell, arias from Giordano's "Andrea Chénier," and Tschaikowsky's "Pique Dame," a group of lieder by Hugo Wolf, four songs of Ravel, Bainbridge Crist's "Chinese Mother Goose Rhymes," and a brace of modern songs in English.

Miss Goodwin's mature and confident interpretative gifts gave unfailing pleasure to her large audience. She is the rare sort of singer who has completely made up her mind what she intends to do with each song before she sings it in public. Beyond this, her musical taste is well schooled without being academic. She evidently likes to sing, and her approach to the audience is both communicative and warm.

It would be possible to cavil at minor liberties of style, as in Ravel's deft, brisk "Nicolette," sung too slowly and sentimentally, or in Purcell's wonderfully broad "Evening Hymn on a Ground," taken with liberties of rhythm that warped the groundbass of the accompaniment clear out of recognition. These, however, are secondary objectives, in no sense intended to obscure the grateful fact of her sensitive musicianship and gracious personality.

The vocal instrument with which Miss Goodman has equipped herself is by no means first rate. Her voice does not sound like a contralto, but like an artifically darkened and weighted lyric soprano. Only her unusual musical integrity keeps ugly uneveness of scale and texture from spoiling the whole effect of her singing.

Freed from its tremolo and produced with purity and ease in a soprano range, her voice would probably become bigger and enable her to sing with a dramatic force she has not dreamed of. She cannot become an artist of major stature unless she gives up being over cautious in her vocal method.

Miss Bowman played sympathetically and neatly, albeit rather weakly, and without much discrimination among various musical styles.

Junior League Holds Clothes Sale Tomorrow

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHATEVER the size of her bank account, every woman at this time of year thinks seriously about some new Easter finery. Not only for herself, but for her children. If she is well enough supplied with cash or credit her problem is fairly simple, but if she belongs in another bracket she usually has difficulties in making the family budget stretch to include anything for herself after buying a new bonnet and coat for little Sister and a new suit for Junior.

It is to assist such people—and to raise money for worthy enterprises—that the woman's board of the Children's Memorial hospital conducts a year around rummage shop at 27 East Ohio street, and that the Chicago Junior league holds two second hand clothes sales each year. The spring sale of the Junior league will be held tomorrow at 1006 South Michigan avenue, and the young women in charge of it report enthusiastically that daytime dresses predominate over evening ones this time. The league also have many hats and shoes for women, but there are few articles for men or children. People, as a rule, give their outgrown children's clothes to settlement houses rather than to the rummage or second hand clothes sales.

Miss Heath Horton in Charge of Sale.

The provisional members always run the Junior league sales, and tomorrow Miss Heath Horton will be in charge. Mrs. George P. Braun Jr. is business manager and Miss Barbara Emerson is in charge of selling. Others who will be on hand before the doors open at 7:30 tomorrow morning are Mrs. Edward V. Platt, Mrs. Harvey Ellerd, Miss Barbara Hobart, Miss Phoebe Massey, and Miss Julia Patterson.

The Chicago league will have a sort of private fashion show of its own on April 25, for that is the date for its annual meeting, and always the several hundred young women who attend it are dressed in their smartest new spring outfits. The members will assemble at 10:30 o'clock at the Drake hotel for the important business of electing new officers, and after all the business has been attended to they will remain for luncheon.

The junior auxiliary of the hospital board will conduct the Rummage shop's annual spring clothes sale Friday. Mrs. Denis E. Sullivan Jr. [Betty Offield], one of the auxiliary, reports that the clothes that have been donated this year are exceptionally fresh and smart and include dresses, suits, hats, gloves, shoes, in fact everything that a woman needs for a new Easter costume.

Others acting as saleswomen Friday will be Mrs. Roy Flannery, Mrs. Ralph Isham, Miss Marie Swift, Miss Eleanor Wetten, Mrs. Horace Wetmore, Miss Marie Louise Gardner, Mrs. David Taber, and Miss Frances Jeffery.

Alliance Francaise Changes Program.

Out of respect to Miss Ellen Adair Orr, young president of the junior division of the Alliance Française, whose father died suddenly Monday night, the program she had planned for tomorrow afternoon has been canceled.

Instead, Mme. Rachel Descoubes, former French actress, will give recitations from the works of Edmond Rostand. Mrs. Ralph T. Winston and Mrs. Robert J. Dunham will be hostesses at the tea following the program. Miss Kay Goodman and Miss Mary Seymour Adams will pour, and they will be assisted by Miss Mary Paul Welling and Miss Mary Gardner.

The tragic death just a short while ago of the popular young president of the Service club, Miss Marian Newcomet, has necessitated a change in the plans for the marriage of Miss Betty von Colditz to Ralph Bassett.

Fashion Group Holds Style Show Today

Miss Mardi Burnham, younger daughter of the Hubert Burnhams, is in demand as a model, for she is statuesque and lovely looking. Today she will be one of the few amateurs who, with the most glamorous professional models in the city, will take part in a show to be given during luncheon at the Drake hotel by the Fashion Group of Chicago. The luncheon and show will start at 12:30 o'clock. All the tickets were sold days ago. The large and fashionable audience that will assemble in the ballroom will see the important fashion trends of "Spring, 1938."

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Women are catching on very well to the sound idea that prevention is better than cure in this absorbing business of courting youth and good looks. On every hand we see less and less of frantic, futile efforts to "rejuvenate" or to "remove wrinkles." Women are smartening up to the fact that the only time to get worried about wrinkles is in plenty of time to prevent them.

This same interest in prevention of beauty disasters is holding up pretty well all along the line. Women are having hair treatments, for example, to save themselves the expense and, perhaps, the futility of trying to recapture hair health after it has been sacrificed to neglect and poor permanents.

There's really only one phase of care on which we now find women a bit less careful than they should be. They don't seem to realize that it's as important to use the right soap as it is to use the right cream. What one woman can use without annoyance to her skin another can't possibly use. We have a strong suspicion that there would be less of the excessive skin dryness in this country if women shopped carefully for soaps. By that we don't mean that they need spend more money; there are inexpensive soaps that are excellent.

The woman with extremely delicate skin should not be casual about her choice of either bath or toilet soap. If she is inclined to that condition about which every one but the sufferer is humorous—bath itch—she should start her program of relief with a soap that doesn't "draw" the skin.

One of the best of all bath soaps, so our thin skinned stooges report, is one with a base of lubricating cream—the same lubricating cream for which its maker is famous. It's a huge cake, flesh pink in color, that lasts for a long, long time. Best of all, not even the dryest skin, so far as we could find, reacts stiffly toward it. We've even heard of some cases of bath itch which its consistent use relieved! And that's saying plenty.

Good Morning!

Featuring the same players who presented "Bulldog Drummond Comes Back," "Bulldog Drummond's Revenge" now unreels to the possible interest of those who have liked the Drummond series. . . . I can't say that I found the present number particularly thrilling.

In this picture "Bulldog" yerns to marry pretty Phyllis. But news has reached the hound ears of Scotland Yard's star detective, Col. Nielson, that somebody is about to steal a munitions secret, and he begs "Bulldog's" aid. . . . So—the wedding is postponed and postponed to the discomfiture and irritation of the bride-to-be, who feels that life would be a durn sight happier if less exciting. . . .

With "Bulldog's" coöperation, a chase through London, aboard train and over the channel ends up satisfactorily in Paris with the bagging of the quarry.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

You Get a Kick Out of Hollywood

Loretta Young a streamliner.

Hollywood, Cal., April 5.—Because you meet interesting people, and when I say interesting I mean streamliners like Virginia Bruce, Olivia de Havilland, Loretta Young, Myrna Loy, Joan Crawford, etc. . . . Because the waitresses at the Brown Derby wear starched skirts. . . . Because the trafic signals give you two bells to go ahead.

Because the oil wells stand so close together that the rigging makes you think you're looking at a forest of masts and spars. . . . Because lemon trees and oranges and avocados grow in the back yard, and olives grow in the front yard. [However, the landlord still comes once a month.]

Because of the Sunday nights at the Troc, when kids from all over the world make their bid for the movies [Deanna Durbin, the Ritz brothers, the Yacht Club boys, all made their Hollywood bow there.] . . . Because of the fascinating blanket of the lights you see from Sunset boulevard, a regular fairyland of color.

Because you see pictures before they are shipped to the world. . . . Because of the sun [I must get up early some day and get some of it]. . . . Because the nights always are cool.

Because Beverly Hills is the most attractive residential district in the world. . . . Because the mountains are forever above you and around you, changing colors every thirty minutes of the day. . . . Because of the funny old blimp that toddles through the Los Angeles skies. . . . Because in fifteen minutes you can be in Walt Disney's workshop, watching the artists breathe life into a new screen hero or heroine.

Because of the chicken noodle soup at M-G-M [the studio legend is that L. B. Mayer insisted on it as a daily dish because he couldn't get enough of it as a poor boy].

Because of the "guide to movie stars" stands along the roads . . . because of the magnificent open air markets, the vegetables a rainbow of garden colors . . . because of the mountain drive from Beverly to Burbank and the Warner studios.

Because the golf courses are only fifteen minutes away, Bel-Air, Hillcrest, Lakeside, Riviera. . . because the last nine at Bel-Air is easily the most beautiful scenery I've ever seen [this does not go for the bunkers].

Because Bob Murphy has corned beef and cabbage at the House of Murphy, Lanaze's has sea food that melts in your mouth, Victor Hugo's has thick N. Y. steaks, and the Clover club whips up an omelette so light that it floats from the plate unless you anchor it with the prongs of a fork.

Because of the funny system of "stagger" lights on Wilshire boulevard . . . because Maxie Rosenbloom and Joe Frisco are in the floor show at Slapsie Maxie's . . . because you can see the ponies run at Santa Anita, Inglewood, Delmar, and Caliente.

Because if you stay here long enough you'll meet every one from New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Boston, and Detroit you ever knew . . . because the ocean boulevards hop your pulses, and the Pacific fleet is always in your back yard . . . because of the community tax which permits you to halve your income.

Because you rarely have to dress formally out here. . . . Any old set of tails will do. . . . Because of the scent of oranges that sweetens the Encino valley. . . . Because the natives kid themselves liberally about their unusual weather, kid the rivalry with Florida, and in general let their hair down. . . . Because the politicians out here are strongly reminiscent of Tammany politicians.

Because of the exciting football games, and the big college bands and the amazing college "cheering sections." . . . Because the sports writers work themselves into such a furious lather and yell and holler about coast football and coast baseball and coast tennis and coast track and field and about Seabiscuit.

Because this is a writing atmosphere. . . . Even the waiters at the Troc will argue with you about plot developments of a picture. . . . Because this town is the hub of show business, with new pictures, new casts, and new stories going before the cameras every day.

Because despite inevitable blunders and waste the studios really do a grand job at high speed . . . because it brings you into weekly contact with Charlie McCarthy.

Because Groucho Marx owns a pool table, and often winds up behind the eight ball when eastern slickers of misspent youth knock his ears down. . . . Because it is a great town for kids. . . . Because Dave Chasen, former Joe Cook stooge, has elegant eats in his restaurant, and us Port Chester boys must boost each other.

Because some of the autos you see on the streets are museum pieces, the kind you need a ladder to climb into. . . . because even butcher shops have previews.

Because on the studio lots you run into Abraham Lincoln, Marie Antoinette, Napoleon, George Washington reading the afternoon papers. . . . Because you can learn a lot about show business from Zanuck, Goldwyn, Mayer, Warner, Mannix, and the other biggies.

God is our everlasting companion—'nearer to us than breathing; closer than hands or feet.' But he is our father. His hand guides us so that we will be happy. SYNOPSIS.

Karen Gilbert meets Gordon Stone returning to Barranca after eight years in prison. Gordon was framed by Karen's ruthless uncle and guardian, Lyn Gilbert, owner of Bar B B ranch, and his foreman, Curt Ford. Because Karen has a friend take her to the hideout of Gordon and Jack Turnbull and warn them in time to save them from a posse of Gilbert's riders her uncle imprisons her at his ranch. Gordon and Jack start a campaign against Gilbert. The affidavit of Linc Conway, who was kept by threats from coming to Gordon's aid, is published in the Courier. It accuses Gilbert and Ford. Gilbert hires his rider, Cheyenne, to rub Linc out. Gordon rescues Karen from the ranch. Driving back he discovers a band of Gilbert's men rustling cattle for Curt Ford. He captures one of them. The cattle belong to Gordon's uncle, John Fleming, owner of the J F ranch. Gordon leaves Karen and his prisoner with his uncle and sets out with J F riders after the thieves, picking up Turnbull and Conway. One of the rustlers is captured, but Purdy and the leader, Webb, escape. They are trapped. Purdy is taken, but Webb refuses to surrender.

INSTALMENT XXVII.

THE PRISONERS COLLECTED.

Stone traveled swiftly but cautiously. His gaze swept the mesquite ahead of him ready to pick up any suspicious movement. He knew that Webb was a dangerous man, dominated by a gusty passion and an untamed savage resolution. Though he had no power to think a situation out shrewdly, he could fling bullets fast and straight. Very likely he had that sixth sense of danger which comes to fighting men, the instinct born of experience that tells what to do in an emergency.

A sound of some heavy body crashing through brush came to Gordon. His guess was, a horse and rider. They were moving fast with no attempt to conceal the slash of vegetation into which they tore.

Stone deflected his course, to intercept them if he could. He ran dodging mesquite and cactus as he went. Webb had stumbled into the bunch of horses left by his hunters at the edge of the clump of aspens.

Through brush less dense Gordon caught sight of the animal plunging recklessly toward the arroyo. Webb was close to the edge of it and evidently meant to hurl the cowpony at the deep gully without slackening the pace.

Stone flung up an arm and fired. The horse stumbled, at the very brink of the ravine, and went down into it headlong. Gordon hurried forward. He heard a voice rip out a furious oath. A moment later he looked down to see horse and man pinned fast in a V-shaped fissure at the arroyo edge. Webb's leg was under the saddle and he could not extricate it. In his hand was a revolver. At sight of his pursuer thirty yards down the gulch behind him he twisted his head, reached an arm over his shoulder, and flung a bullet toward him. Hampered as he was by his position, the rustler had no chance to take aim.

"You're wasting lead," Stone told him coldly, his eyes bleak without malevolence, without pity.

Webb fired, wildly, the explosions of his gun echoing back from the cliy. His foe kept count and after the sixth strode forward.

"Which is it to be, a sensible surrender or a slab in the morgue?" he asked harshly.

Webb strangled his wrath. "Have it yore own way," he said bitterly. "Get this damned animal off'n me."

"You killed yore own horse," Webb jeered.

"I don't think he's dead," Stone answered. "I shot to crease him. Let's have a look."

The cowpony stirred, lifted its head, and tried to struggle to its feet. Gordon took the bridle.

"Try again, Baldy," he urged. "You'll make it this time." He coaxed the animal to its feet.

With his eyes on the prisoner he petted the trembling Baldy, soothing the fright of the horse with gentle touch and soft words. Webb attempted to get up, but a leg collapsed under his weight.

"Broken?" asked Stone.

"Gone dead on me," the hairy man said sullenly. "I don't reckon it's busted."

Some one could be heard breaking a way through the brush. The cowboy, Sim Randolph, burst into sight through the screen of mesquite.

"Everything okay?" he asked of Stone.

"Fine as silk. I had a little talk with Webb and he agreed with me it was better to surrender."

"Don't mind his language, Sim," continued Stone. "He's a diamond in the rough, and his bark is worse than his bite."

"I heard him barking and biting plenty while I was hot-footing it here," Randolph said dryly. "How come with all that lead spilt nobody got hurt?"

"The gent's horse fell on him," Gordon explained. "We'll drift back to the hogan after I've called the boys down from the rock rim. Soon as we've rounded up the stock we'll get out of here."

Stone stepped into the open wash where he had first caught sight of the two rustlers and fired three shots rapidly into the air. From the bluff above a rifle boomed an answer.

Within the hour all of the horses and cattle had been rounded up and the party was ready to go.

Jack Turnbull rode beside his friend, just back of the three prisoners. "You're sure the luckiest guy I ever met," he said with a derision that covered admiration. "You meet four rustlers and you collect them all, single-handed, your own self, without getting a scratch. How the Sam Hill you keep from going to join the angels I wouldn't know."

"I've always noticed that the safest way to meet a danger is to walk right at it," Gordon said. "When you get close it usually isn't there."

"Fine, until the 'steenth time. After that yore friends listen to the preacher tell what a fine guy you used to be."

It was afternoon when the party drew into the J F ranch.

Barranca buzzed like a busy beehive with the news that Gordon Stone had rescued Karen from her uncle's ranch and that four Bar B B punchers had been caught redhanded while rustling John Fleming's stock. No sporting event could have held as great an interest for the town as this warfare between the returned convict and the man who had sent him to prison.

The owner of the Bar B B was sitting slumped before his desk when Ford and Cheyenne walked in on him. The little eyes in his lethery face fastened on the latter.

"So you're back," he piped.

"You guessed right," Cheyenne said. "I dropped in to report progress."

"Meaning that you did the job?"

"Meaning that the gent had lit out before I got to Carbondale—with your friends Stone and Turnbull."

"The boys say the little skunk Conway was with Stone's crowd when the Pyramid park business was pulled off," Ford said harshly.

Gilbert shifted his gaze to the ranch foreman. "Do you and your bunch of rustlers steal beef from me as well as my neighbors?" he asked with insult in his high voice.

Ford glowered at his boss. "Don't get heavy with me, Lyn. I was aimin' to cripple Fleming by running off his stock. You know that."

"I don't hire you to send my men out on private night riding of your own. Though I hadn't a thing to do with it, the Angel Gabriel couldn't persuade this town I wasn't back of that crazy business. I wash my hands of it. The whole passle of you can go to the penitentiary for all I care. Folks as dumb as you are deserve it. A rustler has to be a smart man to get away with his steal these days."

"You ought to know, by all accounts," the foreman retorted angrily. "And don't talk that washing yore hands of us stuff. You'll work yore pull to get us out of this for all it's worth. I know too damn much about you."

Girl Would Put Boy's Family on Relief and Wed

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am 18 and my boy friend is 25. We are in love with each other, but there is one obstacle to our happiness.

"He is the only one to support his mother and his brother, 17, who is an invalid. He claims that I would have to wait three years in order to get married, although we can be engaged sooner. He is making a fair salary and hopes to get a better job soon.

"I advised his mother to seek aid from some charity or to take home relief, but she would not listen to me. She says her son can wait five years yet. I would like to know if I should continue going with him for three years. I would likwe a prompt reply.

"PETEY."

Gracious, Petey, but you do sound the hard boiled one! Can there be any more around like you? How could you suggest to your beau's mother that she seek relief or charity of any kind? If you loved the young man, the last thing on earth you would do would be to suggest getting his mother out of the way in the manner you expressed. And how, we ask you, could he care for you who would suggest such a thing? Love must be an even crazier affliction than even we suspect at times if he could respond to you seriously.

Wonder if you could be persuaded, Petey, to try to put yourself in the sweetheart's shoes. Suppose you had a mother to support and an invalid brother of 17, toward both of whom you had a deep, strong affection. Suppose your sweetheart suggested that your mother should be put on relief so that you wouldn't have to be bothered further with her. What, honestly, could you help but think of the man who would suggest such a thing? What you would yern for would be a companion who would appreciate the decent rôle you were playing, would encourage you and would help you as much as he could. Maybe men are dumber about judging a girl by her actions than women are about judging men. It does seem to us, your man, Petey, is not especially bright to overlook your suggestion about his mother as a harbinger of what your character as his wife would enfold. Or he may be brighter than we think and feels that the suggested three year wait may dim your enthusiasm and he will thus escape you.

In any event we do think, Petey, you might try to adopt a more human attitude. What's wrong with one of your age volunteering to save and help all you can in the meantime to bring a little pleasure into the invalid boy's life and into his mother's life? That's the way you get happiness, Petey. It doesn't come the way you plan.

Need of Tumor Clinic Is Stressed in Grant Hospital Campaign

Dr. Benjamin H. Orndoff, radiologist and member of the surgical staf of Grant hospital, was the speaker yesterday afternoon at a meeting of workers in the Grant hospital development program at the home of Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, 1455 State parkway. He discussed the proposed tumor clinic of the hospital and stressed the importance of cancer control.

"It appears almost certain that there are more than 150,000 deaths each year in the United States from cancer," he said. "It is outranked by one disease only, heart disease. It is recognized that there are probably a few less than 500,000 with the disease in some stage that should be treated. It is astounding to think that of every 100 babies born of white parents ten boys and thirteen girls will die of cancer in some form."

SLAVES OF harsh LAXATIVES
break your bonds!

EVERYONE knows that harsh laxatives do not cure constipation but only irritate the intestinal tract.

Instead, try this. First thing every morning squeeze the juice of a lemon into a tall glass of cold or warm water. Into another glass, put half a teaspoonful of ordinary baking soda (bicarbonate). Pour back and forth, and drink when foaming quiets.

Make this a daily health habit. See how you benefit, right from the start.

The Housewife

Have you seen the lovely new chintzes? So many of them are now available in the permanently glazed finish. This means they'll be as attractive after tubbing as they were before.

Here are a few suggestions for their use in bedrooms: long, floor length draperies of blue and white chintz hung over sill length glass curtains of white voile. Bedspread, tailored, to match.

Draperies of a beautiful soft blue chintz having a large pattern of flowers in soft pinks and white. This same chintz used for the ruffled bedspread. And it's not expensive.

an April wedding. The date has been changed to May 7. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's father, Dr. G. Thomsen von Colditz, on Merritt Island, Fla.

Renaissance Society Opens Gallery Today.

The tea that the Renaissance society will give today for Mrs. William B. Benton will be in the nature of a housewarming, or gallery warming, for the society just has moved into its new quarters in the new arts department building of the University of Chicago, next door to the classics building.

The tea, from 4 to 6 o'clock, will open an exhibition of wood carvings and paintings brought from Bali by Mr. and Mrs. Benton on a recent world tour. Mr. Benton is vice president of the university.

The annual meeting of the American Opera society to be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Polo room of the Ambassador East hotel will be followed at 3:30 o'clock by a musical program. Evelyn Ewert, soprano, will sing, and Joseph Anderson will play.

Following the program tea will be served. Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick III. and Mrs. George Artamanoff Jr. will pour.

"Interior Decoration" is to be the subject of a talk Ernst Von Ammon will give before the Evanston Junior league at 11 o'clock this morning at the Georgian hotel in Evanston. Mr. Von Ammon's lecture is the last in a series the league's arts department has sponsored.

Last Palm Beach Party to Be Tonight.

The last of a series of Palm Beach parties at the Lake Shore Athletic club will be given tonight around the swimming pool. Julian Armstrong, who was named the country's outstanding preparatory school swimmer at Culver last year, is back in Chicago on vacation from Dartmouth, and he will swim an exhibition 100 yard dash as part of the water show.

Also in the show will be Jane Faultz and 12 year old Miller Anderson Jr. Miss Grace Georgette Noee is entertaining a party at dinner tonight and among other young people who plan to be there are Miss Joan Ford, Miss Barbara Hess, Miss Peggy Sargent, Miss Florence Walsh, Miss Jean Kellogg, Miss Rosemary Sauer, Nelson and Gardiner Thomasson, Ernest Bfield Jr., Harger Rollo, and John Benson.

The Telfer MacArthurs, the Charles Ward Seaburys, the Gustavus F. Babsons, the Clyde Shoreys, and the Neil C. Hurleys are some of those who have taken tickets for the benefit that Circle 25 of the Oak Park Infant Welfare society is giving tonight at the Nineteenth Century club in Oak Park. Besse Boynton will give a program of original monodramas.

"Cynthia," lifelike model created by Lester Gaba will make her first appearance on the north shore Friday at the annual card party and fashion show given by the Winnetka Woman's club. The five Skokie high school girls, daughters of the auxiliary members, who will sell gay spring handkerchiefs and potted plants, are Shirley Tuttle, Martha Ellis, Marcia Wynekoop, Mary Trees, and Barbara Jensen.

Women to Entertain Wives of Polo Players.

Never before has it been necessary to have a woman's committee for the national indoor polo championship tournament, but the eastern players—Winston Guest, Michael G. Phipps, Stewart B. Iglehart, and William H. Nicholls Jr.—all have married since the last time [1934] they competed here for national honors, and their wives are coming with them this spring.

So, the Chicagoans in charge of the tournament feel that there must be a woman's committee to extend hospitality to the players' wives during the time they are here, from April 9 through to the 23d.

The first match will be played Saturday night at the 124th Field Artillery armory and the others will be played on April 13, 16, 19, 21, and 23. On the Chicago woman's committee are Mrs. Herbert J. Lorber, Mrs. Frank W. Bering, Mrs. Stevens N. Hammond, Mrs. James A. Hannah, Mrs. James C. Thompson, and Mrs. John C. Bowers.

BOUNTY MUTINEER'S KIN TO BE HEARD IN RADIO BROADCAST

New York, April 5.—[Special.]—After 148 years of isolation from the world, the 200 residents of Pitcairn island, home of the mutineers of the Bounty, will be linked with this country tomorrow night from 7 to 7:10 o'clock [Chicago time], in a radio broadcast over the Blue network of the National Broadcasting company. [No Chicago outlet for this program].

Edgar Christian, chief magistrate of the community, will be the principal speaker on a short-wave broadcast to be flashed 4,500 miles across the Pacific from the island, half way between Panama and New Zealand, to Point Reyes, Cal., from where it will be broadcast across this country. Christian is a descendant of Fletcher Christian who settled on the island with his band of mutineers in 1790.

Haphazard Type of Shopping Usually Fatal to One's Chic

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Remember when women were urged, when down in the dumps, to step out and purchase a new hat? A sure cure, it was recorded. Well, many women did just that little thing and found themselves with a new hat on their hands and no new dress to wear it with, which probably meant another down in the dumps orgy. We never followed that up.

Then it began to be rumored that a substitute remedy could be found in stepping out and getting a new coiffure, it being even more effective than the new chapeau. We can report that to be a good remedy today. With a new hair style you may chop off a few years which, you will admit, cheers a girl as nothing else can.

However, it was of the hat we started out to speak, because we were talking with Kathryn Cravens, radio commentator, a while ago, and she has a "best dressed" reputation of her own. She broached the new hat formula for the dumps but agreed that the new hat alone was not the perfect cure.

"A new hat makes an old dress look even more outmoded than it is. And the hat isn't properly staged, either, with the old frock.

"My advice to the woman with a limited budget," Miss Cravens continued, "is to resist that impulse to shop for one article at a time. Her entire ensemble is bound to suffer by contrast. No matter how small her allowance, almost every woman can afford to get one dress, hat, pair of shoes, gloves and pocketbook and often a coat, too, during a year."

So, Miss Cravens thinks it may be better to let the "blues" ride temporarily, charge them off as a tummy ailment or any other old thing. Save the hat money until there is enough to buy an outfit to go with it. The costume can thus be selected with all details blending. And that is satisfaction enough for the average woman to keep her in good humor for a long time. It does bolster one, you know, to realize that you are done up in good taste from the tip of a jaunty chapeau to the toe of the shoe.

Mostly, however, curbing the impulse to go reckless on one item has the effect of curbing reckless spending. Giving yourself time for a neat plan of assembling the essentials gives you time to shop around for better things for your money, too.

Urges Public to Keep Radio a Free Forum

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Warning of the perils of the many proposals tending toward censorship of broadcasting, William S. Paley, CBS president, in a broadcast addressed to both stockholders of the corporation he heads and listeners yesterday urged the public and the broadcasting industry to unite in a program to guarantee the freedom, nonpartisanship, and fairness of the air.

"America's great glory is the freedom of the press, of speech, of assembly," Mr. Paley declared. "Today I believe it may fairly be said that freedom of broadcasting takes its place in importance beside them."

Mr. Paley suggested that the newly reorganized National Association of Broadcasters might well serve as the instrument for protecting the industry from strangling regulation.

The present six month licensing system is as unfair and as unwise, Mr. Paley asserted, as it would be to give short term licenses to publish newspapers, to write books or plays, or to make motion pictures.

"I feel sure," he continued, "that nobody wants to keep broadcasting in a position where it might one day be faced with the necessity of pleasing those in power in order to continue to exist."

To supplant the present system of control Mr. Paley proposed license to cover a period of years—and suggested that if, over a long term a broadcaster failed to operate in the public interest to take his license away from him.

Referring to the communications commission's recently announced plan to investigate network broadcasting, Mr. Paley asserted that charges of monopoly by the chains are groundless and that if network operations are restricted or limited the public will suffer.

Discussing nonpartisanship, Mr. Paley declared: "Broadcasting as an instrument of American democracy must be forever wholly, honestly and militantly nonpartisan, not only in politics but in the whole realm of arguable social ideas."

Touching on fairness he warned: "The party in power must never dominate the air. No majority must ever monopolize. Minorities must always have fair opportunities to express themselves."

According to CULBERTSON

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Although I've read and heard of the Vienna coup, I never consciously met one in actual play until a few days ago. Note that I say 'consciously.' No doubt I've blithely overlooked dozens of them. Well, said coup confronted me—and I muffed it. Here's the deal:

"I was South. West opened the jack of clubs. I took it with the queen, dropped the outstanding trumps, ran the remaining clubs, led a heart to the king, came back to my hand with a trump, and finessed the jack of hearts. Down one!

"It was only while trying to go to sleep some hours later that I remembered that the subsequent play revealed both the queen of hearts and the king of diamonds in East's hand, and realized how the grand slam could have been made. But suppose the queen of hearts had been in West's hand? Then the coup wouldn't work, and the finesse would. How is a poor dub going to know which way to play a hand like this?

"Sincerely yours,
"J. N. M., St. Louis."

My correspondent's wail, "How is a poor dub going to know which way to play a hand like this," strikes a highly respondent chord in me. The truthful and candid answer is that neither the poor dub nor the greatest expert actually could know in this hand whether to take the heart finesse or to play for the squeeze [Vienna coup]. Nevertheless, due to the human element, most experts, unless they were playing against other experts, would fulfill the contract. How? Because the average player in the East seat would give himself dead away! Let us see how an expert would play the hand under actual conditions.

He would win the opening lead, draw trumps and cash the ace of diamonds, and one high heart. He then would cash all of his club tricks and his remaining trumps. Now, it would be entirely up to East's acting ability whether declarer fulfilled the contract or not. The last trump lead, and discard of the diamond eight from dummy, would squeeze the daylights out of East. If he blanked the heart king with utter nonchalance, declarer probably would go wrong. Not being able to read the heart situation, he probably would finesse. But if East fidgeted and agonized over whether to discard the diamond king in order to protect the heart queen, the fat would be in the fire. Declarer could easily read the true situation.

This, of course, is not mathematical perfection but, when we speak of actual bridge games and flesh and blood players, it is impossible to leave such things out of our reckoning.

CUBS CRUSH SOX, 6 TO 1; LEAD CITY SERIES, 7 TO 5

SOUTH SIDERS ARE EASY FOR CARLETON, ROOT

Errors by Berger, Cain Are Costly.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bisbee, Ariz., April 5.—The Cubs, who were confronted with the possibility that their friendly enemies, the White Sox, might tie them in the spring series, didn't fool with the American leaguers this afternoon. Manager Charley Grimm gave his city rivals a good dose of powerful pitching and, after nine windswept innings, the Sox were beaten, 6 to 1. Now the Cubs have a 7 to 5 lead, with four games remaining on the program.

The pitching that proved so disturbing for the Sox was produced by Tex Carleton and the venerable Charles Root. Carleton, who hadn't forgotten that the South Siders gave him quite a bouncing a few days back, repaid them by restricting them to four hits in five innings, during which his mates helped him with three double plays. Root was equally stingy in so far as hits were concerned but the Sox had the satisfaction of using him as a means to dodge a shutout.

Cain's Error Hurts.

The Cubs did most of their run producing while happy Sugar Cain was in service, although they didn't exactly pound him. His own error helped them to one run and Lou Berger, the Appling understudy, assisted the National leaguers with a misplay while they were scoring a pair in the fourth. A run off Cain in the third, however, was one hundred per cent legitimate. Billy Herman boosted the ball over the fence. John Rigney, who followed Cain, was plunked for four hits in three innings, again delaying predictions that he may develop into a needed starter this summer.

Grimm's anxiety to avoid taking any further beatings from the Sox was plainly evident, not only in the pitchers but in the other men employed. Bill Jurges was rushed back to short, despite his arm trouble, and showed no signs of what is getting to be a chronic complaint. All the other infield regulars also were retained for nine innings of service and there was nothing wrong with their defensive work, except that Herman drew an error on a ball which took an unlooked for hop and cracked him on the bare hand.

Sox Get Too Careless.

The Sox weren't exactly cautious about their base running in the first inning and thereby cut short what might have developed into a scoring chance. Hayes opened a windy afternoon by singling to right. Kreevich then flied to Demaree in short right and Hayes apparently was the only man in the park who couldn't detect that the ball was going to be caught. Hayes was doubled off first base. To make the inning a complete flop, Walker struck out.

Cain's fielding was far worse than his pitching in the Cubs' first attack, which enabled them to step off to a one run lead. Hack led off with a

SARAZEN QUITS RYDER CUP PLAY; BLASTS P. G. A.

Failure to Get Captaincy Blamed on Politics.

Augusta, Ga., April 5.—(AP)—Gene Sarazen tonight fired a bombshell into the ranks of the Professional Golfers' association, striking particularly at President George Jacobus by vowing he never again would compete on the American Ryder cup team because he never had been honored with the team captaincy.

"The failure of Jacobus to name me captain of the team is an insult and a wound that will never heal," Sarazen said. "I think every one will agree my record stacks up favorably enough with that of any other pro, past or present, to have given me one shot at that captaincy. I won every worth while championship and I guess I did my share on every Ryder cup team we ever had. But no, Jacobus didn't see fit to let me achieve my last and profoundest ambition.

Raps P. G. A. Politics.

"And so, he can have his Ryder cup team. I wouldn't play on another; I wouldn't accept the captaincy now if it was handed to me on a silver platter as thick as his head.

"What happened last year? P. G. A. politics, that's it. With Walter Hagen out of competition, I thought surely I would be named captain at last. But Jacobus named his bosom pal, Ed Dudley, playing captain and appointed Hagen nonplaying captain to give me an insult that made me boil inside. I was ready to explode and quit last year when that happened, but I decided to turn it over in my mind. It's been almost a year since then, and I feel the cut more strongly than ever.

Another Break in Ranks.

"Perhaps I have passed my zenith, but I guess my 1937 record still was as good as anybody's. Certainly it was better than Dudley's and Hagen's and much better as a working golfer than Jacobus' mark. I am glad I don't miss as many two foot putts on a round as he does chances to do something for the pros."

CLEAR WAY FOR SEABISCUIT TO RACE FOR $100,000

New York, April 5.—[Special.]—Charles S. Howard, owner of Seabiscuit, which last year topped the handicap division in American racing, today agreed to send his 5 year old champion against Samuel D. Riddle's War Admiral in a match race for a purse of $100,000 at a mile and a quarter to be run sometime during the autumn meeting at Belmont Park, Sept. 15 to Oct. 1.

This word came in a long distance telephone call from Howard in San Francisco to Herbert Bayard Swope, chairman of the state racing commission, who has been trying to bring the two horses together.

In response to a telegram from Swope, Howard phoned that he would be very glad to have Seabiscuit meet War Admiral at equal weights, the precise weights to be agreed upon by the owners.

He suggested also that the Westchester Racing association should put up a purse of $100,000 since he had been offered that large a stake by a western track. Meantime Swope had not heard from a telegram sent to Riddle but expected to hear from the owner of War Admiral tomorrow.

Joseph E. Widener, president of the Westchester Racing association, informed the commissioner that he would take steps at once to arrange for the purse and other details necessary for a race of that kind.

CHICAGO TEAM TOTALS 3,234 TO SET A. B. C. MARK

Birks Take Over Lead in Five Man Event.

The Birk Brothers Brewing company team of the Randolph league, cheered on by a near capacity crowd, last night set a new all-time record in the five man division of the American Bowling congress, smashing out a 3,234 total in the Coliseum to take the lead from Isaac Baker & Son, Erie, Pa., entry.

The Birks, with Policeman George Geiser in the lead-off position and Jules Lellinger anchoring—the same position they occupied last night—won the title at Grand Rapids in 1917 with a 3,061 series. Two years ago at Indianapolis they scored second high team game in A. B. C. history, 1,169. High game is held by Milwaukee's Tea Shops, who scored 1,186 in setting the 3,199 record which the Birks broke.

The Chicagoans opened with a 1,129 game, dropped to 970, and then cut loose with a barrage of strikes which netted 1,135 and the new mark.

George Notz, who became a member of the Birks this year, led his mates with a 712 total. Jules Lellinger had 668, Leo Frisch 599, George Geiser 640, and Joe Traubenik 615.

The Birks had but six splits and three errors in the three games. Krisch missed a four pin cluster in the tenth frame of the last game, while Traubenik picked the No. 6 off the No. 10 in the second game. The other error was charged against Notz when he missed the No. 2 pin off the No. 8 in the eighth frame of the second game.

Frankie Benkovic's Milwaukee Pabst team went into fifth place in the five-man event on games of 978—1,096—959, a 3,033 total. The Badgers temporarily stole the spotlight from the Birks when they hung up the third high game of the tourney in the second session, but the crowd soon was back cheering the Birks as they cut down a difficult split, George Geiser sliding over the 5-10 in the crucial ninth frame, and went on to their 1,135 game and record.

Chicagoans Tie for Seventh.

Burlington Routes, another Randolph league entry, crossing alleys with the Birks, rolled into a three way tie for seventh place with the Lang's Beer and Ale, Buffalo, and Kunzelman-Esser, Milwaukee, on games of 1,028—917—1,075 for 3,020.

Boyar Schultz corporation, members of the Randolph and Windy City major leagues, topped the early five man competition with a 2,907. The locals hit 965, 954, and 988. Prager Beers, city champions, disappointed

Cardinals Drop Sammy Baugh and Paul Dean

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 5.—[Special.]—The St. Louis Cardinals today released two widely known players.

Sammy Baugh, forward passing star of the world champion Washington Redskins, was sent to the Columbus club of the American association, and Paul Dean, younger brother of Dizzy, was optioned to the Houston Texas league team.

Dean Comeback Fails.

Baugh has been seeking the third base job with the Cardinals, but Manager Frankie Frisch said he has advised Columbus to use Baugh at shortstop. Dean was placed on the voluntary retired list last year, but was reinstated this spring.

Paul suffered an arm injury two years ago and it failed to respond to treatment. Manager Frisch used Dean in a starting rôle only once during training games, and pitched only one inning against the Boston Bees, yielding nine runs.

Needs More Seasoning.

Baugh in several games looked promising, but Frisch believes the football star is not yet ready for the major leagues.

A DUST STORM WINS AS PIRATES MEET SEMI-PROS

Gallup, N. M., April 5.—(AP)—During their rambles over the nation the Pittsburgh Pirates have encountered shutouts, washouts, and freezeouts, but today for the first time they had a ball game dusted off the spring exhibition schedule.

Arriving at Winslow, Ariz., for a meeting with a semi-pro team, the Pirates found a windstorm hurling dust so hard it appeared dangerous to even walk the street. So the three carloads of players were taken on to New Mexico.

Much of the credit for the Hawks' triumph must be given to young Alfie Moore, substitute goalie of the New York Americans, who manned the Chicago nets last night after Mike Karakas was forced out with a broken toe.

KARAKAS HURT; BORROWED GOAL TENDER STARS

Gottselig Gets Two Chicago Scores.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., April 5.—A goal in each of the three periods sent the incredible Chicago Blackhawks off to a one game lead over the Toronto Maple Leafs tonight in the opening contest of the Stanley cup finals for the world hocky championship.

A capacity crowd of 13,737 saw the Hawks rally to conquer the favored Leafs, National league champions, 3 to 1.

The triumph was accomplished under the most unusual circumstances in Stanley cup history. It was achieved largely because of the brilliant work of Alfie Moore, substitute goalie for the New York Americans, who was lifted out of a tavern into the Chicago nets to turn back one of the strongest scoring combinations in the game.

Gottselig Does His Share.

Moore's sensational play as relief for the injured Mike Karakas, who was out of the game because of a broken toe, overshadowed the feats of Johnny Gottselig, veteran Hawk wing, who tied the score in the first period and made the third goal in the last period, and Paul Thompson, who put the Hawks in front for the first time in the second period.

Prior to Moore's performance, in which Gordon Drillon's goal in the second minute of play was the only flaw, the rival managers, Connie Smythe of the Leafs, and Bill Stewart of the Hawks, had squabbled throughout the day over a substitute for Karakas. They finally came to blows as the teams prepared to take the ice and before police were able to rescue the Hawk manager from Smythe and several Leaf players he had suffered a cut over one eye and bruises about the head.

Karakas' injury did not become apparent until late in the day. Mike, who had stopped a hard drive in the last game of the semi-final series in New York with his right foot, thought his toe merely was bruised. When Manager Stewart learned it was broken and that physicians had advised against Mike's playing tonight, he began the search that ultimately ended in the acquisition of Moore.

Alfie Didn't Like It.

Rookie Bill Goodman, a goalie, who was purchased from Wichita in the American association, has been ordered to report at once. He is expected to arrive by plane tomorrow.

Moore, who spent the season with the Pittsburgh Hornets in the American league, played against his wishes. He had been summoned from a tavern at 6 o'clock by Leaf officials, who told him the Hawks' request for Dave Kerr, New York Ranger goalie, had been denied by League President Frank Calder. When Moore learned, at 7:30 p. m., that the Hawks, arriving at the arena for a conference with Smythe and Calder, had not been informed of his presence, he refused to dress.

He was in no condition to play, he said, and would not put the Hawks in a spot. No other goalie was available, however, and the Hawks prevailed on him. While trainers rubbed him down and took other measures calculated to restore his equilibrium, Moore vented his ire on Smythe and the Leafs, who had placed him in an embarrassing position.

Stewart Fights Again.

Thereafter, however, it was a matter of Moore against the most powerful lines in the National league and when the Blackhawks carried him from the ice at the end of the game, the crowd rose in salute.

Stewart got into another battle after the first period. Referring to "the Toronto racketeers who were Smythe's bodyguards," he mentioned the name of Hal Cotton, former Maple Leaf player, who was among the bystanders.

Cotton rushed at the Hawk manager and let fly a punch that bruised Stewart's cheek. They exchanged several more blows before this bout was broken up, with Stewart still vowing that he wasn't through fight-

BASKET COACHES WANT 3 SECOND RULE MODIFIED

Seek Also to Discourage Intentional Fouls.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

With only two dissenting votes, the members of the National Association of Basketball Coaches, who concluded their convention yesterday at the Morrison hotel, voted to recommend to the rules committee a change in the present three second rule which the coaches believe will increase the effectiveness of basketball offense and stop the current trend toward exclusive use of zone defenses. The rules committee, of which L. W. St. John of Ohio State is chairman, will consider the coaches' recommendations today in its annual meeting at the Sherman hotel.

While voting to adopt the three second rule, which was used last season by the National A. A. U. teams, was the most important action of the coaches in their final convention session, ten proposals were brought up for discussion, and, as final act of the 1938 meeting, the coaches again offered a suggestion, first adopted a year ago, that a team should be given the right to decline a free throw if it wishes and take possession of the ball at midcourt as an out of bounds play.

Decries Intentional Fouls.

This proposal, sponsored by W. S. Chandler, of Marquette university, who yesterday was elected president of the association, is considered as prevention against intentional fouls in the closing minute of a game when the team losing by a point or two fouls so that it may have possession of the ball if the free throw is made or an opportunity to gain possession if it is missed.

"Intentional fouls have no place in basketball," Chandler said. "It is contrary to ideals of sportsmanship. By permitting the team fouled to decline the throw and retain possession of the ball, the advantage of a foul is removed."

The coaches recommended this change a year ago and the rules committee declined to act without research. No attempt was made last year to investigate and yesterday the coaches' convention unanimously sent the proposal to the rules committee again.

Norgren Made Secretary-Treasurer.

Other officers of the coaches' association for the coming year will be B. T. Grover, Ohio university; Nat Holman, City College of New York, and J. W. Bunn, Stanford, vice presidents, and Nels Norgren, Chicago, secretary-treasurer.

Nat Holman and George Keogan of Notre Dame spoke in favor of the change in territory to which the three second rule should apply. It is advocated by the coaches that the three second rule which prohibits an offensive player from remaining in the free throw lane or the foul circle, with or without the ball for three seconds, should apply only to the lane and the inner half of the circle. The proposed change would permit an offensive player to stand in the outer half of the free throw circle without time limit and he could be in this territory with the ball for three seconds.

"Seventy-five per cent of the teams playing in New York this year used a zone defense which with the aid of this restricted territory was so compact that the offense could not penetrate it," Holman told the coaches. "If you want basketball to become only a game of luck on long shots retain the present rule."

Approve Center Jump Rule.

Keogan quoted from previous remarks he had made at the coaches' conventions, saying that "this rule is only a breeder of zone defenses." He continued: "I have no objection to a zone defense, nor am I thinking of any particular style of play. I am only thinking of the best interests of basketball. The time has come when the offense must be encouraged. It is difficult to break through a compact defense with this rule. No coach is required to try to do so but those who wish should be given the opportunity."

The coaches approved of the present elimination of the center jump, voted against having the official handle the ball after all scores, decided to retain the present wording of the rule on screening and blocking, voted to increase the number of times out from four to five and the length of each time out from one minute to two minutes, and agreed to abide by the 1936-'37 rule pertaining to encroachment on the line across mid-court past which the offensive must progress in ten seconds.

The coaches voted down a proposal submitted by the northern division of the Pacific Coast conference to extend the court an additional two feet which would give four feet beyond each backboard. They approved, however, a proposition to extend the court in an arc under the backboard which would be one foot additional to the present court at its deepest point and would cross the present end line to furnish adequate space for follow-up shots on rebounds without going out of bounds.

TEDDY'S COMET'S ANKLE INJURED; OUT OF DERBY

Louisville, Ky., April 5.—(AP)—One top flight Kentucky Derby candidate was reported out of the race today and three others arrived at Churchill Downs to begin training on the track where the race will be run May 7.

Teddy's Comet, a Valdina farm 3 year old, is suffering from a torn ankle ligament and will be returned to Texas to rest.

The arrivals today were the Milky Way farm's Tiger and Mountain Ridge, both considered outstanding nominees for the race, and Joe Schenck, representing the Woolford farm. Because of his Arkansas Derby victory, Tiger drew most attention at the Downs.

Jimmy O'Malley Reaches A. A. U. Boxing Semi-Finals

Boston, Mass., April 5.—[Special.]—Regarded as the outstanding boxer in the National A. A. U. tournament, which reached the quarter-finals tonight, Jimmy O'Malley, Chicago C. Y. O. welterweight, scored his third straight victory by defeating Harry Shaw of New Orleans.

O'Malley won the applause of 8,000 spectators by making a spectacular comeback after losing the first round to the southern boy.

He dropped Shaw for a count of eight in the second round with a right cross to the jaw and added many more points in the third as he drove Harry around the ring.

By winning tonight O'Malley qualified for the semi-finals, which will be combined with the finals here tomorrow night.

The midwest's powerful delegation, representing seven states, shaded the east's forces by a 14 to 13 margin when the competition had been reduced to the thirty-two semi-finalists.

Jimmy Joyce, flyweight, and Jackie Nichols, bantamweight, both of Gary, Ind., and who, as well as O'Malley, were Golden Glovers, lost decisions. Joyce was beaten by Emmett Grier of Detroit.

Jackie Simmons, Kansas City, and Bill Eddy, Flint, Mich., also Golden Glovers, advanced to the featherweight semi-finals. William Speary, Nanticoke, Pa., who beat Frank Kainrath, Chicago, last night, whipped Leon Haire, St. Louis, tonight. Quarter final summaries:

AWAIT JACOBS' APPLICATION FOR SOLDIERS' FIELD

The Chicago Park board held a meeting in the Administration building in Burnham park yesterday, but no action was taken on the proposal to hold the Joe Louis-Max Schmeling bout in Solders' field June 22 because the proposition was not brought before the board.

A member explained that Sheldon Clark, head of the citizens' committee working to induce Mike Jacobs to promote the match in Chicago, last week inquired as to the availability of the lake front stadium and Clark was told to have Jacobs look at the field, determine whether it will meet with his requirements in its present condition, and then present his bid to the board for consideration.

The north end of the stadium is under construction, and the work may not be completed until next winter.

Jacobs and his architect, Lionel Levy, plan to return on April 13 to look over the field.

Jim Londos will top a wrestling show under the auspices of Fred Kohler in International amphitheater April 29. . . . Joe Triner, chairman of the Illinois boxing commission, will attend a banquet being held in honor of the Wisconsin boxing team in Madison tonight. The commissioner then will go to Detroit, where he will be a guest of the Michigan commission at the Jimmy Adamick-Al Ettore bout Friday. In view of his inability to be present at the Stadium wrestling program Friday, Triner placed Secretary John Owen in charge. Stanislaus Zbyszko, the old heavyweight champion, arrived yesterday accompanied by Wladyslaw Talun, giant Polish athlete, who meets Jerry Monahan on the card. Steve [Crusher] Casey and Ed Don George are windup principals. Pietro Gobbo, Italian heavyweight, also a protégé of Zbyszko, delayed his arrival until today. Gobbo clashes with Bob Gregory, claimant of the European light heavyweight championship. . . .

Gregory is the husband of Princess Baba, honey-haired daughter of the white rajah of Sarawak in Dutch Borneo, who came to Chicago yesterday with him.

The Gregorys, who are spending their honeymoon fighting their way to Hollywood and the movies, rested between callers at their suite in the Brevoort hotel and told of their stormy romance and marriage that defied the princess' parents, Sir Charles Vyner Brooke and Lady Brooke.

"It wasn't father so much," said Princess Baba, a slim, pretty young girl who prefers to be called Valeria Gregory, "as it was mother. I met Bob in England through her, you know, and she was all for him. And then she came to America and we fell in love, Bob and I. From then on our days were punctuated with cables from her, all accusing Bob of the most awful things."

Jim McMillen and Rudy Strongberg will be opponents in the windup bout of the mat program this evening in Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. Firpo Wilcox meets Fred Grubmier, Ken Fenlon hooks up with Jack Zeravich, Jerry Meeker with Buck O'Neil, and Al Wescott with Milt Olson. . . . The next series of amateur fights in the 124th Field Artillery armory gymnasium will be presented April 20. . . . Paul Ladica, Terre Haute, Ind., amateur heavyweight, will face Paul Shuran in a five round headliner in the Chicago Manhattan club, 2418 West North avenue, tonight. . . . Mrs. Frank Lagorio, wife of the chief medical examiner for the state athletic board, is in International hospital in Naples, Italy, recovering from a leg injury suffered on the boat en route to her destination. . . . Inland Steel's amateur boxing representatives and the Briggs Automobile team of Detroit will meet in a series of intercity contests in Roosevelt High school's new gymnasium in East Chicago Friday.

ILLINOIS DERBY MAY 28 FIRST CHICAGO STAKE

BY FRENCH LANE.

The Illinois Derby, a $12,000 added event, will be the first important stake race of the year to be run on the Chicago circuit.

It will be renewed on May 28 at the Aurora course on the final day of the Fox Valley Jocky club's spring meeting of twenty-four days. The date was selected yesterday by Robert S. Eddy, president of the Aurora association, who arrived during the day from New Orleans.

This will be the sixth running of the 3 year old special, which annually since 1933 has given Chicago and downstate racegoers their first look of the year at several of the better grade 3 year olds.

Stars Have Won It.

Some of the winners have been Mata Hari, Sun Portland and Case Ace. Roman Soldier was beaten in the renewal of the race in 1936 by Sun Portland.

Because of the large number of top grade 3 year olds this year, the field is expected to be the strongest that ever has tried for the prize.

Bob McGarvey, trainer for Mrs. Ethel V. Mars, has announced he will saddle at least one and possibly two starters in the race. A. G. Tarn has nominated Wise Fox, the Louisiana Derby winner.

Stables Filling Up.

There were some 200 horses quartered at the Aurora track yesterday but none of the Derby prospects were in the group.

Racing Secretary Richard Leigh has room for 1,100 horses at the track and stable applications for that number of horses already have been received. A special train bringing horses from the Hot Springs track is scheduled to arrive today.

This shipment will be headed by the Mrs. Clarence Dale stable which, in addition to the 3 year old Allanwood, includes a number of other high class performers.

EMILY FULLER, SOL SCHIFF GET NO. 1 RANKINGS

Sol Schiff, New York City, and Emily Fuller, Bethlehem, Pa., were listed at the top in the national table tennis rankings, released yesterday by Reginald G. Hammond of Chicago, chairman of the United States Table Tennis association ranking committee.

Aside from Schiff a general shakeup is shown in the other leaders' positions. George Hendry, St. Louis, took the No. 2 spot away from Jimmy McClure, Indianapolis, who dropped to fifth.

In the women's division Miss Fuller, who was No. 2 last season, succeeds Ruth Hughes Aarons, New York City, who has retired. Dorothy Halliday, Baltimore, who was not ranked last season, jumped to No. 2 position.

WOMEN—No. 1, Emily Fuller, Bethlehem, Pa.; No. 2, Dorothy Halliday, Baltimore; No. 3, Ruth Wilson, Swarthmore, Pa.; No. 4, Mrs. Mae Clouther, Arlington, Mass.; No. 5, Mrs. Dolores Probert Kunz, Normandy, Mo.; No. 6, Sally Green, Indianapolis; No. 7, Mrs. Clara Harrison, Cleveland Heights, O.; No. 8, Mrs. May Spannaus, New Rochelle, N. Y.; No. 9, Mrs. Mathilda Rauscher Plaskow, Philadelphia; No. 10, Betty Henry, South Bend, Ind.

PLAY INTERCITY MATCH.

A seven man team representing the Katherine Settlement House of Indiana Harbor will meet a similar number of Chicago stars in a match table tennis meet Friday night at the Skyline Athletic club, 188 West Randolph street.

Cubs Defeat Sox, 6-1; Lead Series, 7 to 5

pass. Herman bounced to Cain and a double play appeared imminent but Cain tossed the ball into center field trying to force Hack at second. The latter took third on the error and remained there on Cavarretta's fly to Walker. Demaree grounded to Owen, who fell down after fielding the ball, so it went for a hit, Hack scoring. Owen ended the inning abruptly by starting a fast double play on Marty's hard grounder.

Billy Smashes One.

Another double play erased the effect of a pass Cain gave in the second but he wasn't quite as effective in the third, at least not while pitching to Herman. Sugar started the inning nicely by fanning both Carleton and Hack. Herman then blasted the ball over the left field fence. A single to left by Cavarretta followed but Demaree could produce only a tap to Cain.

Cain limited the Cubs to two hits in the fourth but there were other happenings which made it easy for them to score a pair of runs. Marty set this advance in motion by singling to center. Owen took care of Reynolds' grounder. Cain then walked Jurges for the second time and O'Dea crashed a single into right, Marty sprinting home and Jurges taking third. A little confusion followed. Carleton grounded to Kuhel, who threw to Berger to force O'Dea at second. Cain dashed over to first base, expecting to complete a double play, but Berger threw the ball to the fence, Jurges scoring and Carleton taking second. Hack ended the inning with a fly to Radcliff.

Tex Has a Little Trouble.

Carleton's roughest inning was the fifth and it wasn't very rough. After Radcliff had been tossed out by Jurges, Kuhel singled to left and Owen dropped a hit in short center. Rensa grounded into a double play, the third recorded by the Cubs.

Rigney's appearance in Cain's place in the sixth came close to being profitable for the Cubs. Reynolds slipped a double into right with one out. Jurges was disposed of on a fly to Rosenthal and Garbark scratched a hit to Martin. Then Root dispatched a treacherous liner into center but the agile Rosenthal arrived in time to make the catch.

Despite singles by Pinch Hitter Luke Sewell and Rosenthal in the sixth, Root succeeded in maintaining the Sox string of goose eggs on the score board, but the American leaguers broke the spell in the seventh. Root's ordinarily perfect control faltered against Steinbacher, who was plunked on the shirt by a pitched ball. Kuhel struck out and Martin popped to Jurges. Rensa walked and Berger shot a single to right, scoring Steinbacher. Herman then fumbled Rigney's grounder but an instant later ended the inning by chasing into short right field for Landrum's popup.

They Didn't Need These.

Two Cubs scored in the seventh on two hits and a pass. Herman walked after Hack had been tossed out by Landrum. Cavarretta shook the right field fence with a two base drive, Herman stopping at third. Triplett flied to Thompson but Herman remained at third. Then Stainback lifted a blooping single just beyond Landrum's reach to score his two mates. Stainback stole second and would have scored if Rigney hadn't caught Reynolds' drive which was headed for center.

The ceremony was performed in the office of Steel's attorney, A. L. Lee. Steele was married under his correct name, Fred Burgett. He gave his age as 25 and that of his bride as 22.

Cubs, Sox Part Company at End of Today's Game

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bisbee, Ariz., April 5.—The Chicago guests who kept up with the elaborate social program provided for the Cubs and Sox in this copper capital survived without mishap. The chuck wagon feed at a border ranch was a big success, as was the trip down a copper shaft, the rotary luncheon, etc., etc.

The Cubs and Sox will reach the parting of the ways after tomorrow's game in El Paso, Tex. The Cubs will go to San Antonio to join the St. Louis Browns and the Sox will join the Pirates at Sweetwater, Tex.

The fact that the Sox had won five of the last seven games with the Cubs is said to have nothing to do with the physical complaints three-fourths of the Cubs big four pitching starters voiced today. Bill Lee resigned his assignment today because of a neck misery. Larry French, who was slammed about by the Sox his last time out, complained of an aching arm and Curt Davis—well, everybody knows how Curt has been suffering.

Because of all the physical anguish going on among his first line men, Manager Grimm will fall back on the less delicate second stringers tomorrow. Logan and Bryant will pitch the au revoir number for the Cubs. Ted Lyons and Bill Dietrich will perform for the Sox.

Detroit Beats Ramblers for Western Title

A goal kicked in by a pony in the closing minute of play gave the Detroit Gold Hats a 7 to 6 victory over the Chicago Ramblers last night in the 124th Field Artillery armory. The triumph carried with it the western senior indoor polo championship.

The outcome qualified Detroit to meet the eastern title winners in the championship tournament starting here Saturday night.

Bayley Leads Detroit.

The individual play of Volney P. Bayley, Detroit captain, was the deciding factor. His alertness in getting possession of the ball and his accuracy in shooting drew frequent applause from the crowd. Herb Lorber gave the best performance for the Ramblers, but the Chicagoans' team work was ragged.

Outscoring their opponents in every period, the Chicago Shamrocks polo team, 1936 Sherman cup champions, advanced to the western finals of that class by defeating Fort Sheridan, 12 to 4, in the first game.

Face Cleveland Next.

By their victory Lieut. James McAnulty, Maj. Leslie Ireland, and Capt. William Everett qualified to meet the Cleveland First Cavalry team, defending champions, here tomorrow night for the western title.

ing and that the whole league would hear of the "raw deal" his team had received.

Toronto attempted to take advantage of Moore's condition, or lack thereof, in the first few minutes and succeeded to the extent of its one goal. Smythe called for a change of tactics in the eighth minute of the first period, however, when it became evident the little goalie could take care of himself, and from then on play reverted to accepted hocky principles of offense and defense.

Hawks Are Superior.

In this the Hawks were visibly the superior team, even after Mush March, veteran wing on the first line, was forced out of the game with a pulled groin muscle in the first period. Embittered by what they termed lack of sportsmanship on the part of the Leafs in the Karakas matter, they devoted the first ten minutes to the roughest hocky of the playoffs. They cooled off later, though, and settled down to outskating and outmaneuvering the league champions, who had entered the game with a record of three consecutive triumphs over the Boston Bruins in the first place playoff.

The score is not an accurate measure of the Hawks' superiority. The team which finished sixth in the regular National league season and went on to eliminate first the Montreal Canadiens, then the New York Americans, reached its peak as it rallied to protect the gallant little Moore from such marksmen as Drillon, Apps, Jackson, and Thoms. Its margin of victory might have been larger if a goal judge had not failed to see Jack Shill's drive go in and bound out of the cage in the third period.

Leafs Score First.

Moore was tense in the Hawk nets and almost before he could get himself set the Leafs took a 1 to 0 lead. Davidson, Apps and Drillon came down in a power play, with Apps firing at the net. Moore made the save, but before he could get back into position, Drillon had dropped the rebound into the corner of the net. The time was 1:53.

March and Chamberlain went off for high sticking, but neither team appeared eager to go on the offensive while a man short. When they returned Jackson was sent off for coming on the ice before Chamberlain, whom he was relieving, had gotten off, and the Hawks had an advantage for the first time. Dahlstrom, Gottselig and Romnes started a drive, but it was thwarted until Romnes intercepted a passout at the blue line in 17:15, slid the puck over to Dahlstrom, who shot, and Gottselig hammered in the rebound to tie the score.

Early in the second period Seibert picked up the puck and started up the ice. At the Leafs' blue line he passed to the left boards to Thompson, who fired a hard shot from thirty feet out. It passed through Broda's legs to give the Hawks a 2 to 1 lead in 1:50.

This Clinches It.

The Leafs attempted to catch the Hawks napping on a change of lines in the third period and swept down on Moore before a full team had crawled over the side. Levinsky poke-checked the puck away from Thoms, and Gottselig picked it up at the Hawks' blue line. There was no one between him and Broda and he beat all pursuers up to the mouth of the cage, where he hammered it past Broda in 12:07 to give the Hawks a 3 to 1 lead.

ACCURATE CASTS NEEDED TO HOOK REELFOOT'S BASS

BY BOB BECKER.

Any northern fisherman who wants to practice his casting for both accuracy and fish will find plenty of opportunity if he visits Reelfoot lake, the large bass lake which lies partly in Tennessee and partly in Kentucky. Some of the best bass fishing in this unusual lake is among the cypress trees that add so much to the distinctive atmosphere of the place.

You have to lay your lure right at the base of a snag, old stump, or cypress tree if you want a bass strike. Sometimes this calls for an overhead cast. Sometimes you have to do an underhand flip to reach the bass location. To place the lure over the possible hangout of a bass means accurate casting. As a rule the casts are short, ranging from 7 or 8 feet up to 15 or 20.

Use Short Rod.

For this work the guides use a 3 or 3½ foot tubular steel rod, an ideal length for this work, as we found one day when Carl, our guide [they're called pushers on Reelfoot], took us on a long trip through parts of the lake which were just as interesting as the names which they bear. Imagine taking an exploring and casting trip to places called Rag Point pocket, Burnt Woods, Palestine stumps, Brewer bar, and Buzzard slough!

Palestine stumps, a dandy bass ground filled with old dead snags and stumps, calls for a short bait casting rod. Brewer bar is an open piece of water filled with "mule foot bonnets," which is a much more picturesque name than yellow pond lily, the plant in question. Buzzard slough, a name that is probably more than 100 years old, is a channel through cypress trees which doubtless represents an old river bed.

1811 Earthquake Responsible.

Ever since the earthquake of 1811 buckled the land around what is now Reelfoot, and impounded the waters of many streams, this open channel has persisted.

We now are trying to find out the correct name of the Reelfoot lake fish that the boys call the "rock bass." Curtis Pritchard, one of the game wardens on the lake, tells us that the rock bass is really the white or silver bass. [The goggle eye or rock bass of the north is the Warmouth bass at Reelfoot.] Pritchard has promised to send us a "rock bass" so that we may make an identification of the species.

DON BUDGE TO OFFICIATE FOR VINES AND PERRY

When Ellsworth Vines and Fred Perry face each other in the International amphitheater tomorrow night and in the Chicago arena on Friday they will have for umpire a probable future rival to their top ranking position in the tennis world. Don Budge, member of the American Davis cup team, will be visiting in Chicago and will be one of the officials of the matches.

Vines, who has built up a lead in the present series, will try to blast Perry off the courts in his Chicago matches. Vines has not played his best tennis in Chicago since turning professional, and Perry has been at his peak when here. Perry has never lost a match in Chicago.

Perry is seldom caught out of position and has great speed in covering the court, so that he frequently makes seemingly impossible returns of Vines' smashes. Vines goes in for a heavy attack and Perry depends on a clever defense which waits for an opening.

Walter Senior, Canadian champion who teams with Vines in the doubles, and Berkeley Bell, former intercollegiate champion, will play a singles match as part of the tour entertainment. Bell and Perry play as a team in the doubles.

FIVE CHAIN STORE GROUPS' MARCH SALES DECLINE

National Tea's Volume Down 15.1 Per Cent.

Five variety and food chain store organizations yesterday reported a further decline in sales during March. Last month's sales compared less favorably with 1937 figures in all cases than was the case in earlier months of 1938.

Sales of National Tea nad Kroger Grocery and Baking, the two food chains reporting, held up better by comparison than was the case with the other chains. National's sales were down 15.1 per cent from last year in the four weeks ended March 26, compared with a decline of 13.3 per cent for the twelve weeks ended March 26. Kroger sales for the four weeks ended March 26 were off 9.4 per cent, against a decline of 7.6 per cent for the twelve weeks.

Grant Shows a Decline.

W. T. Grant sales declined 14.2 per cent in March, dragging the total for the first three months this year down to 7.8 per cent below that for the corresponding 1937 period.

At least part of the larger decline in March sales was attributed to the lateness of Easter this year, compared with last year, when March sales reflected Easter buying. Karl Gardner, president of W. T. Grant, said "an equitable comparison" of March results in allowance for Easter trade would show about a 4 per cent decline instead of 14.3 per cent."

McLellan Stores had an 18.3 per cent decline from last year in March sales. February sales were down 5.1 per cent, and the two month total was 12.7 per cent less than that a year ago.

Sales of Neisner Brothers in March were 23.4 per cent less than a year ago, compared with a February decline of 5.1 per cent.

Investors' Guide

United States Smelting & Refining.

Investors' Guide: I have been waiting to buy United States Smelting, Refining, and Mining company stock because of the large dividend it pays, but I see that it is one of the companies which has large holdings in Mexico. Please give me a report on this company.—P. J.

Answer: The United States Smelting, Refining, and Mining company is a major producer and refiner of metals. Its production last year included 406,173 ounces of gold, 21,489,088 ounces of silver, 101,149,202 pounds of lead, 49,250,101 pounds of zinc, and 3,916,493 pounds of zinc. Less important quantities of coal, bismuth, arsenic, iron, and cadium also were produced.

Copper, lead, and zinc are mined principally in Utah, gold in Alaska, and silver in Mexico. The company also has mining properties in Arizona, New Mexico, California, and Colorado. Principal smelters and refineries are located in Utah and East Chicago and in the states of Hidalgo, Mexico. More than 60 per cent of United States Smelting's total silver production is at Mexican properties and important quantities of gold are mined there also. The Mexican mines include some of the world's largest sources of silver production. It was recently estimated that a little more than one-sixth of the company's 1937 net income resulted from Mexican operations.

Along with other important producers of gold and silver, United States Smelting has benefitted from the rise in prices of these metals in the last five years. Earnings have been adversely affected, however, by the recent break of world silver prices and by the slump in copper, lead, and zinc prices since last fall.

Net income for 1937 was $6,653,324, or $9.48 a common share, compared with $5,455,276, or $7.22 a share, in 1936, and an all time high of $7,090,072, or $10.31 a share, in 1935. Net income in 1929 was $3,786,692, or $3.86 a share.

Profit for the first two months of 1938 was estimated at $392,784, compared with $896,731 in the corresponding 1937 period.

The company had 467,948 shares of $50 par 7 per cent cumulative preferred and 528,765 shares of $50 par common stock outstanding at the end of 1937. Common dividends totaled $11 a share in 1937, a $1 payment was made in January of this year and another $1 is payable April 15. Dividends totaled $10 a share in 1936, $8 in 1935, $9 in 1934, $1 in 1932, and $3.50 in 1929. The company's current financial position is strong.

THREE CONCERNS OMIT DIVIDENDS; FOUR OTHERS CUT

Cudahy Directors Pass Preferred Payment.

Three companies omitted dividends yesterday and four others reduced the amount of payments to stockholders.

The Cudahy Packing company directors voted to omit the semi-annual preferred dividend at this time, deferring action until later in the year. The company also passed its semi-annual preferred dividend due last Nov. 1. The last common dividend was 62½ cents in July, 1937.

Other omissions were on the Hat Corporation of America class A and class B common stocks and on Spiegel, Inc., common stock. Both companies ordered regular preferred dividend payments.

Other Companies Cut.

The Melville Shoe corporation reduced its common dividend for the second time this year, voting a quarterly payment of 87½ cents for May 2. It paid $1 on Feb. 1 and made four quarterly payments of $1.25 last year.

American Equitable Assurance company will pay only 25 cents a share on April 25, compared with 40 cents in preceding quarters. It also paid 10 cents extra in January and 30 cents extra during 1937.

A payment of $2.50 a share will be made April 23 on American Car and Foundry preferred stock. This represents approximately the net income for the fiscal year to end April 30, it was said. The company paid $4 on the noncumulative preferred a year ago, and made a 25 cent payment on the common in June.

New York Merchandise company cut its May 2 dividend to 10 cents a share, compared with 20 cents on Feb. 1.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The market for hogs yesterday dipped 10 to 15 cents to the lowest price levels in seven weeks. Receipts were moderate compared with Tuesday's, but demand was most narrow in some time, due to the unsatisfactory margin between live costs and the price of pork. Another break of 50 cents to $1.00 per hundred pounds in the wholesale trade for fresh pork further weakened the buying power of smaller interests who deal mostly in fresh cuts of meat.

Buyers backed away from the cheaper grades of steers with weight yesterday, and these were draggy and about steady. Lighter steers, yearlings, and the best grades of heavy steers ruled stronger, with some indicating slight gains over Monday.

EDISON PROFITS CUT THIS YEAR BY UTILITY TAX

Two Months' Income Slightly Lower.

The Commonwealth Edison company had slightly lower earnings for the first two months of 1938, compared with the same 1937 period, James Simpson, chairman, disclosed at the annual meeting of stockholders yesterday.

Net income for the two months was equal to 51 cents a share, against 57 cents a share in 1937. He pointed out, however, that this decrease was accounted for entirely by the Illinois 3 per cent public utility tax on gross revenues, which was in effect this year, but was not applicable to revenues from Jan. 1 to March 10, 1937.

Industrial Consumption Sags.

"The decline in industrial use of electricity has continued since the first of the year," Simpson said, "but consumption by small commercial firms and residential consumers has shown an increase. At present there is no sign of a pickup in the industrial use of electricity."

The board of directors, Simpson disclosed, is considering the issuance of additional convertible debentures, but the amount and uses of funds have not yet been decided. Some of the debentures would be used to retire securities of subsidiaries and thus further simplify the system's capital structure. Additional refunding to reduce fixed charges also is contemplated, he added.

Simpson, in commenting on the system's corporate structure, said it had been simplified greatly since 1932. From seventy-seven companies in that year the number has been reduced, he said, to twenty through sales, liquidation, dissolution, or merger. Further reductions are in process, he said.

Effective May 1, Simpson said, the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, a subsidiary, will reduce residential rates by an estimated annual amount of more than $700,000, on the basis of 1937 operations. This is in addition to a reduction of $800,000 by the company last October, he added.

Public Service Earns Less.

Public Service of Northern Illinois earned $1.29 a share in the first two months of 1938, against $1.40 a share in the corresponding 1937 period, Simpson announced. This difference also was largely accounted for by the state public utility tax, he explained.

Under a recapitalization plan which took effect last fall, Commonwealth Edison made an offer to holders of Public Service Company of Northern Illinois to exchange their shares for Edison shares, on the basis of three shares of $25 par Edison common for one comon share of Public Service. As a result of the exchange, Edison now owns 98.4 per cent of the stock of Public Service.

Commonwealth Edison stockholders elected John T. Pirie to the board of directors to replace Thomas E. Donnelly, who is retiring on advice of his physician. Pirie is president of the Carson Pirie Scott & Co. All other directors were reëlected.

Stanley Field was elected a director of Public Company of Northern Illinois to replace Frank G. Logan, deceased. Other directors were reëlected.

FRANC DECLINES ON DOUBT OVER FRENCH POLICY

The French franc fell 0.14 of a cent in foreign exchange dealings yesterday on selling attributed to apprehension over the French political and financial situation. French money was freely offered in New York, London, and Paris despite general belief that Premier Leon Blum would not succeed in his proposed financial changes in France and would be forced out of office.

The depressed outlook in France was reflected in the New York discounts on francs for future delivery. The discount on thirty day francs widened to 0.03½ cent from 0.03¼ and the discount on ninety day money increased to 0.09¼ cent from 0.08 cent.

The British pound sterling declined ¼ of a cent, closing at $4.96½. The Netherlands guilder slipped 0.05 of a cent. The Belgium belga and the Swiss franc declined 0.02 of a cent each.

Engagement of $5,800,000 of gold in Japan for shipment to the United States was reported by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

The price of silver in London rose 0.58 cent an ounce to 42.75 cents. The treasury again renewed its price of 43 cents an ounce for foreign silver.

Hoof Disease Perils British Live Stock; Ban Movement

LONDON, April 5.—(AP)—England faced today the threat of a severe outbreak of hoof and mouth disease, and the ministry of agriculture ordered a ban on movement of live stock. The order affected nearly 25,000,000 animals and was issued after nine cases were verified. An outbreak last fall was checked with slaughter of thousands of cattle, sheep, and pigs, for which the government paid $2,000,000 compensation.

Younger Men Take Control of U. S. Steel

E. R. Stettinius Jr. [top], B. F. Fairless [center], and E. M. Voorhees placed in key positions of U. S. Steel corporation.

Operations of the 1 billion 919 million dollar United States Steel corporation—world's largest steel company—yesterday were placed in the hands of three men young in the business world, with the elevation of Edward R. Stettinius Jr. to the position of chairman of the board of directors.

Stettinius, who was born in Chicago in May, 1900, will have as his associates in the steel triumvirate Benjamin F. Fairless, 47 year old former Ohio school teacher, who is the president of the United States Steel corporation, and Enders M. Voorhees, 45 year old chairman of the finance committee of the corporation. Stettinius will not be 38 until next month.

Follow Taylor's Retirement.

These three men came into operating control of the big corporation with the retirement on Monday of Myron C. Taylor, as chairman of the board. Stettinius had held the powerful position of chairman of the finance committee and the vice chairman was Voorhees, who now is the chairman.

The business and financial strategy of the corporation, according to persons close to its affairs, will be largely in the hands of Stettinius and Voorhees, and Fairless will be the operating head. Fairless, after a brief period as a school teacher before going to college, went to work for the Central Steel company. He advanced rapidly in the services of steel companies which became formidable rivals of the steel corporation that he now heads.

Becomes Head of Subsidiary.

In October, 1935, Fairless became the president of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, the largest operating unit in the United States Steel corporation group, and on Jan. 1, 1938, became president of the parent company.

Stettinius, although his father has been dead for several years, is still called Edward R. Junior. The elder Stettinius at one time was in the banking business in Chicago and later became a partner in J. P. Morgan & Co. During the war he was an assistant secretary of war.

Stettinius, after graduating from the University of Virginia in 1923, went to work for the General Motors corporation. In 1926 he was made assistant to the vice president and four years later became assistant to the president, Alfred P. Sloan Jr. Later he was made vice president in charge of industrial and public relations.

Stettinius Joins U. S. Steel.

In 1934 Stettinius left General Motors to become vice chairman of the finance committee of United States Steel, and two years later he became chairman. Prematurely gray and of athletic build, Stettinius presents a striking figure.

Voorhees, the third member of the triumvirate, was born in Amsterdam, N. Y., on Oct. 26, 1892, and was graduated from Dartmouth college in 1914. After holding various positions he went with the Johns-Manville corporation, which he left after nine years to become vice chairman of the finance committee of the United States Steel corporation.

Philip R. Clarke, president of the City National Bank and Trust company, Chicago, was elected a director to succeed the late E. J. Buffington, also a Chicagoan. Clarke, who was born in Hinsdale, Ill., in 1889, becomes one of the two Chicagoans out of the seventeen on the United States Steel board. The other is Sewell L. Avery, head of Montgomery Ward & Co. and of the U. S. Gypsum company.

Clarke Active in Civic Affairs.

Clarke, who still makes his home in Hinsdale, has been active for many years in Chicago civic affairs. He recently was elected president of the Commercial club of Chicago.

The directors also reëlected Fairless as president of the United States Steel Corporation of New Jersey, the parent company. He also is president of the United States Steel Corporation of Delaware, the management company, which has headquarters in Pittsburgh. He will divide his time between New York City and Pittsburgh.

HEAD OF SMALL INVESTMENT HOUSE in Chicago with good underwriting record, would like to communicate with an investment salesman, now self supporting, who has confidence in his ability to cope with changed conditions and would be interested in becoming a partner to head up sales activities. No capital required, but good background and sales contacts are essential.

All communications will be held strictly confidential. Address replies to Box K. Doremus & Company, 208 S. La Salle Street, Chicago, Illinois.

LONG HAUL HEARINGS SPEEDED UP AFTER FILIBUSTER CHARGE

Washington, D. C., April 5.—(AP)—A senate committee moved today to hasten a hearing which had threatened to drag along until too late in the session to permit a vote on the Pettengill long and short haul rail rate bill.

Opposition witnesses, who have taken four weeks for their testimony, were ordered by Chairman Wheeler [D., Mont.] of the interstate commerce committee to finish not later than next Tuesday.

The Pettengill bill, passed by the house last year, seeks repeal of the interstate commerce clause which prohibits railroads from charging a lower rate for a long haul than for a shorter haul over the same line.

Three Idaho witnesses told the committee today opposition to the bill in their state was almost unanimous.

RAIL UNION GROUP BACKS GREEN IN FIGHT WITH C.I.O.

Delegates to the international convention here of the American Federation of Labor railway employés' department yesterday approved a program for rehiring unemployed railroad workers and stabilizing employment throughout the industry, and passed a resolution assuring the organization's support of William Green, president of the A. F. of L., in his fight against the C. I. O.

The delegates, who mostly represent shop crafts, recommended that the railroads be asked to assure one year of steady work to the necessary employés in every class. This, they said, "will increase the purchasing power of a pay roll exceeding 2 billion dollars by releasing more than 1,250,000 workers from the fear of unemployment."

The resolution supporting Green said the labor movement had been pioneered by skilled craftsmen through their trade unions affiliated with the A. F. of L. and that the benefits obtained through this system had extended to all workers in the country.

The program approved by the delegates urged, among other things, the elimination of grade crossings. A billion dollar federal bond issue was proposed for this.

Payment by Inland Irving National Bank Authorized

A fifth repayment of 5 per cent to 21,178 creditors of the Inland Irving National bank has been authorized by the controler's office in Washington, D. C., Carter H. Harrison Jr., receiver for the bank, announced last night. Checks for the payments, which total $181,529, will be ready in about 45 days, Harrison said, and will bring the total paid since suspension to 55 per cent.

Mexican Labor GunFight Adds to Oil Troubles

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, April 5.—[Special.]—The Mexican government, already harassed by prospects of a long legal fight over the expropriated foreign oil industry, today was confronted with a battle between two powerful labor groups upon which it had relied for support.

Details were received here today of a half hour gun battle yesterday at Acapulco between members of the Confederation of Workers of Mexico [C. T. M.] and members of the Region Confederation of Mexico Workers [C. R. O. M.]. Two workmen were killed and several persons wounded, including two soldiers.

The battle started over the right to unload a cargo of building materials from the German ship Wesser. Federal troops intervened and twenty persons were arrested.

Follows Other Clashes.

The outbreak, one of a number of such clashes between the rival groups in the last year, was regarded by Mexican government officials as particularly unfortunate at this time because labor has rallied behind President Lazaro Cardenas since he expropriated the property of 17 American, British, and Dutch oil companies March 18.

News of the outbreak at Acapulco came as the seventeen foreign oil companies asked in District court an injunction against enforcement of the federal labor board's order of March 17 terminating their labor contracts with 18,000 former workers. Yesterday in District court the companies challenged the expropriation decree.

In Guadalajara, Archbishop Garibi y Rivera urged Catholics of Mexico to raise a fund to help reimburse the oil companies for their seized property. Archbishop Luis Martinez of Mexico City gave his approval to the appeal.

Cardenas Thanks Roosevelt.

Washington, D. C., April 5.—[Special.]—The thanks of President Lazaro Cardenas of Mexico were conveyed today by Dr. Francisco Castillo Najera, the Mexican ambassador, to President Roosevelt for his friendly comment on the oil expropriation question recently at Warm Springs, Ga. At that time Mr. Roosevelt said the problem was being considered in a friendly spirit and indicated that many of the American claims would be scaled down.

The ambassador discussed the oil situation with Mr. Roosevelt, who later said that the conversations were making progress.

Afterward Secretary Hull said that brief information of a minor character had been exchanged, but that no decisions of any kind were called for.

Writ Asked Against Sales Tax on Used Automobiles

The Better Automobile Dealers' association of Illinois filed suit yesterday in the Circuit court, seeking to enjoin S. L. Nudelman, state director of finance, from collecting sales taxes on used automobiles sold by their member concerns. The association contends that to collect a tax on the difference between the trade-in price of a used car and the price for which it is sold after being reconditioned is unconstitutional and unfair.

141 Railroads Report Loss of $33,475,907 in Month

The aggregate net loss of 141 class 1 railroads for January, after taxes and charges, was $33,475,907, against $4,502,006 for January, 1937, the interstate commerce commission reported yesterday.

CHICAGO STOCK MART CONSIDERS SPLIT FEE PLAN

Corporate Members Also Proposed.

Proposals for two radical changes in the operating machinery of the Chicago Stock exchange, designed to increase the volume of trading, were submitted to members yesterday in a letter from Thaddeus R. Benson, exchange president. He asked members to consider a revision in rules to allow splitting of brokerage commissions with nonmember dealers who get business for the exchange, and to admit corporate firms to regular membership on the exchange.

Members were requested to submit at once an opinion on the desirability of the proposals, together with remarks, to the exchange administration.

Move Follows Analysis.

The plan to divide commissions, Benson disclosed, was the outgrowth of an analysis made by the committee on public relations. The committee, which has been studying possible methods for increasing business volume, analyzed the exchange's producing membership with a view to determining what incentive there was to do business on the Chicago Stock exchange, rather than on the New York exchange.

"That analysis disclosed," said Benson, "that only 90 of more than 700 main and branch offices of our members who are also members of the New York Stock exchange had an advantage to the firm as a whole in developing Chicago business. In other words, more than 600 of our firm members' offices can do business on the New York Stock exchange to as great or greater advantage than they can here. The result is obvious. Outside of Chicago our member offices will make little effort to develop Chicago business."

Results of Survey Told.

Many nonmember registered dealers in securities, he added, have made "considerable effort" to have the exchange work out a plan for dividing the commissions. In a survey of 127 nonmember dealers made by the exchange, 120 were in favor of a plan of division, and expressed belief that it would bring a substantial increase in business to the exchange. Thirty-four estimated increases in their own business from 100 to 1,000 per cent would result, twelve estimated a substantial increase, and 47 "were very favorable but did not give a definite estimate."

Benson said nonmember dealers now contribute only about 5 per cent of the exchange's total volume, and that any appreciable increase in business they would bring to the exchange would be profitable for member firms. The Iowa Investment Bankers' association, he said, has urged the exchange to adopt a method of splitting fees.

Only Individuals Now Admitted.

The second suggestion, to admit corporate firms to exchange membership, is a radical departure from the long standing rule that only individuals may own exchange memberships. Brokerage firms now are represented on the exchange through their partners who are members.

The restriction against corporate memberships has been maintained chiefly to make impossible the limited liability which corporations have against claims. In a partnership, each of the partners may be held for the full liability of the firm.

The admission of corporate firms would open membership to many underwriting houses which are incorporated.

PLAN CHEAPER AUTO INSURANCE FOR SAFE DRIVER

Springfield, Ill., April 5.—[Special.]—Several plans designed to reduce the cost of public liability and property damage automobile insurance for safe drivers were outlined today at a hearing before the state insurance department.

A. E. Spottke, New York, representing the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, proposed that refunds of 15 per cent of premiums be made at the end of each year to drivers who had made no claims during the periodfl

Spottke estimated that his plan would save Illinois drivers $505,000 annually in premiums and would reduce the cost of individual policies by as much as $6.75 a year in Chicago and about $3.30 a year in rural regions where lower rates prevail.

Another plan called for reductions in the cost of renewing policies to drivers who had no accidents during the year.

The Illinois insurance department will determine if the plans comply with the new state insurance code.

Bigger National Income Called U. S. Need---Not Redistribution

The need of a greater national income rather than violent attempts to redistribute the existing but inadequate income is indicated in an economic analysis of federal income tax returns for 1936.

In that fairly prosperous year, these figures show, if the excess of all personal incomes over $5,000 had been taken by the government and redistributed to the people who receive less than $5,000 there would have been about $43 per capita to go around. The average family income for the lower salaried group would have been increased about $177.

It is further shown in these figures, which give the distribution of the estimated national income produced on the basis of net income classes, that during the last few years between 86 and 90 per cent of this national income has been going to individuals who receive less than $5,000. This percentage is the highest in twenty years. This group paid only 5.5 per cent of all federal personal income taxes.

Pay 50 Per Cent Income Tax.

The United States treasury records show that persons receiving $100,000 or more in 1936 on the average paid a federal income tax amounting to 50 per cent of their net income. This small group, receiving about 1.5 per cent of the national income in 1936, paid more than 40 per cent of the federal personal income taxes for that year.

This group has been steadily decreasing in number. As compared with almost 15,000 in 1929, there were approximately 4,729 in this high income bracket in 1936.

It is found that only 4 per cent of our adult population paid federal income taxes in the relatively prosperous year of 1936. The drop in the 1929 level, and the declines by classes are shown in the following table:

Per cent decline in aggregate income, 1929-1936:
Estimated total natl. income produced	—21
†All incomes under $5,000	—13.5
Net income classes reported to U. S. treasury—
$5,000-$10,000	—36
$10,000-$25,000	—35
$25,000-$50,000	—36
$50,000-$100,000	—45
$100,000 and over	—78

Those actually paying income taxes in 1936, with their dependents, probably represented about 10 per cent of the total population. Their aggregate net income reported was approximately $14,400,000,000, or around 22 per cent of the national income produced. In other words, the remaining 90 per cent of the population, receiving 78 per cent of the national income, or about $50,000,000,000, paid no federal income taxes whatever in 1936.

656,600 in Upper Bracket.

Only 656,600 persons in 1936 reported incomes of $5,000 and over, amounting in the aggregate to $8,764,000,000, or 14 per cent of the national income produced. These represent about 2 per cent of the entire population.

Those receiving incomes in excess of $5,000 in 1936, a comparison of federal statistics shows, accounted for 57 per cent of the dividends paid out, about 22 per cent of all interest, and only 13 per cent of rentals. Those with incomes under $5,000 received about 78 per cent of all interest and 87 per cent of all rents.

In 1929 the excess of capital gains over losses accounted for 44 per cent of the aggregate of all incomes exceeding $100,000. In 1936 only 11 per cent of the aggregate income in the high bracket was derived from capital gains.

Tax Exempt Interest Paid.

The latest available records on tax exempt interest show that in 1934 for all incomes in excess of $5,000 the total amount of tax exempt interest received was only $293,600,000, just over one-half of 1 per cent of the entire national income.

The percentage of our population actually employed on the average during 1936 was 38.5 per cent, close to the highest figure on record. However, 3,700,000, or 7 per cent of the total, were engaged in emergency government work.

ASK WILKERSON'S AID IN BEHALF OF CONGRESS HOTEL

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday was asked to help persuade the Reconstruction Finance corporation to prevent the possible closing of the Congress hotel, which last week was the subject of an involuntary bankruptcy action. "I may be out of order," Attorney Daniel G. Judge, representing the National Hotel Management company, New York, said as he made the request.

Smiling, Judge Wilkerson replied, "I don't think I have much influence with the RFC. Of course I did decide one important case in their favor."

[Judge Wilkerson referred to the case in which he upheld the RFC when it sued stockholders of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company.]

Judge Wilkerson indicated he may turn the case over to Judge Philip L. Sullivan, who presided over the case when the hotel recently was reorganized under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy act.

Judge told Judge Wilkerson that the RFC had advanced $900,000 to the newly organized company and admitted that the hotel had defaulted on principal as well as interest.

Proposes Rail Executive as Presidential Candidate

Sun Valley, Idaho, April 5.—(AP)—W. M. Jeffers, president of the Union Pacific railway, proposed W. A. Harriman, New York railroad executive, to the United States department of Commerce business advisory council today as a 1940 presidential candidate. Harriman, chairman of the council and a Democrat, said later if he had known what Jeffers would say he would not have called on the latter to talk. The council, which met in closed session, adjourned after instructing its secretary to prepare its recommendations for Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper.

HUDSON BAY COMPANY PAYS FIRST DIVIDEND IN NEARLY 8 YEARS

LONDON, April 5.—(AP)—The 269th annual report of the Hudson's Bay company, made public today, announced a 4 per cent dividend on ordinary shares, the first since July, 1930.

A sharp decline in raw fur prices resulted in net trading profit for twelve months ended Jan. 31, 1938, of $846,000, compared to the previous year's profit of $1,133,000.

The company still owns 1,875,000 acres of land of the original grant of 7,000,000 acres given in 1869 for surrender of sovereign rights. No value is placed on unpaid instalments of $8,089,000.

The report recites expansion of the company's fur trading to southwest Africa, Scandinavia, Afghanistan, India, and South America.

The annual meeting is still called the annual court, shareholders are termed proprietors, and the governor and committee correspond to the usual chairman and board of directors.

Robinson-Patman Act's Validity Is Challenged

New York, April 5.—(AP)—The constitutionality of the Robinson-Patman act, amending the Sherman anti-trust law, was challenged in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals today. Counsel for the Biddle Purchasing company and several other firms sued for the nullification of a federal trade commission "cease and desist" order. They contended the Robinson-Patman act violated the constitution in its prohibition of payment of commissions by both sellers and buyers to true intermediaries. The court reversed decision.

SALES PEAK SET BY GOLDBLATT, BUT PROFITS DIP

Dividend on Common Stock Reduced.

Morris Goldblatt.

Goldblatt Bros., Inc., yesterday reported the largest sales in its history but a sharp drop in profits for the 1937 fiscal year. At the same time Goldblatt directors, because of less satisfactory operations this year than a year ago, reduced the common dividend for this quarter to 25 cents, or less than half of the 60 cent quarterly basis maintained in 1937. The previous quarterly payment was 60 cents made on Jan. 3.

The dividend declared yesterday, which is payable May 2, is also payable in common stock at the option of the stockholder, at the rate of 1/60th of a share in stock for each share held. The stock option on the Jan. 3 dividend was at the rate of 1/40th of a share.

Net Profit $1,054,800.

Net profit for the fiscal year [twelve months ended Jan. 31, 1938], totaled $1,054,800, equal after preferred dividend requirements to $1.36 a common share on 663,639 shares. This compared with net of $1,947,414 or $3.10 a share on 629,136 shares in the thirteen months ended Jan. 31, 1937.

Net sales for the 1937 fiscal year were $49,798,298, compared with $44,717,294 for the preceding thirteen months.

Morris Goldblatt, president, said in his message to stockholders that the increase in sales was due partly to the fact that the State street store was operated by the company for a full year in 1937 for the first time.

Goldblatt said the lower earnings were due in part to the fact that the company, like many others, built up inventories substantially in the early part of 1937. He added, however, that an aggressive policy of inventory liquidation was pursued "when it became apparent to us that the course of business and commodity prices had undergone a basic change."

Inventories Cut $400,000.

He said inventories of $8,040,454 on Jan. 31, 1938, represented a reduction of $400,000, compared with the end of the preceding year. Profits also were reduced, he said, by higher expenses as a whole, chiefly wages and taxes.

Directors of Spiegel, Inc., Chicago mail order house, yesterday voted to omit the common dividend for this quarter because the company failed to make a profit in the first quarter and because of "the general uncertainty of business conditions." The company paid 25 cents a share Feb. 1. The regular quarter dividend of $1.12½ a share on the $4.50 cumulative preferred was declared, payable June 15 to stock of record June 1.

Net sales of the company in March totaled $4,126,489, a drop of 27.90 per cent from 1937. In the first quarter sales were $8,366,187, or 19.72 per cent less than a year earlier. The management announced that salaries of $2,500 and more annually have been reduced 10 to 20 per cent on a sliding scale.

Approve Bonus Plan.

Spiegel stockholders approved a managerial employés' bonus plan for 1938. It provides a fund to be set up out of net earnings to enable employés in managerial positions to acquire shares of the company's stock on terms to be decided by directors.

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 5.—Stock market prices advanced fractions to 3 points today in relatively quiet trading. Pivotal industrial shares were in the forefront of the rise, with railroad and utility issues tagging along. Volume for the day was 687,610 shares, not much changed from Monday's total of 687,060 shares.

The opening demand for industrial shares enabled the list to show a semblance of strength, but when continued buying failed to develop prices turned irregularly lower. Later some demand came in to lift prices one point or so, following which they backed and filled until the final hour, when a flurry of fresh buying pushed stocks to around their best levels of the day.

U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Smelting, International Nickel, and Chrysler profited most in the day's dealings, advancing around 2 points or more.

Other active industrials were Anaconda, General Motors, Yellow Truck, General Electric, and Union Carbide. Except for the last named, which dipped a fraction, the others worked fractions to more than one point higher.

Sizable gains, but on less volume, were scored by Kennecott and Howe Sound in the coppers, International Harvester and Allis-Chalmers in the farm equipments, Westinghouse in the electric equipments, and Air Reduction in the chemicals.

Railroad and railway equipment shares, which were leaders yesterday, were more quiet today. Nevertheless the majority of them improved over yesterday's final quotations.

New York Bonds.

New York, April 5.—(AP)—The bond market, buoyed by rising secondary rail issues, moved into higher ground today for the fourth consecutive session.

The Associated Press average of twenty rail bonds finished with an advance of .9 of a point over Monday, the utility average with a gain of .8, and the industrial and foreign averages .1 higher.

Taking heart from Washington reports the government intended to do something to help ailing roads, carrier liens advanced in nearly solid formation. Lehigh Valley 5s of 2003 rose 4⅛ to 25. Up 3 were Missouri, Kansas and Texas 4s of '78 at 33.

United States government issues were strong, with treasuries showing gains ranging up to 10-32 of a point.

Among the foreign issues Austrian 7s of '57 were 5 higher at 45 and Italian 7s of '51 were up 1 to 77.

Chicago Stocks.

Prices advanced on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday although the volume of trading dwindled to 17,000 shares from 23,000 in the preceding session. Of the 70 issues traded, 31 advanced, 12 declined, and 27 closed unchanged. THE TRIBUNE average of 20 stocks closed 0.21 higher at 7.98.

Abbott Laboratories rose 1¾ to 38, Bendix climbed ¼ to 10, and Commonwealth Edison advanced ¼ to 23⅝. Walgreen slipped ¾ to 15¾ on the cut in the quarterly dividend rate from 50 to 25 cents a share.

Bank Stocks.

Continental Illinois and First National bank stocks were strong yesterday. One dealer quoted Continental at $58 bid, $60 asked, a gain of $4.50 a share, and First National at $174 bid, $178 asked, up $9 a share. Another dealer quoted each $1 a share higher. City National shares eased $2 a share to $120 bid, $124 asked, and Lake Shore Trust and Savings was up $3 a share at $48 bid, $53 asked. Chicago Title and Trust stock recovered another $4 a share, closing at $110 bid, $114 asked. Other Chicago bank stocks were unchanged from Monday's quotations.

TWO BROADCAST CHAINS REPORT 1937 EARNINGS

Columbia System's Profit Sets New Record.

David Sarnoff, president of R. C. A.

Earnings for 1937 of two radio networks, the Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., and the National Broadcasting company, were disclosed yesterday.

Columbia in its annual report showed net profit for the fiscal year [fifty-two weeks] ended Jan. 1, 1938, of $4,297,567, or $2.52 a share of capital stock. This was the largest profit in the history of the company and compared with $3,755,523, or $2.20 a share, in the preceding fiscal year [fifty-three weeks ended Jan. 2, 1937].

National Broadcasting, a subsidiary of Radio Corporation of America, had net earnings of approximately $3,700,000, David Sarnoff, RCA president, disclosed at the RCA annual meeting of stockholders in New York City yesterday. It was the first time that National Broadcasting's earnings have been reported separately, and no comparative 1936 figure was given. The broadcasting company in 1937 contributed about $41,000,000, or 36 per cent of RCA's gross income of $112,639,000, Sarnoff said.

Sales Set New Peaks.

Both Columbia and National also reported yesterday that March sales set new all time monthly peaks. Columbia's sales totaled $3,055,929, an increase of 19.4 per cent over 1937. Columbia's previous high of $2,886,065 was set in January of this year. National's billings in March were $3,806,831, an advance of 5.3 per cent from March, 1937.

The Columbia system's gross income from the sale of facilities, talent and use of lines for the year 1937 amounted to $34,329,896, a rise of 23 per cent over the total of $27,780,301 in the preceding fiscal year, the annual report showed.

Frank W. White, treasurer, said in the report that the company had continued its policy of the previous year by adding undistributed profits after dividends of $967,884 [approximately 25 per cent of net earnings] to surplus to provide for the ready financing of prospective capital requirements.

Quarter's Profit Smaller.

Sarnoff told stockholders that profits of RCA for the first quarter of this year will be smaller than in 1937. The company's net income for the year 1937, as previously reported, was $9,024,858 or 42 cents a common share, compared with $6,155,936 or 20 cents a share in 1936.

Commenting on the first three months of 1938, Sarnoff said:

"While the figures on the results of our operations for the first quarter of 1938 are not yet available, I am glad to be able to report that the company is operating at a profit in all its divisions.

"The steep decline in recent months in the nation's volume of business and profits also affected our income and profit figures for the first quarter of 1938. Nevertheless it is estimated that our net profits for this quarter will be more than adequate to cover preferred dividend requirements and leave a small balance applicable to the common stock."

Quarterly preferred requirements are about $807,000.

Says RCA Welcomes Quiz.

Sarnoff told RCA stockholders that the corporation would welcome the proposed investigation by the federal communications commission into activities of radio broadcasting companies.

"We have nothing to conceal and shall be glad to coöperate," he said at the annual meeting.

He also disclosed that the company in February sold its holdings in the Canadian Marconi company for $1,725,000 cash, in line with its policy of concentrating investments in the United States. The stock sold represented an original investment of $1,156,000. This did not mean, he said, that the company was withdrawing entirely from the foreign field. The transaction left about 94 per cent of RCA's assets represented by investments in the United States and chief foreign investments in South and Central America.

Larger Sales Reported by Abbott Laboratories

S. De Witt Clough, president of Abbott Laboratories, announced yesterday that last month's sales were larger than in March, 1937. In a letter to stockholders accompanying first quarter dividend checks he also said the company is not slowing down on research, advertising and sales efforts despite the present business recession.

Everyday Economics

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

Liquidating Value.

The preferred shares of an investing company usually have a stated liquidating value which represents the amount the holder will receive from the company in the event of liquidation before any of the proceeds are distributed to junior security holders.

The liquidating value may [or may not] differ from the so-called book value—the figure at which the shares are carried on the liability side of the company's balance sheet. It also may differ from the redemption value—the price at which the company is entitled to buy up the stock.

In calculating the per share value of their assets, investing companies frequently deduct for the preferred stock the value at which the stock is carried in its statement—the book value. This may not always give an accurate picture. If the liquidating value of the preferred stock is greater than the book value, the assets which would go to the common stock holders in the event of liquidation would be less than indicated by the so-called asset value.

It may be noted also that values which are given to securities in a balance sheet may not be realizable values, even if they correspond to the current market quotations. The size of the investment frequently precludes realization of the full price in the open market, because of lack of enough buyers at that price. On the other hand, if the investment represents a strategic holding in some concern, it may conceivably bring more than the market price at a private sale.

Sales and profits of the Cleveland Graphite Bronze company in 1937 were the highest on record, B. F. Hopkins, president, announced in the annual report. Net profit was $1,503,824, or $4.67 a capital share, compared with $1,238,659, or $3.85 a share, in 1936. Sales totaled $10,329,417, up 35 per cent from 1936. The company makes automobile bearings.

Dredging Company Earns Less.

Sharply reduced earnings were reported yesterday by the McWilliams Dredging company, Chicago. The company for 1937 showed net profit of $157,397, or 82 cents a capital share, compared with $578,558, or $3 a share, in 1936. Work remaining to be done under contract at the end of 1937 was approximately $2,350,000, compared with $1,850,000 a year earlier and $4,000,000 at the end of 1935, the company reported.

The Associated Gas and Electric corporation in a preliminary consolidated statement reported an increase in gross revenues, but a drop in net operating income, before fixed charges, for the twelve months to Feb. 28. COTTON

Houses with foreign connections were rather free sellers of cotton futures in American markets yesterday, presumably closing spreads between prices here and in Bombay, India. Prices were down more than .10 cent a pound or 50 cents a bale at the day's low, but a good rally followed on buying attributed to the trade and firmness in securities. Closing trades on the Chicago Board of Trade were .05 to .08 cent lower and other American markets were .01 to .05 cent a pound lower.

About 24,880,000 acres will be planted to cotton this season, according to a report by Nat C. Murray of Clement, Curtis & Co. This represents a reduction of 27.7 per cent or 9,603,000 acres, compared with 1937.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to .04 cent lower, with New Orleans, 8.80 cents; New York, 8.59 cents, and Galveston and Houston, 8.40 cents a pound. Prices follow:

VARYING TRENDS TOLD BY HEADS OF LARGE FIRMS

Int. Business Machines' Profits Hold Steady.

Corporation heads made varying answers to the question "How good is business?" at annual meetings of stockholders yesterday.

Thomas J. Watson, president of International Business Machines corporation, said that the company will show a profit in the first quarter equal to that of last year. Heads of several other firms, including American Smelting and Refining company, said earnings were running substantially lower this year. Some officials, however, reported a pickup in March business.

Watson told International Business Machines stockholders that he does not anticipate any decline of profits in the first quarter compared with a year ago. Plants, he added, are still running at full capacity, but without overtime work, as during some periods of last year.

Domestic Sales Lower.

Domestic sales in the first quarter, Watson said, were slightly lower, with March business dropping below January and February.

Mexican government representatives have informed the American Smelting and Refining company that there will be no expropriation of foreign owned mines in Mexico, F. H. Brownell, chairman, told stockholders at the annual meeting yesterday.

Net earnings of the company for the first two months of 1938 were equal to an annual rate of $2.63 a share, Brownell said. This compared with earnings at an annual rate of $8.37 a share for the first two months of 1937.

Mexico "is desirous that the properties continue to be operated by those now owning them," Brownell said. He commented that 18 per cent of the company's earnings in the first two months of 1938 were derived from Mexican operations.

Discusses Mexican Situation.

Speaking of the Mexican situation he said:

"The labor regulations have sought regulation which practically takes over the management and the control of the personnel and operation of the plant. It is these features of union control and so-called social requirements which give the greatest concern as to future operations."

Although sales of Compressed Industrial Gases, Inc., Chicago, for the first quarter of 1938 have declined 26 per cent from a year ago, the company will show a small profit, Horace B. Pearson, president, said at the annual meeting. Net will be considerably less than the profit of $143,796, or 91 cents a common share, in the first 1937 quarter, he said.

Raybestos Shows Loss.

Raybestos Manhattan, Inc., maker of rubber and asbestos products, had a net loss of about $180,000 in the first quarter, Sumner Simpson, president, told stockholders. In the first quarter of 1937 the company reported net income of $674,504. Sales for the 1938 quarter were about $3,522,000, against $6,563,000 a year ago, but gained in March over February.

March business of Spear & Co., retailer of household goods, has shown slight improvement over March, 1937, Nathaniel Spear, president, told stockholders at the annual meeting. In January and February, business was less than last year, he said.

CONTAINER CORP. IS DEFENDANT IN $1,500,000 ACTION

A suit asking $1,500,000 in damages from the Container Corporation of America was filed yesterday in Circuit court by Attorney Samuel A. Ettelson on behalf of the Thomas Paper Stock company and Alvin E. Sandroff. Sandroff is president of the plaintif company.

The suit charged that the Container corporation has engaged in illegal practices and coercion in an attempt to set up a monopoly on the purchase and sale of waste paper in this area. Sandroff alleged in the suit that the Container corporation fostered fraudulent short weight charges against his company.

On Jan. 11 warants charging shortweight in paper purchased from the Goodwill Industries, an organization for the employment of the crippled, were issued against Sandroff and his company. The warants were dismissed a month later for lack of evidence.

WHEAT RALLIES AFTER DROP TO 20 MONTH LOW

Oats and Rye Take Similar Courses.

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$ .81¼	$ .82⅜	$1.41½
Corn	.59⅛	.59⅛	1.28¼
Oats	.27	.27¼	.49¾
Rye	.58⅝	.59⅝	1.16⅝
Soy beans	.96½	.97¼	1.76¼

New low levels for all deliveries of wheat, oats, and rye since July, 1936, were touched early yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade as the result of general liquidation by holders of future contracts. May wheat sold at 81½ cents; May oats at 26 cents, and May rye at 58⅝ cents a bushel at the extreme.

Part of the decline in wheat and oats was recovered later, due mainly to short covering and to support in wheat from cash and export interests. Wheat closed unchanged to ⅝ cent lower, the latter on the May contract. Oats were ⅛ cent lower and rye was 1 cent lower to ¾ cent a bushel higher.

Corn Shows Firmness.

Corn showed independent strength throughout the day, and although there was a decline of a small fraction of a cent a bushel early in sympathy with other grains the close was unchanged to ¼ cent a bushel higher. Soy beans closed ⅝ to 1¼ cents lower with the July and October deliveries at new lows for the season.

Strength in securities and in the Winnipeg grain market and a belief that the decline of more than 10 cents a bushel in wheat futures within the last month fully discounted the excellent outlook for the new crop were said by brokers to have been largely responsible for the rally in that grain.

Predict Huge Wheat Crop.

A winter wheat crop of 717,000,000 bushels, the third largest on record, was estimated yesterday by Chicago statisticians, based on the condition of the crop as of April 1. This compared with 685,000,000 bushels harvested in 1937 and a 1928-'32 average of 623,000,000 bushels.

	Crop, bu.	Cond.	Pct. ac'ge abandoned.
B. W. Snow	698,000,000	78.1	....
Nat C. Murray	735,000,000	80.6	9.7
R. O. Cromwell	713,000,000	....	13.5
H. C. Donovan	710,000,000	....	....
J. E. Bennett	755,000,000	79.7	10.0
Mrs. E. H. Miller	692,000,000	78.6	....
Average	717,000,000	79.2	11.1
April, 1937	656,000,000	73.8	17.0
Final, 1937	685,000,000	....	18.5

An Investigation

OF A SOUND, SOLID BUSINESS OF YOUR OWN WILL BE OPEN TO A FEW MEN FOR CHICAGO AND SURROUNDING TERRITORY.

Men who are without jobs and men who are unprofitably employed should immediately interview the writer of this ad and hear the amazing story of a new invention that is going over big and making men from $40 to as high as $150 comm. a week.

Sales ability is not essential; we will discount sales experience in favor of a genuine desire to work hard and learn.

WE FINANCE YOU for your own business and pay you weekly.

NO INVESTMENT—Nothing to buy—straight and on the level. Elec. unit.

We will grant you a personal interview and you will be amazed at the money-making possibilities this business holds for you—if you qualify. Apply 9 to 4. Ask for Mr. Owen, 6th floor, 203 N. Wabash-av., cor. Lake-st.
WEDNESDAY, APRIL 6.

WHAT KIND OF JOB ARE YOU LOOKING FOR?

Isn't a permanent position with good income and opportunity for advancement with a large company what you want? If you are a serious minded young man interested in your future and if you are 21 to 35 years of age and of neat appearance, Commonwealth Edison Company will consider you for a position in the Appliance Sales Department. If you meet with the above qualifications and you have the right attitude, previous experience is unnecessary. The electrical business is a growing business and men in it receive good percentage plus bonus. Apply Wednesday, Room 2500, 105 West Adams-street, 9 a. m. to 11 a. m. only.

WILL YOU WORK HARD

FOR ABOUT $45 PER WEEK on our new advanced comm. and bonus plan? Will you apply yourself if we actually give you personal help for first month or six weeks?

Do you believe that the fast-growing elec. appliance field holds an opportunity for you? Would you like to have a full time position that offers a real future in one of Chicago's most outstanding concerns? If so, see Mr. Byron, 10 a. m. to 4 p. m., Wednesday.
Employment Dept., 2237 W. Pershing-rd.

A REAL OPPORTUNITY

for men over 21 years of age. Direct sales experience or desire to obtain it, willingness to work 8 hours every day.

If you can meet these requirements, we will immediately place you in the new business dept. of a large furn. concern. No merchandise to sell.

About $26 per week on our draw, account, comm., and bonus plan, with an increase as you gain experience in our business. See Mr. Zuber, 3318 Lincoln-avenue.

MEN.

If you possess sales ability or have had some experience in contacting the public, investigate this opportunity. Local company dealing in full line of home furnishings needs 3 men immediately for special spring campaign. Experience in our line unnecessary. Car helpful but not essential.
